HOUSE CUTS PAY OF 100,000, BUT 700,000 ESCAPE

Rejects 5 Day Week, Furlough Plans.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—In the presence of galleries again jammed with government employés and their families the "runaway" house continued this afternoon and tonight to annihilate proposals to retrench federal expenses by cutting the pay of the bureaucracy.

By a vote of 156 to 175 the house rejected President Hoover's plan for a five day week for per diem employés and an enforced 30 day furlough without pay for annual salaried employés. Mr. Hoover had estimated that this arrangement would save the taxpayers $2 millions dollars a year.

Then the house gave final approval to the pay cut section of the omnibus economy bill as amended last night to provide that salaries over $2,500 be reduced 11 per cent. This pay cut will affect only 100,000 out of the 800,000 federal employés and will save only 12 million dollars compared with the 87 millions the economy committee proposed to save by an 11 per cent reduction of salaries over $1,000.

Half Holiday Retained.

Earlier in the day the house voted to retain the Saturday half holiday which the committee had proposed to suspend in order to save an additional 9 millions. The proposed suspension of the half holiday was knocked out by a vote of 141 to 118.

As the bill stood when the house adjourned shortly after 10 o'clock tonight the bipartisan coalition of insurgents had succeeded in knocking out 64 million of the 200 millions the economy committee claimed would be saved by the omnibus bill.

When the insurgent majority had succeeded in whittling the proposed pay cut savings down from 76 millions to 64 millions to the accompaniment of applause by the government workers in the galleries, Representative E. E. Cox [Dem., Ga.] arose and in a profound silence delivered a solemn warning to the chamber.

Cites Public Demand.

"Evidently this house," he said, "has not heard the rumblings of popular demand for relief from the burden of governmental costs. The anger and wrath that will be visited upon us if we continue the course of the last two days will be virtuous and just. Are not congress and the employés of the government ready to make some sacrifice? The hour has struck when we must take into account the condition of the country. If we fail we shall be swept out of our seats and we shall deserve to be."

"You can't cure a panic with economy," retorted Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.]. "Pass this bill and the panic will still be just as bad tomorrow."

An amendment was inserted in the pay cut resolution reducing the salaries of officers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation from $12,000 to $10,000 a year.

Fail to Ward Off Cut.

An attempt to strike out the entire pay cut plan was defeated when an amendment to that effect offered by Representative William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.] was rejected by a vote of 84 to 183. Previously an amendment offered by Representative Harry P. Beam [Dem., Ill.] which if adopted would have achieved the same result had also been rejected.

A measure of merriment was injected into the tense proceedings just before the house moved on to consideration of title two of the bill.

In all seriousness Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] introduced a "real economy amendment" to supplant the entire pay cut title.

The clerk began solemnly to read a proposal to furlough employés of the prohibition bureau and the bureau of industrial alcohol "for six calendar months." He got no farther when gales of laughter and cheers from the floors and galleries drowned out his voice.

Dry Comes to Rescue.

Above the din Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], ardent dry, was yelling a point of order against the amendment.

"It's the bunk!" he shouted, and got an answering shout from Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] that "the whole bill is the bunk."

BULLETIN.

HONOLULU, April 28.—(AP)—The jury in the Joseph Kahahawai lynching case was locked up for the night at 10 o'clock (3:30 a. m. Friday, Chicago daylight time.) At that time it had been out 29 hours and 40 minutes without showing any signs of having reached a verdict. It will resume deliberations at 9 a. m. tomorrow (2:30 p. m., Friday, Chicago time.)

HONOLULU, April 28.—After deliberating 25 hours, the jury in the Fortescue-Massie murder case is unable to agree. There are persistent reports that this jury of mixed racial strains stands ten to two for acquittal, or eleven to one on the same basis.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley said tonight that Attorney Montgomery Winn, of the defense, had called him by telephone and asked him to agree to accept such a vote as a verdict. Kelley rejected the suggestion.

The defense apparently believes the report of the ten to two division although Kelley discounts it. He declared that reports of division of seven to five are just as reliable.

Jurors Appear Tired.

Judge Charles S. Davis remained in his chambers throughout the day but received no word or request of any kind from the jury room. The jurors walked in and out of the courthouse to meals in a gloomy manner and with set, unsmiling features. They appeared tired.

Judge Davis returned to his chambers in the evening to continue his vigil. He said he would keep the jury out a reasonable time "considering the importance of the case." This is interpreted to mean that unless a verdict is reached it will be late tomorrow evening before the jury is discharged.

No loud arguments have been heard in the jury room, which opens onto a balcony over the park at the rear of the courthouse. Various groups of two or more appear from time to time on this balcony and lean disconsolately over the rails, apparently hopeless.

The first manifestation that the jurors were deadlocked came late this afternoon, when the seven Caucasian members came out of the jury room and stood on the balcony in the rain. Their five colleagues, of oriental and native strain, stayed inside. The seven men stood in a group and talked for several minutes.

"For and Against Navy" Issue.

The division among the jurors, however, is not regarded as so much along racial lines as it is for and against the navy. This is due, it is believed, to the injection of this issue into the final argument made by Kelley when he quoted Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler's "to hell with the admirals" statements.

His defiance of the admirals was the talk of Honolulu today and is expected to have repercussions in political Washington at this most critical time when changes in the government of the islands are under consideration by congress.

Victory for Darrow.

After being out twenty-five hours the jury went to dinner at 5:30 p. m. (11 p. m. Chicago time). Judge Davis ordered it to return two hours later and deliberate until 10 p. m. (3:30 a. m. Friday Chicago time).

Judge Davis expects to pass sentence at once, in the event of conviction, but this is considered to be the most remote of the four possible verdicts. In view of the tough nature of the case, it would be considered a victory for Clarence Darrow, 75 year old lawyer and his associates on the defense, if a mistrial is declared. Two mistrials, it is pointed out, would mean permanent freedom for his clients, which may be the soundest hope of the defense.

Judge Davis instructed the jurors that the following verdicts might be returned. As to Mrs. Fortescue, Lord and Jones, any one or all of them: guilty of second degree murder, guilty of manslaughter, or not guilty. As to Lieut. Massie: guilty as charged, guilty of manslaughter, not guilty by reason of insanity, or not guilty.

Milk Drivers Act Tonight on Wage Cut

BY PAUL POTTER.

Members of the union comprising 7,000 milk wagon drivers in Chicago and its suburbs will meet at 220 South Ashland avenue tonight to act on a tentative agreement made by their officers with officials of Chicago milk companies providing for a wage reduction of between 12 and 14 per cent. It was reported that the drivers were prepared to accept the reduction.

The meeting was called as a result of negotiations that have been under way during the month to reduce the cost of distributing milk sufficiently to justify a reduction of 1 cent a quart and 1 cent a pint in retail milk prices.

Both the drivers' and dealers' spokesmen declined yesterday to confirm the reports that the new union scale, if approved tonight, would be $45 instead of $50 per week, effective May 1.

Changes in the existing commission rate and the minimum number of bottles of milk to be delivered per route, which would bring the pay reduction to between 12 and 14 per cent, were understood to be covered in the new agreement. The drivers recently rejected a salary of $40 a week proposed by the dealers.

Open Wage Negotiations.

Negotiations were opened yesterday afternoon at the Hotel La Salle between the dealers' wage committee and seven officers of the dairy employés' union, comprising inside dairy workers.

While the conference ended without any announced offers from either party, it was understood that the dairy plant workers expected some reduction in the scale, which has been $44 a week as a minimum. Foremen, cashiers, and skilled workers receive higher pay. Another meeting is to be held next Tuesday.

At the same time it was reported that dairy farmers might be asked to enter into negotiations with the distributors and be asked to accept a further reduction in the price paid to them for milk. Don M. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, which represents 18,000 farm members, declared he had heard that such a move on the part of the dealers was contemplated.

Says Farmers Will Fight.

"You may be sure that if this is true the farmers will put up a stiff fight," Mr. Geyer stated. "Twice in sixteen months the farmers have accepted drastic cuts in milk prices to enable the dealers to reduce the retail price of milk in Chicago and suburbs 2 cents a quart.

"The farmer has given by far the larger share of these reductions, one of which came on Jan. 1, 1931, and the other the first of this year. We recognize that the dealers are carrying a heavier burden of surplus and lower volume of sales than when our agreements were made. But we insist that milk distribution costs are too high in Chicago."

Dealers assert that with wholesale milk prices continuing to decline they are carrying a burdensome surplus from the Pure Milk association's members "out of line with current and prospective market conditions."

Church Wins Over Simpson by 73 Votes

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Ralph E. Church won by 73 votes over James Simpson Jr., in the neck and neck race for Republican nomination for congress in the 10th, or Evanston, district yesterday at the conclusion of the official canvass. The total vote showed: Church, 29,324; Simpson, 29,251; Congressman Carl R. Chindblom, 23,783. The close finish opened possibilities of a recount.

In the unofficial police figures, Simpson had led Church by 200 to 300 votes. The official figures on the vote cast in the 344 precincts inside Chicago swung the lead to Church.

The contest in the 10th district—which stretches from North avenue to the Wisconsin boundary and embraces the north shore suburbs in the towns of Evanston, Niles, New Trier and Northfield, and the whole of Lake county—from the start was the liveliest of the campaign.

The Official Vote Results.

Combining the official returns of the canvass of the Cook county towns by the county clerk, the 344 city precincts by the election board and the Lake county vote by the Waukegan officials, the following totals were shown:

	Church.	Simpson.	Chindblom.
Chicago precincts	15,757	16,639	9,652
Cook county towns	8,320	5,920	6,122
Lake county	5,247	6,692	8,009
Totals	29,324	29,251	23,783

Simpson carried the Chicago precincts; Church carried the north shore towns in Cook county; Chindblom led in Lake county.

The 344 city precincts in the district are scattered in 9 north side wards, reaching from North avenue to the city limits, and the rest of the district embraces the north shore suburbs from Evanston to the Wisconsin line.

The battle evoked much interest by virtue of the fact that the home of the national W. C. T. U. is in Evanston and by reason of the positions on prohibition taken by the contenders.

Avowed Foe of Dry Law.

Mr. Simpson, who is 27 years old, the son of James Simpson of Marshall Field & Co. and chairman of the Chicago plan commission, got into the field last summer as an avowed liberal. Mr. Church and Congressman Childblom are former drys who have become modificationists. Last winter Mr. Church was one of the five Cook county house members who voted against repeal of the state search and seizure act. He and Mr. Chindblom hit the sawdust trail simultaneously some six weeks before the primary.

SHANGHAI, April 29 [Friday].—(AP)—Four of the highest Japanese officials in Shanghai, including Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, commander of the army here and leader of the Japanese forces in the Shanghai fighting, were seriously injured by a bomb explosion here today.

The officials were sitting in a grandstand at a celebration in honor of the birthday of Emperor Hirohito. The stand was filled with high Japanese diplomatic and military officials. Among those injured was Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China.

Wild Confusion Ensues.

An unidentified person, believed to have been a Corean, tossed the bomb into the stand, entirely wrecking it. Wild confusion resulted in the large crowd. Others in the stand besides Minister Shigemitsu and Gen. Shirakawa were Maj. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda and Consul General Mural.

The two most seriously injured were Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China and director of the recent peace parleys here, and Consul General Kuramatsu Mural.

Also among the injured was Maj. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, who began the Shanghai battle as commander, but was replaced by Gen. Yoshikawa.

Following the blast the huge crowd closed in on the man accused of hurling the bomb. Japanese military officers attending the review sought to establish order. They rescued the man accused, but it was not known immediately whether he was dead or alive. Officials said Gens. Hoshizawa and Uyeda were not fatally hurt.

Foreigners Are on Stand.

Scores of foreign military officers, including a number of officers of the United States marine force and the 31st U. S. infantry, narrowly escaped possible serious injury from the bomb.

The foreign officers were seated on the platform until a few minutes before the bomb exploded as guests of the Japanese. Most of them departed, however, when the Japanese began a series of speeches intended chiefly for the Japanese residents. The Americans were some distance away when the bomb exploded.

The American marine and army headquarters said that as far as was known none of the American officers was hurt.

SHERIFF CLOSES OASIS ON PLAINT OF FARM WIVES

Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county promised last night that farmers in western Lake county will be home on time for dinner after the weekly auction of cattle and horses at Grayslake in the future. The sheriff made the promise, especially directed to farmers' wives, after a raid on the Grayslake hotel resulted in confiscation of 200 bottles of beer and a quantity of whisky and the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Angly, owners of the hotel.

For several weeks the sheriff had received complaints from wives, who said their husbands either did not come home from the auction or came home in such a state that they spurned the evening meal for their beds. The sheriff sent Deputies Russell McBride and Ralph Egarton to investigate.

The deputies seized the liquor and the proprietor and his wife. The Anglys were charged with possession of the liquor and released on bonds of $2,000 each. Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt set their trial for May 6.

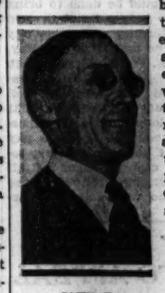
ALDERMEN VOTE PAY ROLL CUT OF $15,457,000

Retrenchment Plan of Mayor Wins.

Mayor Cermak's proposals for salary retrenchment in the 1932 city budget, perhaps the most drastic ever attempted by a Chicago governmental body, were approved by the finance committee yesterday and recommended to the council for passage. It was estimated they will save taxpayers $15,457,740 below 1931 appropriation levels.



JOHN F. CULLERTON.

The proposals, without touching basic pay scales, will cost city employés 78 days' pay, approximately two and a half months, by means of a schedule of payless vacations and docked pay checks. The proposals, four in number, as they were submitted to the finance committee by John F. Cullerton, superintendent of employment, follow:

1. Abolish all vacations and sick leaves. This, it is estimated, will save $1,000,000.

Layoff to Save $4,775,179.

2. Lay off every city employé one month without pay. In most departments this would be accomplished, beginning May 1, by laying off 12½ per cent of the department personnel each month. The payless vacations are expected to save $4,775,179.

3. Retroactive to March 1, dock all employés paid on a monthly basis of four days' pay a month. Limit per diem employés to a maximum of five days' work a week. The retroactive provision in this proposal is actually a saving to monthly employés, since they are now being docked six days' pay monthly under the continuation ordinance. These pay deductions, it is estimated, will save $6,632,325.

4. Abolish all maintenance allowances on personally owned automobiles used on city business. This is expected to save $338,681.

$2,280,554 Already Saved.

The estimated savings under these four proposals total $12,746,185. An additional $2,280,554 was saved by pay deductions during January and February. Together the total savings are estimated at $15,457,740 for the entire year. This is about two and a half million dollars more than would have been saved under the continuation ordinance plan of docking employés six days' pay monthly throughout the year. Further retrenchments will be made in the purchase of materials and supplies.

Under the continuation ordinance plan, employés would have been paid for 294 of the 366 days in the year. This included fourteen days' vacation with pay. Under the new plan they will be paid for 288 days, including a 30 day vacation without pay.

The effect on the average city employé may be seen by applying these deductions to the salaries of city firemen and patrolmen, most of whom get $2,500 a year. Under the continuation ordinance a patrolman would get $2,006 a year, with two weeks' vacation. Under the new plan he will get $1,965, with a month's vacation. Thus he loses $41 in pay, but gains two weeks' additional vacation.

Only One Alternative.

"The only alternative to this plan is wholesale layoffs," Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, told the finance committee. "Some of the less essential employés will have to go, anyway."

Introduction of Mayor Cermak's recommendations precipitated the liveliest session the finance committee has had in a long time. Aldermen repeatedly broke up the general discussion to gather in small groups and speculate upon the probable effect of the retrenchments.

The proposals were in the form of an ordinance which will take the place of the continuation ordinance under which the city now operates pending completion of the 1932 budget. Although Mayor Cermak had requested that the proposals be pushed through before May 1, in order to allow the layoffs to start next week, it was agreed that the measure will be ordered deferred and published when it comes up before the council today.

The proposal to eliminate maintenance of employés' automobiles, while a part of the general proposal of Mayor Cermak, will be transmitted to the council as a separate ordinance. This will hit the pockets of the aldermen themselves, among others. They get $60 a month for operation of their automobiles.

Irwin Knott, representative of the electrical workers' union, said that members of his union employed by the city would refuse to use their cars, and require the city to furnish automobiles, if the maintenance is cut out. At present the city electricians, to many of whom automobiles are essential in the maintenance and repair of street lights, get $90 a month for use of their cars. They are willing to accept $72 a month, but no less, Knott said. It was said the city may make an exception in the cases of these employés and grant them the maintenance.

Unions Oppose It.

It was pointed out to the committee that in some departments, such as pumping stations, dairy inspectors, and electrical inspectors, it would be impossible to lay off employés for 30 days at a time. The ordinance gave department heads discretionary power in arranging layoffs.

Another point which is to be the subject of conferences between a finance subcommittee and labor leaders is the compensation of union employés who are paid on a monthly scale based on the hourly wage of their unions. These employés have been docked 20 per cent by the city under the continuation ordinance, but some of their pay rolls have been held up pending a decision by the council whether they should be subjected also to a 20 per cent cut which their unions recently accepted from private contractors. Representatives of the union men said they would refuse to take both cuts.

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] pointed out that municipal court employés have been docked only one day's pay a month under the continuation ordinance, while other city employés have been docked six days. He asked what could be done to bring the court, whose judges fix their own budget, into conformity with other city departments in the matter of economy.

Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the sanitary district finance committee, arranged yesterday to sell $500,000 worth of the district's 1931 tax warrants to loop banks. The trustees will meet today to approve pay rolls for the last half of January, totaling $170,000, and payment of all salary arrears, totaling $187,000, to the 449 employés who were dismissed recently.

COUNTY RUSHES PLANS TO APPEAL SALARY DECISION

Hopes of county employés that they would get immediate payments for the payless vacations of last summer, and for the 15 per cent pay cut as a result of the court decision holding those deductions illegal, were dashed yesterday. No payments will be made before October, at the earliest, while appeals to higher courts are being taken by the county. County Attorney Hayden N. Bell and Louis Gelman, his assistant, were busy yesterday preparing briefs and a transcript of testimony to be presented to the Appellate court. The ruling was made Wednesday by Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor. The pay cut which he held illegal had been retroactive to Dec. 1, 1931.

Hotel Chef Given Medal by French Government

Jean Gazabat, chef at the Hotel Sherman, was given the Merite Agricole medal of the French government yesterday "in recognition of his service to the French cause." The medal was presented by the French consul general, Rene Weiller.

MAYOR REQUESTS F. X. BUSCH TO BE SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Hopes to Appoint 2 New Members Today.

Mayor Cermak was hopeful last night of being able to submit two appointments to the board of education at the meeting of the city council today, although he did not, at the time, have acceptances from men he plans to name.

Francis X. Busch, corporation counsel under the late Mayor Dever and during the first few months of the present administration, has been offered one of the positions, the mayor said. He would give no hint as to the identity of the other, from whom he expects an answer this morning.

Asks Busch to Reconsider.

Although Mr. Busch rejected the offer when it was first proposed to him, the mayor said he had asked the lawyer to reconsider his decision. Tenders also have been refused by John P. Harding, the restaurant man, and by Julius Smietanka, former member of the board.

Because of the financial condition of the school system and its need for reorganization the mayor said he must have trustees of more than average ability, which has limited the field of choice.

Last May the mayor appointed Robert F. Carr and Mrs. Helen Hefferan to the board, and with the two new appointments will have four trustees. The four will be a minority of the eleven members, but, with some of the holdovers favoring a cut in expenditures, the mayor may obtain sufficient votes to produce some real economy.

Sends Message to Trustees.

The others on the board were appointed by a former mayor. To these the former chief executive of the city sent a telegram Tuesday reading: "Would appreciate very much your assistance in electing Joseph Burkhardt to the position of secretary of the board of education at your next meeting. He is well qualified."

The request was not carried out at the board meeting Wednesday because some of the holdover trustees were absent. This position is now held by Charles E. Gilbert, who has been employed by the board for 42 years. His salary is $7,500 a year.

The mayor also decided yesterday to put the brakes on the spending of the school board. He took this course after conferring with Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, and Ald. James B. Bowler, one of the council leaders.

As a result, the city council will not pass the 1932 tax levy of the school board today. Without council approval of the tax levy the board cannot issue anticipation warrants against its 1932 taxes, and consequently cannot borrow money on those taxes.

Objects to Its Budget.

The reason for the mayor's attitude is that the school board proposes to spend considerably more than he believes it is possible to obtain in taxes from the property owners. For educational, building, free text book, playground and pension purposes, the board has asked the council to pass a tax levy ordinance to provide $68,910,030 in revenue. This ordinance was deferred at the last council meeting.

What part of the 1932 taxes will be collected it is impossible to forecast accurately at present. It is known that the levies must be much higher than for 1930, because real estate and other property has depreciated in value, which means lower valuations for taxing purposes.

Predict 43 Per Cent Collection.

Total collection of 1930 taxes, now in progress, is slightly more than $104,000,000, of an aggregate county tax bill of $290,283,000. It is expected, however, that 43 per cent of the 1930 taxes will be paid. On that basis the board would be justified in an expenditure of only $29,631,000 from taxes, instead of $68,910,030.

The school board passed its $90,000,000 budget in the face of advice from the D. F. Kelly committee that it could not be financed. President Lewis E. Myers and Trustees William D. McJunkin and Carr voted against the budget. The old crowd, together with Mrs. Hefferan voted for the budget. It is now claimed that the board is without legal authority to change its budget, but it is asserted it can reduce expenditures.

"Before school opens in September," said Trustee McJunkin yesterday, "we are going to be compelled to reduce our budget expenditures. So far those entrusted by the people with the responsibilities of office have not given serious consideration to reducing the cost of government.

"What has happened in the last few years is simply this: Large appropriations have been made with little or no thought to the serious consequences to follow. Large appropriations mean an increase in taxes.

Counsels Against Delay.

"I don't mean to say that the school system should be the only governmental body to reduce its budget. It should be the last to be obliged to curtail expenses. But other governmental bodies will eventually have to reduce to a figure commensurate with the taxes paid. The longer they delay facing that fact, the more serious will the situation become.

"Many taxpayers today cannot pay taxes due and past due. Unless some relief is assured the overburdened taxpayer, a still greater percentage will soon be unable to meet them.

"There is one thing I will never agree to, and that is the shortening of the school term to less than nine months. It is extremely important to keep the children busily engaged for a full term, even though it may become necessary to eliminate some of the special courses and activities.

"In my opinion it will be necessary to make substantial reduction in our expenditures."

His plan for cutting expenses will be considered by the board at its special meeting Monday. At that time two new school trustees will sit on the board.

Unarmed Man Killed by Dry Raider's Machine Gun

Connersville, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—Clarence Plough, 45, alleged operator of a whisky still, machine gunned by Sheriff Powell Woodward in a liquor raid on the Clayton Stevens farm, southwest of here, died today.

Coroner H. U. Smelzer, investigating the shooting, will return a verdict within a few days. Smelzer announced that Plough died of hemorrhages from the wound in his right thigh. It is the first prohibition slaying in this county.

Plough refused to obey several commands to halt and Sheriff Woodward shot into the ground two or three times in an effort to halt him, the officers said. After he had fallen Plough endeavored to reach to his left hip pocket and it was thought that he was trying to get a gun, they said, but a search revealed that he was unarmed.

Two other men, who had aided Plough in the operation of the still, said by him to be residents of Lexington, Ky., left the scene of the raid about half an hour before the officers arrived. The raiders seized the still, which was in operation, three gallons of whisky, and three barrels of mash.

The raid was conducted by Woodward, police, and the owner of the farm. A quantity of mash and whisky had been found earlier and the officers had waited for the still to be in operation to make the raid.

An acquaintance of Plough's told officers that Plough had said last Sunday: "If they get me they'll have to get me running, for I won't stay."

Plough escaped from the officers two years or more ago when a liquor raid was made in another part of the township not many miles distant from the scene of the fatal shooting yesterday.

Plough, who had been living in Franklin county not far from the Fayette county line, is survived by a daughter, mother and three sisters.

I. C. C. EXPLAINS STATUS OF GAS RATE HEARINGS

Lack of Evidence Delays Ruling.

The Illinois commerce commission issued a statement yesterday reviewing the progress of the natural gas rate hearings now pending and defending itself from blame for whatever may have occurred in pushing to a conclusion the hearings affecting Chicago and northern Illinois.

Progress in the Chicago cases has been considerably slower than those affecting central Illinois, the commission says. Up to the present time, the statement declares, the various municipalities and civic organizations participating in the litigation have offered no evidence bearing on the cases, but "have confined their activities to cross-examination of witnesses called by the People Gas Light and Coke company, and are still engaged in conducting such cross-examination."

"Since these cases have been on hearing," the commission states, "the commission has repeatedly urged representatives of the city of Chicago and other intervening municipalities and organizations to present any evidence they might have as speedily as possible, but as yet no evidence has been offered and as near as the commission as been able to determine no substantial progress has been made to prepare any such evidence."

The commission, the statement points out, has power under the Illinois commerce act only to fix reasonable public utility rates upon conclusion of all evidence, in the manner prescribed by the act. The act entitles all parties to a full and complete hearing, with the right of appeal to the courts if dissatisfied with the commission's decision.

N. Y. Penthouse Speakeasy Raided; 18 Couples Freed

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Prohibition agents, who for nine days have been raiding small basement resorts, turned their attention today to an elaborately furnished speakeasy atop a 21 story building in East 47th street. They found eighteen couples seated on expensive lounges, dancing or ordering drinks at a bar near which a guest dressed in a dinner coat sat playing a piano. The agents ordered the guests out, then seized champagne, whisky, wines and liquors valued at $2,000.

Retired Sea Captain Kills Self; Blame Market Losses

Torkil Lindale, 54 years old, after many years as a captain of small vessels on the high seas, retired several years ago. He invested his savings in stocks and settled down with his son, Morley Lindale, at 4904 Byron street. Yesterday Capt. Lindale went into the basement of the home and killed himself with a charge from a shotgun. The son said the captain had been worried over the loss of his savings through market depreciation of the stocks.

WOMAN SLAIN IN BATTLE AFTER KILLING POLICE

Mowing Lawn Starts Two Hour Gun Fight.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ella May Thompson Alger, 29 year old brunette, killed one policeman and was herself killed after holding thirty officers at bay in a two hour gun battle today. The shooting resulted from a quarrel with a neighbor woman over the noise the latter made mowing her lawn.

Mrs. Alger, whose regard for J. V. Alger, her one time employer, once before led to her arrest on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, clutched a picture of him as she ran from the back door of her frame bungalow to her death. She had been forced out by tear gas bombs tossed into the house by the besiegers, but came out firing from a police service revolver given her by a suspended city jailer. She was killed in the return fire of the police.

Kills Policeman at Door.

Policeman Paul Donath, member of a radio car team, first appeared at Mrs. Alger's bungalow in response to a call from Mrs. Pauline Pohl, Mrs. Alger's next door neighbor, at whom Mrs. Alger had fired, because she objected to the noise of Mrs. Pohl mowing her lawn.

As Donath rang the door bell, Mrs. Alger fired through the glass, and cried out, "I will teach you police to come to my house without a warrant."

Donath fell, shot through the chest. His partner, Policeman Percy Gumby, carried him to the car, where he died.

Within a few minutes a police riot squad surrounded the house and pleaded with the woman to surrender. Mrs. Alger answered their pleas with shots until the police resorted to tear gas bombs.

Ex-Husband Sues Ex-Employer.

Mrs. Alger, as Miss Ella Thompson, worked for Baldwin, a wealthy business man, as secretary, six or seven years ago, and Baldwin befriended her. He said today he had supplied funds for her honeymoon with Roy Alger when they were married. Mrs. Alger is said to have recently won an annullment of her marriage to Alger, who filed a suit for $100,000 damages against Baldwin several months ago, accusing him of alienating his wife's affections.

"I had no connection with her troubles except an innocent one," Baldwin said tonight.

The woman was first arrested last October 2, when she clamored for admittance to Baldwin's apartment, and threw away a blackjack and revolver when she was forced to leave. Later on she was given a mental examination by physicians, as a result of which she was placed temporarily under a nurse's care.

STEAL SYNAGOGUE'S SAFE.

Burglars yesterday broke into the synagogue of the Congregation Atereth Zion, 1132 North Spaulding avenue, and carried off a 400 pound safe. There was no money in the safe, which contained records of the congregation, Abe Bernick, treasurer, told police.

46 STATES WET IN NATION-WIDE POLL ON DRY LAW

Two Favor Prohibition by Less than 1 Pct.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Seventy-three voters out of every hundred in the United States favor a repeal of the 18th amendment, as evidenced by the final figures in the Literary Digest's nation-wide prohibition poll, which will be published in tomorrow's edition of the magazine.

A total of 4,668,527 ballots were returned in this referendum. The final count shows 1,236,660, or 26.49 per cent, voting for continuance of the 18th amendment and 3,431,877, or 73.51 per cent, favoring repeal.

Kansas and North Carolina are the only two states giving a majority for prohibition, Kansas voting dry by 397 votes out of 84,121 ballots and North Carolina voting dry by 68 votes out of 64,790 ballots.

Northeast States Wettest.

The wettest section of the United States as evidenced by the return in this poll is the group of states from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic ocean and approximately north of the Mason-Dixon line, with the dampest concentration in the seaboard states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Rhode Island.

The driest section of the country extends from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the Atlantic with the exception of Missouri, Louisiana, and Florida. The balance of the middle western states show a sentiment wetter than the southern group but considerably drier than the northeastern section of the country.

The Rocky mountain states are slightly less wet than the country at large, while the Pacific coast states give a majority for repeal higher than the national ratio.

33 States Over 2 to 1 Wet.

Thirty-three states and the District of Columbia return wet majorities ranging from 2 to 1 to over 7 to 1 for repeal.

Nine states, finally voting more than 4 to 1 wet, are Connecticut, Illinois, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, and Wisconsin.

The nine states voting between 3 and 4 to 1 wet in the final returns include California, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Mexico, North Dakota, Washington, and Wyoming.

The fifteen states returning between 2 and 3 to 1 majorities for prohibition repeal are Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Maine, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Indiana, Missouri, and Arizona.

Trend Is Toward Repeal.

The final tabulation in the 1930 Literary Digest prohibition poll giving three options on the ballot instead of two showed a total tabulation of 4,806,464 votes, of which 1,464,098, or 30.46 per cent, were for enforcement while 1,399,314, or 29.11 per cent, were for modification to admit light wines and beers, and 1,943,052, or 40.43 per cent were in favor of repeal.

In the poll of two years ago, five states were dry while in the current poll only two states are dry.

In the 1930 poll, Kansas had a dry percentage of 57.67 while in the present referendum her prohibition majority is 50.23 per cent.

North Carolina voted 50.66 per cent dry in the poll of two years ago and 50.05 per cent in the current returns. Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Tennessee, dry in 1930, have joined the wet column.

The close parallel is pointed out between this referendum and the national plebiscite taken in Finland "whereby that country, last winter, abolished prohibition after trying it for twelve years."

A total of 772,901 votes were polled in the Finnish election of which 28.10 per cent voted in favor of retention of prohibition, 1.40 per cent favored modification and 70.50 per cent favored repeal of their prohibition laws.

NATION VOTES 3 TO 1 AGAINST PROHIBITION ON 4,668,537 BALLOTS

SENATE REJECTS HEFLIN PLEA TO OUST BANKHEAD

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—While former Senator J. Thomas Heflin sat leaning intently forward today, the senate in two ringing roll calls blasted his hopes of unseating his successor, John H. Bankhead, Alabama Democrat.

By the first vote it rejected, 63 to 19, a motion by Senator Hastings [Rep., Del.] to declare void the 1930 election in which Bankhead defeated Heflin.

By the second it approved, 64 to 18, the resolution of Senators George [Dem., Ga.] and Bratton [Dem., N. M.], declaring Bankhead duly elected senator and entitled to his seat.

Slowly rising, as if stunned by the overwhelming rejection of his long standing contest, Heflin, with cheeks flushed and broad shoulders stooped, walked from the chamber, pausing momentarily at the door for a final look back. Friends were gathering about Bankhead to congratulate him.

John Vitlano, 812 South Leavitt street, interrupted the evening meal of a dozen diners in the restaurant at 311 South Crawford avenue last night when he drove his truck, laden with fruits and vegetables, into the restaurant front. Vitlano was driving east out of an alley and misjudged his distance as he turned north. No one was injured.

Choose 6 Year Old

St. Joseph, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—Gertrude Gartz, 6 years old, a blue-eyed blond, was chosen queen of Berrien county school children from a dozen juvenile charmers representing rural schools in the St. Joseph High school tonight. When the children's parade begins its march down the streets of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph as part of the tenth annual southwestern Michigan blossom festival May 4, Queen Gertrude will occupy the first float.

Evelyn Louise Waldo, 1931 queen, surrendered her crown last night. Onalee Haas, 6 years old, was selected as first lady in waiting to the new queen. Gertrude is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Gartz, farmers of Benton Harbor, and a student of the Johnson school.

DOGGY AIR RUINS MEALS, WITNESS INFORMS COURT

George H. Matthews, 5350 Broadway, complained before Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell yesterday that he cannot eat his breakfast because the spring breeze drifting through his dining room carries strange doggy odors from next door. He was a witness against Mrs. Dorothy Eagles, manager of the North Shore Animal shelter, 5352 Broadway, who was brought before Judge O'Connell on a charge of maintaining a nuisance. Matthews is president of the Chicago Plumbing and Heating company.

Judge O'Connell dismissed the case on the grounds that Mrs. Eagles is not the owner and not in control of the shelter, which is owned by a corporation. The complaint was signed by Matthews and Policeman Joseph B. Tigerman after neighbors complained to police.

Neighbors testified that the howls and barks of the 62 dog inmates began from 1 to 3 a. m. and continued until just before their own alarm clocks rang.

Mrs. John Finnegan, 1047 North Shore avenue, vice president of the corporation, said the dogs were quiet unless disturbed. One neighbor took the pains to ring the shelter's doorbell at 3 a. m. just to make them bark, she said.

BOGUS NOTE CASE APPEAL DENIED BY BRITISH LORDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—The house of lords, sitting as the supreme tribunal of the land, today denied the appeal of Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., an engraving firm, against a judgment awarded the Bank of Portugal when it was discovered that the engravers had been tricked into printing $5,000,000 worth of genuine Portuguese notes by a gang of crooks.

LORD SANKEY. [A. P. Photo.]

The bank, which paid out good money for the unauthorized issue, claimed $5,000,000 originally. It was first awarded $2,845,000 by a lower court. The engravers appealed and the amount was reduced to $1,500,000. Both sides then appealed to the house of lords.

Charge Is Upheld.

Today's judgment of the five law lords by a vote of 3 to 2 upheld the charge of negligence and raises the bank's recovery to $2,227,000, based on current exchange rates. The engraving company was deceived by a gang headed by one mysterious Mr. Marang, who posed as an agent of the Portuguese government. The government had granted Waterlow a commission to print the country's notes.

"No suggestion has been made or can be made against the honesty of Messrs. Waterlow. They are just the victim of Marang's fraud," Viscount Sankey, lord high chancellor, declared in giving the judgment. "I have come to the conclusion that the bank had no other alternative but to exchange good notes for the unauthorized ones."

Two Lords Dissent.

The two dissenting lords held that the bank had not suffered a loss, for it merely had to exchange one piece of paper for another in withdrawing Marang's fake issue.

The case had been in the courts forty-three days and was one of the costliest which has been heard in years.

STORES' 'GIFTS' TO SERRITELLA 'CHARITY' TOLD

Witness Traces Ducks to Capone Soup Kitchen.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

HERMAN LEVIN.

The political benevolences of Dan Serritella, henchman of Al Capone and city sealer under the former city administration, were somewhat sketchily described yesterday by witnesses testifying before a jury in the court of Judge James J. Kelly.

It appeared from the testimony that Serritella believed in feeding the poor at Christmas time—especially the poor who voted in his ward—so long as others paid the bills.

Serritella and Harry Hochstein, his former chief deputy, a 20th ward politician, are on trial on a charge that they conspired to accept bribes, commit extortions, and to defraud the public of millions of dollars through plots to allow merchants to short weight their customers.

Tell of Store "Donations."

Witnesses produced yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys Harold M. Keele and Henry Seyfarth described how, just before Christmas of 1930, many trucks owned by some of the large chain grocery and meat stores in Chicago pulled up to a warehouse on the south side. Great stores of bread, canned goods, meats, and candies were unloaded. But nary a bill for the goods was presented, the witnesses said.

Other witnesses had testified that Serritella had presented lists of provisions which each group of chain stores was to "donate" to the cause. The merchants' reward for this, the witnesses said, was immunity from prosecution for violations of the short weight ordinances.

Serritella was also accused yesterday of having permitted representatives of the National Tea stores to remove from the official files of his office all records of past violations by that company. In another instance, a witness charged, Serritella handed a bunch of files in court cases to an assistant and told him to "take care of these." This witness was not permitted to say what he did, but the state promised to show that the cases were all dismissed.

Describes Delivery by Stores.

The "donations" of groceries and supplies by merchants alleged to have been favored by Serritella and Hochstein were described by Herman Levin, a deputy inspector in the city sealer's office. He testified that Al Tallinger, Serritella's secretary, had directed him to go to 3022 South Wells street to direct the packing of Christmas baskets.

Q.—By Mr. Keele—Give the names on the trucks and what they brought. A.—A Feilchenfeld (south side meat market chain) truck brought ducks and chickens. A National Tea company truck brought 1,000 cans of corn, 1,000 cans of tea, sugar, half pound bags of candy, coffee. A Novak truck brought a couple of barrels of hams. The General Markets truck brought a couple of barrels of raw hams.

Q.—Who else was present at the warehouse? A.—Some twenty or thirty men. I understood they were precinct captains in Serritella's ward. They packed the baskets.

Q.—Did Hochstein call you on that day? A.—Yes, he asked me how things were going along. That was all.

Q.—Did you pay for any of that merchandise? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Were any bills presented to you? A.—No, sir.

Court Attachés Surprised.

Mr. Keele then turned the witness over for cross-examination. Court attachés expressed surprise that Levin had not been asked whether Hochstein had ordered that the ducks be held out for Phil D'Andrea (Capone henchman). The prosecutor had told the jury Levin would so testify.

On cross-examination Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short asked the witness these questions:

Q.—Or unusual? A.—No, sir.

Mr. Short went to other questions then, and it appeared that the state had been put in a bad light for having told the jury Levin would relate the duck incident. But just before the witness left the stand Mr. Short plunged headlong into the state's very arms.

He asked:

Q.—Did Mr. Hochstein ever ask you to hold out the ducks for Phil D'Andrea? A.—No, he didn't.

State Uncovers Evidence.

Prosecutor Keele flashed in with a question, "Who did?" and the defense attorneys chorused vehement objections.

Judge Kelly, ruling on the objections, said: "No, you gentlemen raised the question on cross examination. You cannot bar the state from going into it now."

The witness then testified that Al Tallinger, Serritella's secretary, had given the order to hold out the ducks for Phil D'Andrea. The latter, bodyguard for Al Capone, is said to have diverted the ducks to a soup kitchen at which Capone was supposed to be donating meals to the poor.

Frank Kelly, another deputy inspector, testified to an incident which he said occurred in August, 1930.

"Mr. Serritella asked me to bring the court files to his office," Kelly said. "When I brought them in there some men went through them and took out all the records of cases against the National Tea company."

On cross examination Kelly said he did not know the purpose of Serritella in having the National Tea company files removed.

GOLF BAG GUNMAN WINS FREEDOM ON COURT RULING

Evidence Against Hunt Is Ordered Suppressed.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Walter Buczkiewicz, Colton Ankelbrent, Paul Luther, Fred Haas, and Erick Krueger, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Rudolph F. Desort.

Sam Hunt, the golf bag gunman of the Capone gang, won his third concealed weapons case yesterday. Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green sustained a motion to suppress the evidence against him. The court ruled that Hunt was arrested without sufficient cause and consequently illegally searched.

JUDGE T. A. GREEN

A jury had been sworn and the opening statements heard, but the trial was terminated by Judge Green's ruling while the first witness was on the stand. Prosecutor Donald Thompson demanded to know why Judge Green considered that the evidence of the gun, alleged to have been found on Hunt, was inadmissable, and cited the Illinois Supreme court's ruling in the case of Anthony (Red) Kissane, which he called analogous. The judge said the evidence was unconstitutional and that he did not want to hear any more about the matter, whereupon the prosecutor, his case having collapsed, nol prossed it.

State Tells Its Evidence.

In his opening statement Mr. Thompson said the state would show that Detective John Meyer was assigned to the narcotic squad of Lieut. William Cusack; that his duties took him all over the city, and that he had authority to arrest a man for any cause. He said the evidence would show that on the night of March 21 a robbery was committed on the south side and that the next day Meyer, having a description of one of the robbers, arrested Hunt as answering this description.

The policeman took the stand and testified that he paid particular attention to this robbery report because of the sum involved, $500. He said he had information that the robbers who had been active on the south side might be found in the vicinity of 71st street and Jeffery avenue. Being off duty, he went over there and saw two men walking, he said.

"It was cold and snowing and they had their coat collars turned up," the policeman testified. "I followed them for a block and then stopped them. I put my gun against Hunt's side and showed him my badge. I felt of his pocket and asked him what he had there. 'I'm rodded,' he said." Prosecutor Thompson questioned the witness.

Many Objections Sustained.

Q.—Why did you go down there? [Defense Attorney Tyrrell Richardson objected and was sustained.]

Q.—Did you search him? [Objection sustained.]

Q.—Did you find anything on him? [Objection sustained.]

At this point Judge Green announced his ruling on the motion to suppress, which had been reserved until the hearing of the evidence. The motion was made at the opening of trial on Wednesday, before the entry of the plea of not guilty.

Mr. Thompson said he wished to be heard and the judge took the attorneys into his chambers.

"This case is analogous to the Kissane case," said the prosecutor. "Drury and Howe were walking through the loop and they arrested Kissane as a suspect in a robbery case. They searched him and found a gun, and the Supreme court said that was a legal search."

"There is a distinction in that Drury and Howe knew Kissane and this policeman did not know Hunt," said the judge.

"This is a stronger case for that very reason," said the prosecutor. "Drury and Howe might arrest Kissane at any time for any reason, but this policeman didn't know who Hunt was. He arrested him for a specific purpose because he answered the description of the robber."

Twice before Hunt has defeated gun toting charges, once when he was caught with a gun in a golf bag and another time when he was arrested after a mysterious shooting in Grant park.

BOY HIT BY GOLF BALL GROWS 8 INCHES IN 2 YEARS; SEEKS $20,000

Cleveland, O., April 28.—[Special.]—A golf ball bouncing off the skull of Bernard Haag, 14 year old caddie, brought the tall, towheaded youth eight inches of height in less than two years and today resulted in a $20,000 damage suit against the golfer whose drive struck him.

The boy, 5 feet 10½ inches tall, appeared today as plaintiff against Lowell E. Southern, vice president of the D. C. Pierce company.

Bernard charges that while caddying at the Westwood Country club on May 26, 1930, a golf ball driven by Southern struck him in the head and caused concussion of the brain, shattered nerves, bad memory, weakened eyes, decayed teeth, dull disposition, and retarded his progress in school, but not his growth.

Dr. A. H. Bruening testified that the pineal gland in the boy's head had been injured by the blow and that his phenomenal growth since then probably was caused by the damage. The jury is expected to get the case tomorrow afternoon.

STATE FINISHES ITS CASE AGAINST CONNOLLY, JOYCE

Auto Dealer Calls Canal Bill Forgery.

The state yesterday closed its case against Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent of the sanitary district, and Donald R. Joyce, former superintendent of vehicle maintenance, who are on trial in the court of Judge John Prystalski charged with forgery.

T. L. CONNOLLY.

Joseph M. Ragalie, former owner of an automobile repair company at 3939 5th avenue, was the chief witness in support of the state's contention that the defendants cashed a check for $2,200 in payment of forged bills for automobile hire during the district's whoopee era.

Documents introduced in evidence showed that according to the sanitary district records $2,200 had been paid to the Ragalie company for the rent of automobiles used by sanitary district officials.

No Autos for Hire.

Ragalie, on the stand yesterday, denied that his company had automobiles for hire. He said that he had never billed the district for the service and had never received any money in payment. The Ragalie bills in the sanitary records were forged, he said, and had not come from his concern.

He told of receiving a visit from Connolly and Joyce, who is a son-in-law of Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the district. They showed him a check for $2,200 and said that it had been made payable to him by mistake, he testified. They asked, he said, that he indorse and cash it so that they might give the money to its rightful owner.

He accompanied them to the bank, cashed the check and gave Connolly and Joyce the money, Ragalie said. When the defense tried to show that Ragalie had been intimidated into testifying for the state, the witness said that he had been asked only to tell the truth.

Woman Corroborates Story.

Ragalie was followed on the stand by his one time stenographer, Miss Evelyn A. Lester, 230 North Latrobe avenue. She corroborated the testimony of Ragalie in that the Ragalie company had never used billheads such as those presented to the district. She testified that the Ragalie company had no cars for hire and that the district had never been billed for such service by the company. She said that she had seen Joyce in the office, but did not know what he was doing there.

Clarence Converse, government investigator, testified that he had sought Connolly on the coast when the former sanitary district employé was wanted for trial in the original graft conspiracy case. He found Mrs. Connolly, but never found her husband, he said. James H. McQueeny, private investigator, who brought Connolly back to Chicago from California after his arrest in that state, testified that Connolly had used the name "Peter Murphy" while on the coast.

The testimony offered by the defense yesterday was by character witnesses.

THINK SPECIAL SESSION IS OVER, FIND IT IS NOT

Legislators' Recess Is Halted by Sterling.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—Limping, halting, hesitating, and with most of its members facing the question of their reelection, the Illinois general assembly today tried to find the easiest way to quit its three special sessions.

What had been thought an easy way out—the senate holding mock sessions, with only two or three present, while the house went ahead with its deliberations — met a setback when Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling late in the day sent to all members of the upper chamber telegrams telling them that the procedure agreed upon was dangerous.

"It may jeopardize important measures," he said of some bills still pending. "I advise that you be present next Tuesday."

In the face of this warning it is probable that both houses will be working for at least three days next week in spite of the general resentment against the long weeks that the members have been required to spend here.

Fear Voters' Wrath.

Ever since its reconvening following the primary, the general assembly has been trying to find a safe way to let go of the bear's tail without stirring up the voters, who have something to say about the makeup of the new legislature. They thought they had it today, and then Sterling called a halt.

Up to that time the situation had been cause for jest. As early as Wednesday, eight senators asked unanimous consent to leave the capital and be recorded as having voted for specified bills. Then today the number was swelled to a point which indicated a full two-thirds majority for such measures as the Roderick bill for payment of Chicago teachers' salaries by the bond issue route, but fairly careful scrutiny failed to show that many members of the upper house present, even including the cloak rooms.

Then the process went a step further. A large number of senators requested unanimous consent to absent themselves and to be recorded as for a bill that, under constitutional regulations, cannot come up for action by them until next Thursday.

"Why Need to Meet at All?"

"If absentees can vote next week," it was suggested, "why can't they vote by mail next January? Why do the members need to come to Springfield at any time? Why a legislature?"

The question of the validity of acts passed with votes "in absentia" arose first in connection with the Roderick bill. It was passed by the house yesterday and today was apparently given the necessary two-thirds majority in the senate, but the 34 included a number of absentees who had requested to be recorded for the bill. Then some one suggested that perhaps the school teacher bonds authorized by this process would not be worth the paper upon which they were written. That renewed the trouble, which grew more acute as senator after senator left to catch a train.

Then again came the suggestion that the courts might have the last word. Thus, the indications are that both houses will be back here next week.

Bolster Personal Tax Bill.

The senate, in its final rush, passed the bill strengthening the personal property tax and other measures intended to aid in this direction; but it dropped other parts of the so-called "agreed Chicago program" which had to do with funding the taxes and giving the Circuit court the power to order a reassessment when fraud is discovered.

The most important of the personal property bills, which now goes to the house for consideration next week, is senate bill 182, which authorizes an assessor to compel testimony concerning personal property. Another bill requires early publication of assessment lists and another permits the assessor to publish maps of assessment districts.

The first of the "agreed" bills called up for passage was one to give the Circuit court power to order a whole or partial reassessment in any year on a showing of fraud as to part or the whole of the tax roll.

Barr Fears Delay.

Senator Barr opposed the measure as one which would merely tend to prolong the chaos now existing in tax matters in Cook county. The bill was defeated, as was the following one to permit funding of taxes when there has been a delay in their collection. Chicago would not have profited to any great extent even if this bill had passed.

Measures to exempt real estate mortgages from taxation as personal property and to exempt state and municipal bonds from assessment also failed. The senate likewise defeated senate bill 112, which would have subjected to fine and imprisonment any person who failed voluntarily to file a truthful statement of his personal property for assessment purposes. It was in lieu of this that the senate passed the Jacobs bill introduced by Senator Woods.

Fighting bitterly over senate bill 184, which would enable, according to its sponsors, the Chicago school board to trim its budget, the senate finally killed it by a vote of 17 to 0.

Northwestern Picks May Day Candidates

Reigns May 19

Three candidates for May queen were chosen yesterday by Northwestern university women in an election sponsored by the Women's Self-Government association. They are Elizabeth Parmelee, a senior of the Delta Delta Delta sorority; Betsy Day of 2242 Ridge avenue, Evanston, and Margaret Black of 4114 Arth Springfield avenue.

The selection was not a beauty contest, judges said, but qualifications of the candidates based on their charm and prominence in campus activities. Miss Day, a member of the Alpha Phi sorority; Miss Black of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority, and Miss Parmelee are leaders in women's athletics. The May fête will be held on May 19 and the May queen will be selected before that time by the committee of the Women's Self-Government association.

Ryerson Hopes for New Relief Special Session

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, whose request for a second $20,000,000 charity state bond issue was turned down in the senate at Springfield on Wednesday, said yesterday he was positive that the assembly would be called into another special session before November to authorize the issue so that it can be voted on at the election.

"I told the legislators the need for the bond issue," Mr. Ryerson said. "I said it must be passed, and if they don't choose to do it now that's their business. But I feel confident that when the need for help becomes apparent they will change their minds."

Criticism of the manner in which charity is being dispensed by the Joint Emergency Relief fund was voiced by three aldermen at a meeting of the special city council committee on unemployment. A mild controversy developed between Ald. John Toman [23d] and Frank D. Loomis, executive secretary of the relief commission.

"You are making bums out of people, but you're not giving them work for the money you dish out, and your overhead is too high," said Toman.

"I'm giving my time and you're not giving yours," retorted Loomis.

The commission, Loomis said, is caring for 100,000 families in the city and 40,000 in the county outside the city limits.

"This means that we are taking care of approximately 750,000 people," he said.

Regardless of the criticism, the committee finally recommended that the city council adopt a resolution indorsing the $20,000,000 bond issue which the state senate turned down.

FIGHTS FOR HER BABY ADOPTED BY PROSECUTOR

Mother Asks Court Ruling on Custody.

Baby Joan McConnell Epstein became the center of a legal controversy yesterday. Her mother, Agnes McConnell, a southern woman, 23 years old, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to get the child from its foster father, Assistant City Prosecutor Samuel E. Epstein. Prosecutor Epstein, a young bachelor, said he would resist the petition.

Attorney Joseph A. Kolb, representing the mother, said he had tried to settle the matter of the custody of the baby with Epstein without resorting to the courts but that Epstein refused to return the child. The baby was born in the county hospital 14 months ago.

"Mr. Epstein said he doesn't believe the mother is a proper person to have custody of the child," Attorney Kolb said, "and he said he would relinquish it to a proper person."

Baby Adopted a Month Ago.

Epstein adopted the baby a month ago and is now its legal father. The petition filed yesterday with Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch does not contest that legal standing but asks only that the child be taken to court and its future custody decided by Judge Lynch. Later proceedings may be brought to cancel the adoption, Attorney Kolb said, but in the hearing to be held today he will not contest the validity of the previous court action.

Prosecutor Epstein's story at the time he acquired the little red headed Irish baby was that it had been abandoned by its mother, a woman he had befriended. The prosecutor recalled that the mother had called on him at the Grand Crossing court, to which he is assigned, and complained that her baby was being held for nonpayment of a board bill and he had the baby released.

Story of Mother's Lawyer.

"Mr. Epstein became acquainted with the baby's mother last December," Attorney Kolb said yesterday. "He drove her home once from her place of employment. After she lost her job she was locked out of her room and she left the baby in care of a colored nurse, Marietta Marsh, at 5818 South Park way, and went to Detroit.

"As I understand what happened, the manager of the apartment where Mrs. Marsh lived phoned Epstein that the baby was ill and needed medical attention, and Epstein called and took the baby away."

Mystery Message Sent to Purple Gangster.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—A mysterious message, apparently intended for Harry Fleischer, Detroit "Purple gangster" wanted for questioning in the kidnaping of Charles August Lindbergh Jr., was broadcast from a radio station here at 11 p. m. The message said:

"Harry Fleischer — Dear Harry: Connect with me immediately through my attorney, Henry A. Uterhart, 36 West 44th street. Do it through a third party. No danger of tipoff. I am the party who was the main mug of the Ohio joint, where you and Big Mike grifted, remember the souper you and the Turk gave me?"

The message bore no signature and officials of WOR, the station sending the message, said they could not disclose its source or any information concerning it.

Curtis on Way to Hopewell.

Norfolk, Va., April 28.—[Special.]—John H. Curtis left today for Hopewell, N. J., to confer with Col. Lindbergh on what are believed to be the final plans for the return of the flyer's kidnaped son.

Curtis is carrying with him a photograph of the child held by the persons with whom the Norfolk negotiator has been dealing. This is expected to satisfy Lindbergh that the Norfolk negotiators have been dealing with either the actual kidnapers or persons who now have the child in their custody.

North Dakota Democrats Vote for Rum Referendum

New Rockford, N. D., April 28.—(AP)—A plank calling for a referendum on the eighteenth amendment was adopted by the North Dakota Democratic convention late today, after a bitter debate on a state platform. The vote was 190 to 172. P. W. Lanier of Jamestown, former Tennesseean, was indorsed by acclamation by the convention as a candidate for United States senator. He is a Roosevelt delegate to the national Democratic convention.

TOSSES A SEVEN IN A DICE GAME; IT'S BAD LUCK

A toss of seven in a dice game yesterday resulted in the arrest of five youths and their identification in four crimes in Irving Park police district. The youths are Harry Aughinbaugh, 17 years old, 5142 North Meade avenue; Walter Wilczewski, 18 years old, 6057 Higgins avenue; Anton Novak, 17 years old, 5040 North Meade avenue; Chester Krysik, 15 years old, 5013 Melvina avenue, and Frank Neeck, 18 years old, 4927 North Moody avenue.

On the toss of seven Aughinbaugh lost a gold watch valued at $50 which he had put up to cover a 75 cent bet in the dice game. The winner took the watch to the Irving Park police station when he saw its value. Police found it had been taken in a burglary at the home of Walter Atland, 5116 North Menard avenue. Aughinbaugh was arrested and named his companions. Under questioning they disclosed the hiding place of stolen jewelry and other property.

HOUSE CUTS PAY OF 100,000 BUT 700,000 ESCAPE

Rejects Five Day Week, Furlough Plans.

cut provision. It was to apply only to employés receiving more than $1,500 a year.

The Ramseyer amendment also proposed to reduce the salaries of the Vice President, speaker of the house, senators, and representatives 10 per cent. The Vice President and the speaker receive $15,000, the senators and representatives $10,000 salaries.

Clerk Hire Cut Proposed.

It also provided for an 8.3 per cent reduction of the allowance of each senator and representative for clerk hire and an 8.3 per cent cut in the pay of employés of the legislative establishment receiving more than $1,500 a year. It proposed a similar reduction of the retired pay of judges and service personnel.

Rural mail carriers under this plan were to be exempted from the enforced furlough provision, but their allowance for equipment maintenance was to be reduced to three-eighths of the present amount. This, it is estimated, would represent a saving of $17,500,000.

"The furlough plan," Mr. Ramseyer told the house, "maintains the standard of living established by the government amongst its own employés, with the mere temporary concession on their part that they are to take their holidays without pay. It does not permit private industry to use the pay cut to federal employes as an excuse for further bearing down on the standards of living of the nation.

Cites Private Industry Program.

"Under the persuasion of the government private industry early in the depression undertook to stagger employment in order that all employés might receive some income and should be held from the obligation of the local communities to provide for their destitution. The government, having asked this service of industry, makes a poor showing today to be dismissing its employés right and left without doing for them the same service of dividing the amount of work which remains amongst the total number of its employés.

"For the government to thrust 60,000 to 80,000 people into the pool of unemployment and at the same time appropriate money for public works in aid of unemployment is unjust and illogical. The inhumanity and sheer malevolence of increasing the burden of the local communities with a vast number of federal government employés will bring upon the federal government not only the censure of these communities but the just claim from them that it should provide for the destitution created by this unnecessary action."

Cheers from Galleries.

But the insurgent majority of the house, doing its stuff under the eyes of the bureaucrats crowding the galleries, were in no mood to accept a pay cut plan applying to any considerable number of government employés. The assaults by members on all pay cuts were applauded and cheered repeatedly by the galleries until the presiding officer threatened to have them cleared.

Rpresentative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] started the attack with an amendment proposing to raise the exemption from the Hoover plan to $2,500 instead of the $1,500 provided in the Ramseyer substitute. This move was defeated, as was also another by Representative James M. Mead [Dem., N. Y.] to make the exemption $2,400.

Britten Leads Insurgents.

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] won a temporary victory when the house by a vote of 148 to 143 adopted his amendment to make the exemption $2,000. The Britten amendment was the only change made in the Ramseyer substitute before it was rejected, carrying the Britten modification with it. It was Mr. Britten who led the insurgents last night in forcing the boosting of the exemption from the 11 per cent pay cut proposed by the economy committee from $1,000 to $2,500.

A proposal by Representative John G. Cooper [Rep., O.] to cut the salaries of senators and congressmen 12 per cent instead of the 10 per cent of the Ramseyer substitute was rejected, 35 to 144.

Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] sought a compromise on a 30 day enforced furlough for employés with half pay, but was defeated, 118 to 172.

There were occasional references in the debate to the house legislating in the shadow of the bureaucracy in the galleries.

McDuffie Assails Action.

"Yesterday," said Chairman John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.] of the economy committee, "the house stampeded as it cut out 58 millions of the savings proposed in this bill. It acted in entire disregard to the inarticulate mass of the people who are not represented by highly organized propaganda.

"You may bow to the will of the galleries, but I tell you that unless something is done to cut public salaries the time may come when congress will have to cut till it hurts."

"Why should any salaries be cut?" yelled William P. Connery Jr. [Dem., Mass.]. "You are driving this country to the dole system."

Whereat the galleries applauded and were duly admonished by the chair.

Naval Bill Is Passed.

Before taking up the economy bill the house passed the 326 million dollar navy appropriation bill after rejecting a motion by Representative John H. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] to cut the total ten per cent. The vote on the Schafer motion was 120 to 198.

Representative George P. Darrow [Rep., Pa.] sought unsuccessfully to boost the amount voted the navy to the extent of one million dollars for initial construction of a three million dollar naval hospital at Philadelphia. His amendment was defeated, 111 to 122.

HODES HEADS GROUP FOR INQUIRY INTO UTILITY REGULATION

Ald. Harnet Hodes [7th] was named chairman of a city council subcommittee yesterday, which will inquire into the effectiveness of present public utility regulation in Illinois. The inquiry was proposed by the alderman in a resolution submitted at the last meeting of the city council and referred to the judiciary committee.

The other members of the subcommittee, which was appointed by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], chairman of the judiciary committee, are Frank J. Corr [17th], George D. Kells [28th] Thomas P. Keane [34th], William H. Feigenbutz [45th], Oscar Nelson [48th], and James R. Quinn [50th]. Ald. Hodes said his group will meet early next week to start a search for authorities on regulatory practices and principles.

The judiciary committee, at the request of Ald. O'Grady, placed on file a proposed amendment to the traffic code which would permit federal prohibition agents to have sirens on their automobiles. "The agents make enough noise without sirens," commented several members of the committee.

SEIZE BEER GANG HEAD AS SUSPECT IN GLICK MURDER

Daniel McGeoghegan, 25 years old, one of the leaders in the beer syndicate on the south side, and Leonard Patrick, 18 years old, were arrested early today in a raid on a flat at 6304½ Arlington place. They are being held in connection with the murder of Herman Glick, who was shot down in front of his home at 1319 South Sawyer avenue on April 4.

Also taken into custody was Mrs. Vera Stewart, 32 years old, who was found with McGeoghegan. When the police arrived at the flat only Patrick was there and he refused to open the door until several bullets had been fired through it. The others were taken when they entered a little later.

Shortly before he died of his wounds Glick declared that Patrick was the man who shot him. Glick was a friend of Jack Burlison, Frank Freeman, and two other youths sent to prison for the murder of Policeman James Caplis. McGeoghegan was once sentenced to death for the murder of Michael Swiontkowski, treasurer of a building and loan company, during a robbery. He won a retrial from the higher courts and was then acquitted.

ACCUSE CABINET OF URGING PUBLIC IRE AT ECONOMY

M'Kellar Reads Telegram Sent by Lamont.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Charges that cabinet officers have propagandized the country urging citizens to protest against curtailed departmental appropriations were made on the senate floor today by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], leader in the congressional fight against an extravagant bureaucracy.

SEN. M. KELLAR. [A. P. Photo.]

To back up his charges, Senator McKellar cited a telegram, a copy of which he will introduce into the Congressional Record tomorrow. It was sent by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, he said, to a Tennessee business man, and referred to the 10 per cent reduction in the appropriation bill for the departments of state, justice, commerce, and labor.

Senator McKellar was author of the movement which sent this and other supply bills back to the senate appropriations committee with instructions that they be slashed.

Text of Lamont Wire.

The commerce secretary's telegram urging the Tennessee recipient to protest to congress, was as follows:

"Present outlook is that the senate will very probably vote on the reductions Monday or Tuesday of next week. It would have very serious effect on service of bureau, both domestic and abroad. Suggest you communicate your interest to your senators and representatives in congress.

[Signed] "R. P. LAMONT."

The fact that cabinet officers are propagandizing against cuts in government cost at the same time that President Hoover is preaching economy was brought out by Senator McKellar during a warm debate over the appropriation committee's protest at having the provision for the bureau and domestic commerce cut from $4,869,531 to $3,905,000.

This was part of the decrease made under the 10 per cent cut order, which brought the total of the total appropriation for the four departments from $124,215,992 down to $111,792,639.

Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] vigorously objected to the curtailment of the foreign and domestic commerce bureau item, declaring that the decrease amounted to 30 per cent and that it would impair a valuable government service.

Deluge of Protests.

It was then that Senator McKellar rose up to answer Senator Johnson's defense of the officeholder with a plea of the taxpayer. Cabinet officers and other bureaucrats, he asserted, had spread the word that cutting down appropriations would mean destroying local offices throughout the country. As a result, citizens in those localities were deluging members of congress with protests.

Senator Johnson excused the actions of the officials, saying that he did not blame them. Then Senator Logan [Dem., Ky.] entered the lists on the economy side.

"Protesting letters have come to me saying that constituents have been told that the Louisville office of the bureau will be closed if this bill goes through," he declared. "It won't be closed at all. It may mean that it will have to run with three clerks instead of five, but it can run just as well, I believe, better—with three clerks."

"This propaganda has all the appearances of a threat," Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.], appropriations chairman, declared. 'That's what it looks like. And there's a law against an official inciting citizens to exert undue influence on members of congress."

WALL ST. BIG SHOTS CLASSED BY BLAINE WITH RACKETEERS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The methods of Wall street's big operators resemble very closely the methods of racketeers and gangsters, Senator John J. Blaine [radical Rep., Wis.] declared on the Senate floor today.

The senate banking and currency committee, of which Senator Blaine is a member, still held in abeyance its inquiry into the stock market while a steering committee laid plans for further investigation.

Senator Blaine declared that though Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, might dress the traders with "holy robes" and describe them as "angels" in testifying before the committee, the operators actually were "very much like the racketeers and gangsters."

He likened the publicity methods used to boom the market to the methods used by high powered tariff and power lobbyists. And he reverted to an article written by President Hoover in 1912 in a London mining magazine in which Mr. Hoover, then a mining engineer, described the economics of a boom. Mr. Hoover described the mechanics of boom trading as taking "a block of national wealth from the books of one individual and placing it on that of another."

"In other words," said Senator Blaine, "the outsiders put their hands in the pockets of the American people during these raids, whether they are bear raids or bull raids, and extract the money, the savings, if you please, of the men and women of this country, and put that money into the hands and pockets of the insiders."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Henry Spencer Robbins, attorney who died on Wednesday, was referred to in yesterday's TRIBUNE as having once been "an associate of the late William Jennings Bryan." J. M. Hopkins, son-in-law of Mr. Robbins, states that the latter was not an associate of Bryan and was always opposed to Bryan's free silver policies.

COAL, OIL TARIFF STRICKEN FROM SENATE TAX BILL

Automobile Excise Levy Is Retained.

Pass Their Own Bill

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—The Democratic tariff bill restoring to congress all power to alter import duties was passed and sent to the President today by the house. The vote was 202 to 171.

In their measure the Democrats propose that the President "initiate a movement for an international conference with a view to lowering excessive tariff duties and eliminating discriminatory and unfair trade practices, preventing retaliatory tariff measures and economic wars and promoting fair, equal and friendly trade and commercial relations between nations."

They attached another provision creating the position of counsel to represent consumers at all hearings held by the tariff commission to determine whether production costs at home and abroad make a tariff necessary. At present only the importers and domestic manufacturers or producers appear.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Reversing its action of two days ago, the senate finance committee today struck from the new revenue bill all provisions for a tariff levy on imported coal and oil.

The proposed import tax on copper was likewise stricken from the bill.

Action Follows Argument.

The oil tax went out of the bill, 10 to 9.

Those who voted in favor of the motion to strike out the tax were: Republicans—Couzens, Keyes, La Follette, and Metcalf. Democrats—Harrison, King, George, Walsh [Mass.], Costigan, and Hull. Those who voted in favor of retaining the tax were: Republicans—Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Bingham, Thomas [Idaho], and Jones. Democrats—Connally and Gore.

Senator Walsh was author of the motion to strike out the oil tariff. Senator Harrison [Dem., Miss.] made the motion to strike out the tariff on coal, which also was adopted by a vote of 10 to 9.

Auto Tax Retained.

Most important of the day's other actions taken by the committee was the approval of the excise tax on automobiles, trucks, and accessories. A motion by Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] to strike this 56 million dollar item from the tax bill was defeated, 6 to 12.

The vote was as follows:

To eliminate the tax: Republicans—Watson, Reed, Couzens, Keyes, Bingham, and Thomas [Idaho]. To retain the tax: Republicans—Shortridge, La Follette, Metcalf, and Smoot. Democrats—Harrison, King, George, Walsh, Barkley, Connally, Gore, and Hull.

Under the bill passenger automobiles are to be taxed at the rate of 3 per cent on manufacturers' sales; trucks, 2 per cent, and accessories, 1 per cent.

The 5 per cent tax on candy was struck out without a record vote. This was expected to bring in 12 millions.

Pistols and revolvers, exempted from the house bill's 10 per cent tax on firearms and ammunition on the ground that they are now taxed 10 per cent, were included in the new tax, so that they will be subject to a tax in the future of 20 per cent.

The committee lowered the proposed tax on matches of 4 cents per 1,000 to 2 cents, with a rate of ½ cent for paper matches.

HOOVER'S CREED: 'AMERICANS CAN NOT BE LICKED'

Hurley Tells of President's Confidence.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, told the 400 members of the American Newspaper Publishers' association and their guests at the annual dinner tonight that they would never see President Hoover admitting "that the American people can be licked."

In line with the speech Monday by secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Secretary Hurley denied that there was any "forgotten man" in the administration's relief program.

"In the future, as in the past," he said, "the American people may rest assured that the man in the White House, who has not uttered a single partisan statement or made a single partisan suggestion, will think in terms of the entire nation. He has always acted for all the American people, the rich and the poor, the little fellow and the big fellow, the farmer and the banker, the employer and the laborer, the employed and the unemployed. There are no forgotten Americans in the President's program."

Defend Official Washington.

Secretary Hurley denied that official Washington was blinding itself to realities. They were conversant with actual conditions throughout the country, he asserted, saying domestic markets were bound to be disturbed by chaotic conditions abroad.

"The world war ended on Nov. 11, 1918," said Secretary Hurley; "the economic war is still raging."

Discussing the demoralization of the employment situation by mechanical invention, he predicted that after the present stringency the country would be confronted by the necessity of shortening hours or staggering employment.

President Hoover has been widely criticised as being overoptimistic. "What would they have the President do?" he asked. "Throw up the sponge and announce that the American people have been defeated? Can you imagine Lincoln uttering pessimism to the American people after the battle of Bull Run? Can you see Wilson printing a picture of allied failure to resist the German drive in the spring of 1918 and suggesting the fall of Paris?

"Nor will you ever see President Hoover admitting that the American people can be licked. Prosperity may still be far off, but a nation under the intelligent leadership of its President that has resisted virulent attacks upon its gold standard and that still retains unimpaired the fundamental principles of freedom and individualism need not fear the future."

Acts on Union Rules.

At the business session of the publishers abolition of wasteful and costly rules enforced by printing trades unions and wage cuts of 20 to 25 per cent, to balance budgets, were recommended. The proposals were made by the special standing committee, Harvey J. Kelly, chairman. The other members of the committee are Charles H. Taylor, Boston Globe, and Edward H. Butler, Buffalo News.

The convention authorized the committee to negotiate with the International Printing Pressmen's union a renewal of the arbitration agreement which soon expires, the agreement to be used by publishers who so desire.

LINCOLN RAIL EXHIBITED.

A rail split by Abraham Lincoln in 1830 was exhibited in classes at Oregon State college by Dr. J. B. Horner, professor of history. The fence rail was obtained in 1893 by John M. Bloss, former president of the college, while on a visit to his old home in Indiana.

NEW TREATMENT FOR ANEMIA IS SEEN IN TESTS

Medical Experts Watch Experiments.

Cincinnati, O., April 28.—[Special.]—New light has been thrown upon the cause and treatment of pernicious anemia by members of the staff of the college of medicine, University of Cincinnati, through investigations whose preliminary results were announced today at the university.

Studies along this line have been carried out by Dr. Roger S. Morris, professor of internal medicine, and his associates. They emphasize that it is still in an experimental stage.

As a result of these observations a new treatment for pernicious anemia may be developed, the announcement stated. Medical authorities throughout the country are said to be watching the work with interest.

Will Require Two More Years.

Findings will be reported by Dr. Morris in a paper to be presented next Wednesday before the Association of American Physicians, meeting at Atlantic City. Early stages of the work have been outlined in the Cincinnati Journal of Medicine and the Journal of the American Medical association.

Explained in nontechnical terms the medical college experiments have shown that when a concentrated solution of normal human gastric juice is given by intramuscular injection to anemia patients almost immediate improvement sets in.

Results are manifested by an increase in the number of red blood cells and hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood. There is also an increase in strength, gain in weight, and marked improvement in the general condition of the patient.

What effect it may produce on the spinal cord changes, frequently present in this disease, has not yet been determined. The investigation is expected to continue at least two years. The observations indicate a substance present in the gastric juice of normal individuals which tends to keep the red blood cells and hemoglobin at a normal level through stimulation of the bone marrow.

Substance Named "Addisin."

Apparently this substance is absent in cases of pernicious anemia. The lack of it probably accounts for the development of the anemia, the investigators believe.

The university scientists have named this substance "addisin," after Thomas Addisin, who described pernicious anemia in the first half of the 19th century.

REALTY DEALER SENTENCED IN BANK INQUIRY

Martin S. Furman, 65 years old, 8745 Commercial avenue, a real estate and insurance broker, was sentenced to ten days in jail yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg for contempt of court. He was being questioned about his indebtedness of $9,500 to the closed Roseland State bank.

Under questioning by Judge Feinberg the witness admitted he had recently transferred several pieces of property to his relatives. He said he had done this to settle old debts.

Under further questioning Furman said he had not filed an income tax return nor paid income taxes at any time since the income tax law became effective. Judge Feinberg notified the internal revenue bureau and Furman's office records were seized by government agents.

HOOVER HOST TO GOVERNORS IN WHITE HOUSE

Roosevelt Outranked by Ritchie—at Table.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt and Albert C. Ritchie, each of whom would like to live in the White House next year, went there tonight to dine. It was a formal dinner to the governors and their wives, recently come from the governors' conference at Richmond.

And since, in the state dining room, it's not what you eat, but where you eat it that gives you indigestion [social indigestion, we mean] it is to be assumed that Gov. Roosevelt didn't enjoy his victuals as much as did Gov. Ritchie. For Candidate Ritchie of Maryland sipped his soup seven seats removed from Host Hoover, while Rival Roosevelt was three places further around the social round table. All because Ritchie's Maryland joined the Union, of the United States, before Roosevelt's New York did.

For it wasn't political preferment, but social precedence that made the arrangements.

Here's What Happened.

And what a terrible time Warren Delano Robbins, social arbiter for the state department, had in making those arrangements. He even reversed his first opinion which was a shock to Washington hostesses who regard a Robbins ruling as something about six times more fixed than those laws of the Medes and Persians.

Here's what happened. As soon as Mr. Hoover announced his dinner, Mr. Robbins, realizing that it was charged with social as well as political dynamite, got out his pencil and paper and began worrying about the seating arrangements.

At first he followed the rules used at the governors' conference, making Gov. Pollard of Virginia, hostess state, No. 1 man. Then, by a special dispensation, the members of the executive board came in, in sequence determined by the date of their respective states entering the Union. In the third rank came all the other governors, likewise graded by the dates in the history books.

Robbins Does It All Over Again.

This rule would have placed Gov. Norman S. Case of Rhode Island as No. 2, for he is chairman of the executive board. Gov. Roosevelt, because he is ranking member of that board, would have been No. 3 in spite of the fact that a lot of members, not on the board, come from states that entered the Union long before New York did.

But today upon thinking it over, Mr. Robbins decided that this was a rather radical departure for a social arbiter to sponsor. So he got out his pencil and a clean sheet of paper, and went back to the basic rule: All governors are equal; they take their rank from their individual states; the states take their rank from the date of admission into the Union.

Final Seating Arrangement.

In case you've forgotten your American history, here's the historical-social seating of the guest-governors at tonight's dinner table, though of course their wives mentioned with them did not sit next to their husbands but were scattered in other places at the table:

The President and Mrs. Hoover.
Gov. Pollard of Virginia and his daughter, Mrs. Herbert L. Boatwright.
Gov. Buck of Delaware and Mrs. Buck.
Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Pinchot.

Lay Wreath on Washington Tomb.

The dinner came at the end of a day of sightseeing. The governors, motoring up from Richmond, stopped at the home of Mary Washington, mother of George Washington; visited the old law office of James Monroe at Fredericksburg, lunched at Kenmore, home of Betty Washington Lewis, and went to Mount Vernon to lay a wreath on Washington's tomb.

Gov. Pinchot made a brief address at the wreath laying ceremony. Then the party came on to Washington, established headquarters at the Mayflower hotel, and got dressed for the White House dinner.

BREAK GROUND FOR REPLICA OF LINCOLN CABIN

At 26th Street

Ground was broken yesterday for the Abraham Lincoln group of buildings at the 1933 World's Fair. The structures will be built on the lake front at 26th street. The group will include replicas of the log cabin in which Lincoln was born, his boyhood home, the store in which he worked as a clerk, and the wigwam in Chicago where he was nominated for President in 1860.

A photographic mural, 3s feet long and 20 feet wide, showing a panoramic view of the fair when completed, was hung in the lobby of the administration building yesterday.

A. D. T. WATCHMAN SEIZES BANDITS ROBBING A STORE

Two bandits, armed with sawed off shotguns, were captured last night as they were robbing the Ratsky & Stone clothing store at 4830 South Ashland avenue. They were seized by Ralph Heisler, roundsman for the A. D. T. protective system. On entering the store the bandits forced Abraham Stone, one of the proprietors, and his brother-in-law to lie on the floor in a rear room. Stone had time to press the alarm. Heisler arrived as one bandit was rifling the cash register. They gave their names as Paul Marciana, 803 South Loomis street, and Vincent Santoria, 618 South Laflin street.

TWO GOVERNORS SEEK AIR RECORD ACROSS NATION

Richmond, Va., April 28.—(AP)—Governors James Rolph Jr. of California and Frederick Balzar of Nevada want to set a speed record that will stand against competition from Washington to Los Angeles.

Hopping to Washington today with Col. Roscoe Turner, in his specially built Lockheed speed plane, the two governors plan to leave the national capital on the cross-toninent flight either Friday or Saturday morning, depending on weather conditions. Stops will be made at Cincinnati, Tulsa, and Alberqueque.

PRESIDENT HAS VOTES NOW TO BE NOMINATED

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—President Hoover's list of delegates today had passed the number required for his renomination and now stands at 600. Kentucky's 25 votes did the trick when they were added yesterday to his previous pledged and claimed total of 575, which was just three less than required to nominate.

BAY STATE BILL FOR ROOSEVELT PUT AT $150,000

Massachusetts Men Ask California's Aid.

BULLETIN.

New Haven, Conn., April 28.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith piled up an overwhelming lead over Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight for instructed delegates to the state Democratic convention, on the basis of returns from nearly half the town caucuses and primaries. Smith received the pledges of 323 delegates to 24 for Roosevelt, although the latter's supporters claimed a large number of the 202 uninstructed.

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Charges that the Roosevelt forces spent $150,000 in the unsuccesful primary campaign in Massachusetts, while Smith leaders spent less than $3,000, were made by Frank J. Donahue, Massachusetts Democratic state chairman, in a telegram sent to the Al Smith for President league in California, it was learned here today.

FRANK J. DONAHUE

Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts also sent a telegram to the Smith league, the object being to instill enthusiasm among the Smith workers for the primary campaign to be held May 3.

Gov. Ely's telegram follows:

"Massachusetts has spoken. We are delighted with the wonderful victory for all Smith delegates. I beg to say 'go thou and do likewise!'"

Figures Are Ridiculed.

When informed of the statement regarding the $150,000 expenditure charge, Roosevelt headquarters men ridiculed the figures, stating only $5,000 was sent to that state from New York. They said frankly that they did not know how much might have been raised in Massachusetts, but looked upon Mr. Donahue's amount as being ridiculous.

In his telegram Mr. Donahue said, in part:

"Governor Smith's principal opponent has not won the delegates from a state outside of the south that will be Democratic in November. In this time of unparalleled depression the people demand a candidate with a program and the courage to state it. This is no time to put expediency above principle."

Argue Over Delegates.

Meanwhile both the Roosevelt and Smith forces were continuing their arguments as to the number of Pennsylvania delegates which they won. Roosevelt headquarters state that they have at least sixty of the seventy-six, while the Smith people maintain that they have a minimum of forty.

The size of the vote given to former Gov. Smith in Pennsylvania and his clean sweep in Massachusetts will have a direct bearing upon the way New York's delegation turns at the Democratic national convention, it was predicted today. Already certain leaders are maintaining that if harmony is to be the watchword in next fall's campaign a presidential candidate outside of New York will have to be nominated at Chicago in June.

Latest returns, including virtually complete figures for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, today gave Roosevelt 98,797 and Smith 78,363 in 6,407 out of the state's 8,181 precincts.

STIMSON DELAYS HIS DEPARTURE FROM SWISS VILLA

Will Not Leave Geneva Until Tomorrow.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 28.—the league of nations assembly will meet on Saturday to approve the revised resolution of the assembly's committee of nineteen on the Shanghai peace terms.

Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, who came here to see what the European powers are doing and feeling about the Sino-Japanese difficulty as well as disarmament, has now decided to stay on. Apparently, he is only staying until after lunch on Saturday. This will give him plenty of time to decide whether he is going to recognize the existence of the assembly of 55 powers just across the lake from his rented villa.

The secretary of state had planned to leave tomorrow after it was learned that Premier Andre Tardieu of France is suffering from an illness with more or less diplomatic complications, and could not appear to get down to facts on the Franco-German difference, which is the key to the disarmament conference. Stimson will sail on the Vulcania from Cannes.

Discuss Weapons of War.

The disarmament conference, which is gasping for breath—the French say that not until May 18 will any conversations be resumed—today continued discussions as to what are defensive and offensive arms.

Charles Dumont, former French minister of marine, developed the whole French thesis of defense to which the Germans took exception. He mentioned the fact that France has been invaded four times in the last century. Baron Werner C. von Rheinbaben of Germany said that if the French delegate thought it wise to refer to foreign invasions he, a German, might mention the Napoleonic invasions. He suggested that the committee stick to technical matters.

Dumont went and shook hands with the baron and assured him that everything is all right.

Tonight Norman Davis, American disarmament conference delegate, had dinner with Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany. Almost the entire American delegation, Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and many others attended. Prime Minister MacDonald was unable to be present because his doctor ordered him to attend only one public function a day.

After dinner, a number of problems were discussed and although Stimson stuck firmly to his intention not to go into reparations, the whole reparations panorama and central European dangers were mentioned. Davis, as the member of the American delegation most qualified in these matters, was able to listen where the secretary of state perhaps could not.

Japanese Told Not to Vote.

CHINESE BANDITS PERIL MUKDEN, PROFESSOR FINDS

Dr. MacNair of Chicago Tells His Experiences.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 29. [Friday].—Dr. H. F. MacNair, professor of far eastern history at the University of Chicago, who has been in China for several months investigating conditions and has just returned from Manchuria, last night said that the so-called bandit situation in Manchuria is so widespread that even Mukden is not safe in spite of the large Japanese garrison there.

In an address, he said he counted the heads of nine bandits nailed above the entrance to one of the city gates and that all trains in Manchuria were closely guarded by Japanese soldiers and that the tracks are closely patrolled.

Maneuver in Streets.

At Harbin, Dr. MacNair said he observed Japanese troops holding daily machine gun practice maneuvers in the principal streets.

"It took me a considerable time to become accustomed to seeing squads of Japanese soldiers running along the street to set up machine guns on corners, take careful aim, then dismantle them and run to the next corner," he said. "It was done apparently to impress the people."

The professor quoted a high American consular official with reference to the placing of the former Manchu boy emperor, Henry Pu-yi, at the head of the Manchoukuo government. He declared the official said it was the chief object of the Japanese to influence Mongolian princes in both inner and outer Mongolia.

"Even outer Mongolia under soviet Russian domination is not so fixed as some suppose," this official declared.

Regarding the preservation of the American open-door doctrine, Dr. MacNair said:

"I talked to the manager of an American firm which submitted a bid to install a telephone system in a Manchurian town since the Japanese occupation. The manager said he was requested to revise his bid three times which was done at considerable expense, but the contract went to a Japanese firm although the American claimed he quoted lower prices."

200 Slain in Two Day Battle.

TOKIO, April 29 [Friday].—(AP)—Japanese dispatches from Harbin, Manchuria, said today that Maj. Gen. Mural's brigade of Japanese troops had fought a two day battle with Chinese insurgents near Hailin, killing 200 of the Chinese, but without decisive advantage to either side.

The Rengo News agency [Japanese] reported that the battle was fought all Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Report Shows 1 for Every 4 Physicians.

The American public gives $125,000,000 a year to 36,000 drugless healers outside the scope of organized medicine, it was declared yesterday by Louis Reed in a report prepared for the committee on costs of medical care. The report, entitled "The Healing Cults," was issued in book form by the University of Chicago Press.

Mr. Reed found there is one drugless healer to every four licensed physicians in the country. Chiropractors form the largest single group, with about 16,000 practicing, he said. California has the largest ratio to population, about 42 chiropractors to each 100,000 inhabitants, and New York is second on the list. The average annual income of chiropractors, he found, is about $4,200.

Many Practice Without License.

"Unlicensed chiropractors exist in at least 16 states," Mr. Reed reported, "and of the total number of chiropractors in this country, nearly one-fourth practice without a license—that is, illegally."

"Osteopaths number about 5,000. In point of numbers, both of patients and practitioners, the growth of this group has practically stopped, he said, but he found that the osteopaths are becoming more scientific, with higher educational requirements and a broader scope of practice, each year.

California also has the largest number of osteopaths per capita, with 20 per 100,000 inhabitants, and the annual income of osteopaths in that state, an average of $7,500, is the highest in the country. The national average is about $5,500.

70 Cults in Country.

The report said that about 70 cults of miscellaneous drugless healers are practicing medicine irregularly and illegally in the United States.

Of the sects which seek cures through religion or religious faith, the largest and most powerful has not less than 8,848 practitioners, the report said, of whom about 90 per cent are women. These practitioners receive about $9,000,000 a year. The majority of them, however, practice healing more as an avocation than as a full time occupation, Mr. Reed states.

The report also covers a number of faith healing sects, with thousands of adherents in the country, which are based on Hinduism or various Persian religions.

The Committee on Costs of Medical Care is a national body, with Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior and a physician, as its chairman. It has been engaged for the last five years in a study of medical costs and is supported by the Rockefeller foundation, Rosenwald fund, and other philanthropic funds.

SANFORD MILLS BUYS PLANTS OF L. C. CHASE CO.

Acquisition by Sanford Mills, Sanford, Me., of L. C. Chase & Co., 85 year old leader in the textile industry, was announced yesterday by William H. Marland, president and general manager of Sanford Mills.

The Chase company, heretofore a partnership and selling agents for Sanford Mills, Reading Rubber Manufacturing company, and Troy Blanket Mills will be incorporated on May 1 as L. C. Chase & Co., Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Sanford Mills. It will continue to serve as the distributing division of these three mills.

The firm of L. C. Chase & Co. was organized as a selling and merchandising company in 1847. It has served Sanford Mills continuously since the latter's establishment in 1867. It was at Sanford Mills fifty years ago that the world's first power wire loom for weaving mohair velvet was invented, and this development laid the foundation for the present extensive mohair industry in the United States.

Aviation Notes

The first plane on the new midnight schedule of United Air Lines from Chicago to Pacific coast cities will depart from Chicago airport at midnight tomorrow, arriving in San Francisco at 9 p. m. Sunday. Trimotor mail, express and passenger planes will be used, each capable of carrying 14 passengers, two pilots, and a stewardess, as well as a load of mail. The schedule will provide eastern cities with a valuable connection to Pacific coast cities, involving the loss of only one business day, as passengers will be able to reach Chicago from New York, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, and other cities after the close of business one day and be on the coast less than 24 hours after leaving Chicago.

Mal B. Freeburg, pilot for Northwest Airways, has been awarded the first air mail pilot medal for heroism, according to dispatches from Washington. Freeburg was piloting a trimotor Ford two weeks ago, flying from Minneapolis to Chicago, when the propeller on one of the outboard motors broke. Excessive vibration caused the motor to loosen and fall into the landing gear. Freeburg flew the plane over the Mississippi river, shook the loose motor off into the river and landed the plane, with eight passengers and mail, on an emergency field.

Cock-Eyed Ablin's Brother Is Placed on Probation

Leo Ablin, brother of David [Cock-Eyed Mulligan] Ablin, was placed on probation for six months yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Chicago avenue court on a charge of assault. David Mengarelli and David Kernaghan, mechanics in the Huguelet Brothers garage, 908 North Huguelet place, charged that Ablin assaulted them in the garage.

MOVE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OBJECTS INTO NEW HOME

Engaged in moving this week along with Chicago apartment dwellers is L. Hubbard Shattuck, director of the Chicago Historical society. It will take Mr. Shattuck and his aids until the middle of May to move the possessions of the society from the old quarters at 632 North Dearborn street to the new home at North avenue and Clark street in Lincoln park.

Among the things to be transported are the carriage used by Abraham Lincoln while he was President, the anchors of Columbus, furniture from the Lincoln home, guns, paintings, hitching posts, and the first fire engine used in Chicago.

1,300% INCREASE IN PATIENTS AT HOSPITAL TOLD

Conditions of Institutions in State Described.

During the last 18 months the number of patients treated in the outpatient department of the Provident hospital has increased 13 times, it was said in discussion at a joint meeting of the Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin hospital associations at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. The increase was from a volume of 5,000 patients a year to a volume of 65,000 patients a year. The Provident hospital is a Negro institution.

This tremendous increase was laid to the inability of persons to pay for doctors' services, since the outpatient department treats persons who are not confined to bed at extremely low rates, or for nothing if the patient is found deserving of charity.

The situation at Provident hospital was mentioned following a report by J. Dewey Lutes, president of the state hospital association, on the economic condition of Illinois hospitals. He said hospitalization in the state has been cut in half by the depression, that the health of the average person has been bettered because he eats less and sleeps more, and that injuries have been reduced 56 per cent from normal by the closing down of industries.

Dr. Bert W. Caldwell, who presided at the meeting, said that the number of babies born in hospitals has increased 50 per cent during the last three years because of the introduction of installment plans for payment, and a graduated scale of fees. The maternal mortality rate in hospitals is 2.5 per thousand, while the national rate is 6.7 a thousand, he said.

The necessity of laws to protect hospitals which give emergency treatment without any assurance of payment was brought out at a luncheon addressed by the presidents of the three state associations. Collection of bills for treatment of auto accident victims is extremely difficult, although the cost of such treatment is between $35 and $50 per patient, it was said.

Dr. Paul H. Fesler, president of the American Hospital association, told delegates to the meeting at a banquet last night that a survey is being made to determine the number of charity hospital patients who are veterans. He decried the government's policy of ignoring 50,000 empty hospital beds in private institutions, while plans are going ahead for the construction of additional veterans hospitals.

Shrieking sirens—the roar of a powerful engine—a red streak flashes by and she's on her way! There's power for you—real honest-to-goodness power—the kind of power you'd like to have right under your own accelerator!

Today you can have it. Not the fire engine, of course, nor the siren nor the bell—but the very same power-gasoline which surpasses federal specifications for use in U. S. Government emergency equipment.

Here's what Uncle Sam uses this type of gasoline for . . . "ambulances, fire-engines and emergency vehicles." What the Government uses for emergency equipment—you can now have for your own every-day use at no extra price.

Texaco Fire-Chief Gasoline is an anti-knock gasoline with an octane rating that is outstanding. And remember Texaco Fire-Chief plus Ethyl equals Texaco-Ethyl, now more than ever the leading premium gasoline.

ORDER QUIZ IN SURCHARGE FOR CRADLE PHONES

Commerce Commission Acts After Complaints.

On its own motion the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday ordered an investigation into the fairness of the 25 cent surcharge imposed monthly by the Illinois Bell Telephone company on subscribers using the new and more convenient cradle telephone instead of the old style desk instrument.

Certain telephone subscribers have complained that the surcharge is exorbitant. The complainants have maintained that if the company is permitted to continue the surcharge indefinitely the subscribers, before many years, will have paid for the actual cost of the instruments three or four times over.

In Effect Four Years.

The commission's statement was as follows:

"The 25 cent monthly surcharge made by the Illinois Bell Telephone company for the use of cradle telephones has now been in effect for a period of approximately four years.

"At the time the commerce commission prescribed this charge the chief matter taken into consideration was the company's contention as to the extra cost of furnishing the cradle telephone sets.

"The company maintained that the extra charge should be 50 cents a month. This, however, the commission held to be exorbitant and the surcharge was fixed at 25 cents a month.

Experience Is Gained.

"The 25 cent rate having now been in effect for approximately four years, the commission feels that sufficient experience has accumulated as to maintenance costs so that an investigation should reveal whether this charge should be reduced, or eliminated entirely, or perhaps a time limit fixed when this charge should be done away with.

"Only a comparatively few complaints regarding the surcharge for cradle phones have been filed with the commission, the use of such phones with the additional charge being optional with the telephone subscriber. For the reasons enumerated, however, the commission will investigate the charge now being made to decide what, if any, change should be made."

There are approximately 136,000 cradle phones in use in the Chicago district at this time, it was learned. Should the surcharge be abolished a saving of $34,000 a month would result to the users.

GRAND CROSSING PEKIN COURTS TO CLOSE TOMORROW

The Pekin and Grand Crossing branches of the Municipal court will hold their last sessions tomorrow, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby announced yesterday.

Although the closing of the courts was termed a retrenchment measure in Judge Sonsteby's announcement, no court employés will be dismissed. There will be no direct saving of rent for the vacated branches, since both courts are in city police buildings. The two courts had only about ten cases each on their daily calls in recent months.

The Pekin court, at 27th and State streets, has heard cases from the Pekin police district, which will now be sent to South State street court, and from Stanton avenue district, which will be sent to Wabash avenue court beginning Monday.

The Grand Crossing court, at 834 East 75th street, now hears cases from six police districts. Those from the Woodlawn district will now be sent to Wabash avenue district Monday, those from the Grand Crossing and Burnside districts to South Chicago court, and those from the Morgan Park, Gresham, and Englewood districts to Stockyards court.

JERITZA TELLS JUDGE SHE'S NO "HAM SINGER"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, April 28—Mme. Maria Jeritza couldn't rehearse for the opera today. She spent the day wrangling in court with Dr. Max von Oberleithner, composer, who is suing her for $7,000.

"Mme. Jeritza ordered me to write a special opera for her, then refused to sing it," the composer testified.

"I would sing it if it were any good," retorted the singer.

"It's no good?" asked the judge.

"Why?" asked the judge.

"It wasn't dramatic enough."

To another question, Mme. Jeritza cried, "I'm no ham singer, please." Baron Leopold von Popper, her husband, sat beside her. The case was dismissed.

AUTO VICTIM

VERONICA SLATTERY.

BOY, 12, IS KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY HIT AND RUN CAR

Jacob Andjelish, 12 years old, 10406 Ewing avenue, was fatally injured last night by a hit and run motorist at Indianapolis boulevard and Avenue G. According to A. L. Ornfelt, 452 East 79th street, who was driving at the intersection, the car bore Indiana license plates and was driven at a high rate of speed. Ornfelt obtained the license number and pursued the car to the Indiana state line. According to the police, the license was issued to Le Roy Lehmann, 4037 Pulaski avenue, East Chicago, Ind. The boy was taken to the South Chicago hospital, where he died.

One other death in Cook county yesterday raised the 1932 automobile fatalities to 353. The victim:

John Joyce, 39 years old, 4909 Lexington avenue, a steel worker. Fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding with John O'Brien, 4738 Lexington avenue, collided with another car driven by Harry Dienhoff, 503 Ferdinand avenue, Forest Park, at Fifth and Kostner avenues.

Mayor Cermak and Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight boxing champion, acted with police rescuers yesterday morning when they saw a motorist crash into a safety island on the outer drive at 47th street. The mayor was returning to Chicago from Benton Harbor, Mich., where he had acted as a judge in the annual blossom queen beauty contest. The injured man was Frank Honeyman, 1052 Sheridan road, who suffered several fractured ribs and internal injuries.

The inquest into the death of Miss Veronica Slattery, 24 years old, 1503 East 72d street, who was killed early yesterday when the auto in which she was a passenger crashed into a large milk truck in South Chicago avenue at 89th street, was continued until May 12 because several of the witnesses were in a hospital as a result of injuries suffered in the accident. Police were holding Robert Leigh, 25 years old, of Seattle, Wash., driver of the car in which the young woman was riding. They said he had been drinking.

DETECTIVES RAID 4 PLACES; SEIZE 9 AS GAMBLERS

Lieut. Martin McCormick of the detective bureau yesterday led raids on four gambling houses, one in the loop and three on the near north side. Nine men were arrested as keepers of the places.

About 200 patrons were making bets in Frank Ryan's place on the fourth floor at 54 West Randolph street when the raiders entered. They were allowed to go. Those taken into custody at Ryan's were Gus Liebe, Joseph Barone and Samuel Wolters.

In Morton Levin's cigar store at 864 North State street, Joseph Liss, Samuel Biletski and Joseph Robbins were arrested. Those taken in a cigar store at 51 West Division street were William Nelson and Wallace Henderson. The ninth man arrested was Benjamin Rosenstein, charged with operating a punch board at 1 West Erie street.

IT'S MRS. WALLER OF CHICAGO, SHE TELLS THE COURT

Replies to Her Husband's Divorce Suit Charge.

Mrs. Alice Waller, estranged wife of Edward C. Waller, former real estate expert and heir to a $5,000,000 estate, denied from the witness stand yesterday that her tastes were so luxurious that she refused to live with her husband in an apartment at 180 East Delaware place and insisted upon his renting a ten room penthouse at 3300 Sheridan road.

In her divorce suit against Waller, being tried before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, Mrs. Waller is seeking to sequester her husband's share of his father's $5,000,000 estate so that she may be assured of proper alimony. Waller is contesting the suit, asserting that neither he nor his wife is now a resident of Chicago and that therefore Judge Trude has no jurisdiction in the case.

$50,000 a Year Expenses.

Under direct examination by her attorney, George L. Schein, Mrs. Waller testified that she always regarded Chicago as her home although she took many trips abroad and in this country with her children and servants. She estimated that her living expenses up to 1928, when Waller ceased to support her, were $50,000 to $60,000 a year.

Under cross-examination she was asked if she had not refused to live in the Delaware place apartment.

"Didn't Mr. Waller at your insistence rent the penthouse at 3300 Sheridan road?" she was asked.

"If you knew Mr. Waller, you'd know that he never did anything at my insistence," she replied.

Friend Testifies for Her.

Mrs. Gertrude Enzinger, 1815 Prospect avenue, Milwaukee, a friend of Mrs. Waller, testified that she made several trips to California with Mrs. Waller. When Waller left his wife in California in 1929, returning to Chicago, she was present, she said, and there was no indication that Waller was displeased because his wife would not accompany him home.

Roscoe and Willa Penner, colored butler and housekeeper in the Waller household, and Alice Aubert, governess, testified that, despite the many trips taken by the Wallers, Chicago had always been regarded as their home.

Ivan F. Sweeney, former business manager for Waller, revealed that Waller had expected to be made the beneficiary of a spendthrift trust in his father's will. The senior Waller died intestate, however, and Waller became heir to a principal part of the estate.

Final arguments in the case were set for next Monday at 3 p. m.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. HOOVER AT RICHMOND.

Mr. Hoover's address on economy before the governors' conference in Richmond was a thoroughly sound, if somewhat belated, pronouncement. The nation now has it on the authority of the President himself that the average American citizen works sixty-one days a year for the support of his governments—federal, state, and local.

As long as that tremendous drain on the incomes of individuals continues it is difficult to see how there can be any material improvement in business conditions. The taxes are consuming so large a proportion of the nation's income that consumption, and therefore production, and therefore employment, are disappearing. At the same time so much of the liquid capital of the country is being devoted to financing the governments that little is available for normal industrial and commercial needs.

While Mr. Hoover's warning was well considered and well expressed, it remains to be seen if its effects will amount to much. Certainly the governors might be justified in inquiring why the President has done no more than he has to remedy the situation which lies directly within the sphere of the federal government of which he is the executive head. The director of the budget is his agent and the heads of the executive departments are his men. Some of the cabinet members have appeared before congressional committees to protest against reductions in expenditures and the official budget proposals were so high as to necessitate tax increases if the budget was to be balanced. Under these circumstances the President's remarks may not have received the enthusiastic reception from the governors which as an essay in the principles of government finance and economics they deserved.

Observers have already intimated that Mr. Hoover's speech was intended for political rather than economic effect. In this connection stress is laid upon his statistical showing that the federal government costs only four billion dollars a year, whereas state and local governments together account for considerably more than twice as much. These figures were put forward, so it is said, to convince the voters that it is not the federal government but the other governments which are crushing the taxpayer. If this was the President's intention the fact itself is evidence of a growing realization on his part that the high costs of government are destined to play an enormous part in the forthcoming presidential campaign. If the highest official of the government is convinced that he must set himself right with the American people on this issue there is no reason to despair of the outcome.

This is said in face of the fact that the house, on the day on which Mr. Hoover spoke, rejected 50 million dollars of economies proposed by its committee and at almost the same moment the senate finance committee recommended further increases in the income tax rates. This double blow at the welfare of the American people proves nothing more than that the President is a better politician than are the congressmen. They think it is wiser to cater to a gallery filled with jobholders than to meet the wishes of their constituents. The last word on that judgment has not yet been said.

ROOSEVELT IN TWO PRIMARIES.

Franklin Roosevelt won Pennsylvania, but lost Massachusetts. His success was less than had been expected and his defeat worse than had been feared. Al Smith, as something more than an acceptive candidate, pushed the leading candidate hard in one state and wholly out of the other. Gov. Roosevelt remains the leading Democratic candidate, but is not yet the manifest destiny of the party. In a real test he proved to be weak in a critical state and not any too strong in a state which only extremely optimistic Democrats will rely upon in the forecasts for November.

The Democratic convention, if it is as politically wise as might be expected, will consider principally the availability of their candidate in states which are doubtful or normally Republican. A candidate who is not wanted in Massachusetts, Ohio, Illinois, and other states in which there will be an argument this fall cannot be rated as a strong candidate. In this respect the Massachusetts decision was important.

The Pennsylvania primaries did not give the Pinchot dynasty much encouragement. The governor's dry candidate, Smedley Butler, the former marine, was licked by Senator Davis, who, under persuasion of his Pennsylvania sponsorship, has deserted the noble experiment, and Mrs. Pinchot, running for congress, was defeated by Congressman McFadden, the black sheep who had all his postmasters taken from him because he talked too much and was outlawed by the administration at Washington. In spite of Postmaster General Brown he won his renomination. His constituents seem to have stood up against both the federal and the state administrations. Sometimes a repression of this sort does not repress.

WELL DONE.

The Lincoln park board announces that retrenchments in last year's expenditures have made possible a reduction of the 1931 tax levy from $3,200,000 to $2,650,000. The direct saving by the park is $550,000, or 17 per cent, to the taxpayers of the district. The commissioners promise further reductions for the 1932 levy to be passed this fall. These public servants who are serving the need of taxpayers both directly in tax relief and indirectly by much needed example to other public spending agencies are Warren Wright, president; Sheldon Clark, Oscar Reum, Edwin L. Read, George W. Blomgren, Thomas W. Gilmore, and George W. Dixon. H. Otto Wesge is general superintendent and manager.

SMOKE SCREEN FOR SHIRKERS.

It is to be hoped the disclosure of high pressure salesmanship during the "new era," brought so abruptly and painfully to an end in 1929, will warn and instruct the future investor. To the extent that it does, the senate inquiry may be able to put something to its credit. But no one with common sense can be deceived as to the immediate object of that hullabaloo. The loudest voice is that of Representative La Guardia, who would like to resume his pose as a friend of the people so badly damaged by the outbreak he led in the house over the tax bill. By making noise enough now he may get the public to forget, but we doubt it.

The fact remains that the whole rumpus over the stock exchange is subject to suspicion. It is desirable that evils actually existing in the conduct of the exchange be corrected, but for every pound of congressional steam spent for this purpose not an ounce has been turned on for the removal of the major obstruction to business recovery, the burden of excessive taxation. The zeal of La Guardia and his associate inquisitors for the protection of the public from stock market activities is in conspicuous contrast to the cold shoulder turned upon government retrenchment and tax relief. The stock exchange inquiry will not give a single unemployed man or woman a job. It will not raise a pound from the shoulders of the overburdened taxpayer. No doubt evils should be attacked when discovered, but, with eight million people out of work and the whole business of the nation fighting for survival, what the people demand of congress is concentration upon its major problems and not sensational melodrama over matters that cannot move us half a yard out of our troubles at this time.

TARDIEU'S SORE THROAT.

Apparently the arms conference in Geneva will not last into the grouse season. Mr. Stimson is reported as planning to go to Cannes to get a bit of rest. His plan is to take ship Wednesday for home. Premier Tardieu of France has a sore throat. It became a diplomatic sore throat Tuesday when it was feared that it might be the least of the premier's ailments if it did not keep him from his appointment with his conferees in Geneva. They had prepared to bring him face to face with Chancellor Bruening of Germany. The French newspapers have detected Mr. Stimson in a plot and rejoice in his discomfiture. What a suspicion!

Mr. Stimson is the most guileless of men. There is nothing of Talleyrand in him nor any touch of Machiavelli. He and the lean Cassius are antipodal. Stratagem and spoils are abhorrent to him and conspiracy is alien to his instinct. It must be remembered that Mr. Stimson is the American secretary of state, for which distinguished office there is a great body of tradition eloquently doctrinated by Woodrow Wilson when he said that America wanted nothing for itself that it did not want for the rest of the world. Maybe he said for herself. That might be better. The United States is not neuter in its humanitarianism, but is maternal, brooding.

The British spokesman, identified in the news reports as the high spokesman—it may have been Ramsay MacDonald—was mad when he learned that Tardieu had a sore throat. The high spokesman became an issue of threats at a specially called press meeting. Great Britain, if repulsed in its disarmament quest, will pitch in and build battleships again. And later probably use them to protect the French coast again. Tardieu has a sore throat, but he should worry.

It was predicted weeks ago that nothing would come out of the arms conference. Mr. Stimson seems to have come out of it. That's a break for the United States.

SHERIDAN ROAD.

North shore villages protesting against the reconstruction of Sheridan road to make it a broader highway for speedier through traffic and buses seem to be entirely within their rights. The line taken by the road through the north shore communities is not one fast through traffic should take nor is it the route necessary. That traffic can be accommodated to the west, where natural conditions are favorable.

Sheridan road is one of beauty which the communities should be privileged to protect. Hubbard hill could not be preserved if the requirements of fast traffic and buses on wide pavement were to be served. The citizens concerned have the real stake in the question and their wishes should be paramount. The improvement of roads to the west already has relieved Sheridan road of traffic desiring a straightaway, fast pavement, and this is the natural development for such travel.

Editorial of the Day

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

A heartening step in the direction of a legal procedure freed from the strangling toils of technicalities is the opinion of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the case of the Moon Motor Car company. Written by Judge Kenyon and reversing and remanding a suit of the company against three of its officers, involving payment to themselves out of company funds, the opinion comes out squarely on the side of progress. The court, in finding that the case should have been tried in the equity side rather than the law side of the docket of federal District court presided over by Judge Davis, declared:

> If we were satisfied, however, that the result reached at law was correct and the same as should be reached in equity, it would be useless, of course, to reverse the judgment and remand it for a trial in equity. The whole tendency of modern legal development is to get away from technical procedure.

It happens that in this case the court was not so satisfied and therefore did remand it. That the court went out of its way to announce that had it been satisfied it would not have stood on technicality and caused further litigation should be gratifying to all those interested in the movement to bring the law into harmony with the times.

CYST ON THE WRIST.

A CORRESPONDENT wants to know about a rounded lump which has recently appeared just above his wrist. This is painless, seems to be at a standstill, causes no great inconvenience, but it shows plainly and, in some positions, it is very much in evidence. It is about the size of a pigeon egg when the hand is in one position; in others it seems to disappear. What is it? Is it a tumor or a cancer? What caused it to appear? Can it be cured? Will it interfere with the use of the hand?

This is a good description of a very common disorder. Nearly every person has a swelling of this sort at some time or other, somewhere or other. It is, of course, a tumor, since any swelling may be called a tumor, and this is a swelling. It is not a cancer, nor is it related to cancer. If these tumors were cancerous the human race would have been wiped out long ago. Since the tumor is very prevalent among lower animals the process of wiping out might have extended well toward the insects.

The common name for the trouble is ganglion. In order to lessen friction the architecture of the human body provides for friction pads over bony points and ridges across which pass moving parts such as tendons. These structures, called bursa, are developed out of tendon sheaths. They are sacklike pads containing a fluid that might be compared loosely to lubricating oil. There are a multitude of these pads distributed around the body. They are similar in purpose to the lubricating cups found in machinery, but their great superiority lies in the fact that they work automatically. They do not require the services of engineers on eight hour shifts and they belong to no union.

Occasionally they go wrong. Bursitis, or inflammation of a bursa, occasionally causes neuritis. Bursitis around the shoulder joints is one of the more frequent causes of neuritis of the arms. The swollen bursae that appear suddenly and with no recognized cause around the wrist, and are commonly known as ganglia, are of no particular importance. As a rule they disappear spontaneously, but they are not in a hurry about it. They never get very large, nor do they seriously interfere with the use of the hand. Probably the cause is some mild injury that did not attract notice at the time of occurrence.

The old fashioned home treatment consists in bending the wrist over the edge of a table in a way to make the ganglion prominent, and to fix it, and then strike it sharply with the edge of a book. The treatment has been used so often, has cured so many cases, and has had so few accidents that it is popular and will remain so. Physicians sometimes draw off some of the bursal fluid and then inject a mild irritant such as is used in the cure of varicose veins. Sometimes they dissect out and remove the bursa. However, when a person with a ganglion goes to a physician for treatment there is about an even chance that he will be given the book blow treatment.

WHY NOT FIND OUT?

I. C. C. writes: My tongue has been sore for about five months on one side. It looks real dark and seems to be chopped and swollen. Sometimes it bleeds for a few minutes. Would you say it is cancer?

REPLY.

Your description does not indicate that you have cancer, but it does call for an examination.

ARCHER AVENUE CAR SERVICE.

Chicago, April 24.—[Friend of the People.]—The people living in the location of Archer avenue and west of Kedzie avenue to Harlem avenue would like to know when they will get Chicago street car service. Will we have to wait another eleven years? Why not give us bus service to Harlem avenue and let it be one city fare? We cannot understand this as it is practically the one company, Joliet and Chicago. J. P.

The Chicago and Joliet electric railway received a franchise to operate on Archer avenue, between Harlem and Cicero avenues, before this section was annexed to the city, and the fact of annexation had no effect upon the company's franchise rights. The traction settlement ordinance approved at a referendum July 1, 1930, contains the following provision: "The company agrees to provide local transportation facilities on Archer avenue from South Cicero avenue to South Harlem avenue as a part of or in connection with its transit system either by acquiring the existing tracks of the Chicago and Joliet electric railway in said portion of Archer avenue or through an operating agreement with said company." Proceedings testing the validity of this ordinance are now pending in the Supreme court and the city council has therefore extended the time for its acceptance to Jan. 31, 1933. It is very unlikely that any action toward supplying local transportation facilities to this district will be taken unless and until the legal obstacles have been removed and the company thereby enabled to accept the ordinance. JEFFREY A. O'CONNOR, Commissioner of Public Service.

NOT UNLESS AGREED TO.

Oak Park, Ill., April 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I owed a party one thousand dollars which became due Jan. 1. Not having the money at that time I told him I would pay some of it by Jan. 10. In the meantime he gave the note to an attorney, who asked me to call and settle. I paid the attorney $500 on the note, telling him I would try to have the rest in a short time. On Jan. 22 I received a letter from the holder saying he took the note from the attorney and wished me to hurry up with the balance. He also stated that he paid the attorney $25 for collecting the $500 and expects me to refund him the same amount. Is he legally right, and must I pay him this amount? B. S.

You are not liable for his attorney's fee unless you agreed to pay it.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MR. HOOVER WARNED the governors in convention at Richmond that "it's cut taxes or the poorhouse." And if they do cut taxes then there'll be no money to keep up the poorhouses. What to do? We aren't exactly champing the bit to go over the hills to the poorhouse, but it's nice to think that there's a poorhouse to go to if everything else fails. But—and again—if we don't cut taxes we'll go to the poorhouse and if we do cut 'em there won't be any poorhouse to go to. Gosh! this world gets more complicated every minute.

"PATIENT HURT While Trying to Escape from Hospital."—Headline. If it was one of those hospitals where a big, loud mouthed mechanical dingus just outside your door keeps bawling "Message for Docter Bonehealer," "Docter Cuttemout is wanted at tha office," or "Docter Steplitely's wife wants him to bring home a four poun' beefsteak," then we don't wonder the patient tried to escape from a hospital. The next time we get into a hospital with an electrical screech owl outside the door we're going right through the window, pane, sash, and everything.

THE BLESSED FOUR.

At the four corners of my bed they stand,
The Blessed Four, their tireless watch to keep
With folded wings, until the gray of dawn;
Darkness, Silence, Rest, and Sleep.

Darkness with gentle hands draws down the blind,
Velvet-clad Silence locks the door to sound,
Rest sways me lightly down to beckoning dreams,
Then Sleep with soft forgetting wraps me round.

Their loyalty is sworn to Death and me,
Four friends, who are of all life's gifts the best;
Nepenthe angels of the outer brink,
Darkness, Silence, Sleep, and Rest.

ALONE IN WASHINGTON

R. H. L.—Just had an interview with a senator. We talked mostly about folks back home, and how the crops were, touching upon the state of the White Sox and the corn borer. But at last, catching him off his guard, I introduced the matter of taxation with too much representation and how the government might retrench without cutting down expenditures.

"Now, those are the very things I wanted to discuss," he offered with a wry face, "sub rosa, in camera, and all that, of course. We legislators feel that poverty, like charity, should begin at home. If the populace would quit paying out their money for other things they could very well pay their taxes. For instance—" And, together, we worked out a schedule for the private citizen, listing things he could, in a pinch, do without. It included, as I recall, bath tubs, safety razors, pyjamas, pocketbooks, crooners, bathing suits (upon which, of course, the saving would be but trifling), rayon undies, false teeth, currycombs, suspenders, fountain pens, gold toothpicks, buggy whips, uniforms for doormen, corkscrews, antique furniture, permanent waves, tin whistles, detectives, jewsharps, free wheeling, and the Hullabaloo magazines.

I suggested substituting the Congressional Record for the latter, but he shook his head. "My dear constituent," he reproved me, "this is a matter of morals and decency, as well as economy." To which I responded "which?"

The senator is right. If our people would quit spending their money, and, at the same time, stop hoarding it; if they would pay less at lower prices and more at higher prices, reducing the cost of labor without cutting down wages, we would probably get somewhere.

"And how about the Hoover dam?" I queried, after a thoughtful pause. "Excuse me. I do not indulge in profanity," he assured me shortly, and, turning to his third assistant private secretary, he observed succinctly: "Please, Henry, show this gentleman to the elevator—the one going down."

The Daughters of the American Revolution are holding a convention here, and the town is all agog, with prices marked up in the hotels, down in the department stores, and at the same old figures in the 5 and 10's.

IT MUST BE PRETTY NICE to be a governor or a mayor except right at this time. No, it isn't because the budget refuses to come nearer than fifteen miles to balancing; it's because now is the time that the apple blossom queens and the prune blossom queens and the quince blossom queens and the cherry blossom queens call on 'em with invitations to attend their coronations. And they always bring one of their royal pies along, and, of course, the honored recipient has to eat it. And there is nothing harder for a governor or a mayor to do than to eat a large hunk of pie in front of a beauty queen and a battery of cameras and still retain that statesmanlike pose so essential to the importance of a governor or a mayor.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1895

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—Secretary Herbert has received the following cablegram from Admiral Carpenter, commanding the United States naval forces on the Asiatic station, dated Newchwang, March 6: "The Japanese general has notified foreigners of his intention to occupy this port. All contingencies provided for."

HIROSHIMA, March 7.—A dispatch from Gen. Nodzu, dated Hai Ching, March 4, says two divisions of the Japanese army attacked Newchwang proper on the morning of that day and entered the city at noon. A portion of the enemy's forces at once fled to Yiankow, the Newchwang settlement. The remaining Chinese troops made a stubborn resistance. Some desperate street fighting followed and the Chinese were completely routed at 11 o'clock at night, leaving 1,900 killed upon the field. The Japanese loss was 206 killed and wounded. Another dispatch says that on the morning of March 4 a force of 10,000 Chinese under Gen. Lung attacked Taping Shang, but were repulsed by the fire of the Japanese artillery.

TOKIO, March 10.—China has been informed in general terms of the conditions upon which Japan will consent to peace. Japan has been notified that China is ready to accept these conditions and sign a treaty.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 29, 1904.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Rear Admiral Yeszem may be relieved of his command for his action in sinking a transport on which 200 Japanese soldiers went to their death. The czar is reported to be highly indignant over it. Yeszem reports that on April 26 two Russian torpedo boats and a cruiser captured at sea the Japanese military transport Kinschiu, laden with rice, coal and military supplies and armed with four small rapid fire guns. The Russians took aboard seventeen officers, twenty soldiers, 35 coolies and 65 of the crew. The rest of the soldiers refused to surrender and offered armed resistance. Finally they were sent to the bottom with the transport. One report has it that 8,600 men were aboard the transport when it was sunk, but the admiralty insists there were only 200.

ST. LOUIS.—St. Louis will open its world's fair on April 30. To the eye the exposition lacks a month of being in readiness to welcome visitors. Nothing but a miracle can put it even into passable shape by the opening morning. However, the show will be a grand one when all is in readiness.

APRIL 29, 1916.

LONDON.—The uprising in Dublin continues with fighting in the streets where the rebels from trenches and barricades are firing upon the soldiers. However, a bulletin from Dublin to the Daily News says that the rebels were driven out of their positions in St. Stephen's green with bombs after sustaining heavy losses. Fire has added to the perils of the revolt and large blazes were still sweeping Sackville street, the main thoroughfare of the city. The rebels still held the general postoffice in Sackville street and the Four Courts. The rebellion has spread to the west and south of Ireland, the principal centers of disturbance being County Galway and Enniscorty.

BERLIN.—All Germany is jubilant over the news of the Irish rebellion. Nothing in the whole war has caused such a triumphant note from the German editors.

CHICAGO.—Homer K. Galpin, former clerk of the Municipal court, is again a benedick. A trip to St. Louis culminated in his marriage to Miss Hilda L. Jensen, who figured as corespondent in the divorce suit of Mrs. Jessie T. Galpin, filed in March, 1915. Galpin was married almost exactly a year after the granting of Mrs. Galpin's divorce. He was charged in the bill with having lived with the co-respondent for five months.

EL PASO.—A conference which may transform the American punitive expedition into an army of occupation and bring about intervention by the United States will open tomorrow in Juarez. Gen. Alvaro Obregon, minister of war in the de facto government, has arrived at Juarez, and Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, and Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston are in El Paso. Gen. Obregon issued a statement that the Carranza government will demand immediate withdrawal of the American troops.

PARKING ALL NIGHT.

Chicago, April 26.—After reading in your columns today of the proposed arrests for all night parking, I wonder how many more burdens are to be added to our already heavy responsibilities caused by the present depression. I believe I am one of many thousands in the city needing and using a car for business, who find it impossible to pay the twelve or fifteen dollar monthly charge of public garages, and at the same time feed and shelter their families, and it seems to me that our law making and law enforcing agencies can find a much more beneficial way of exerting their efforts than by trying to make a rough road rougher for the little fellows who are trying to weather the depression and stay honest.

Why not help us a little instead of kicking us when we are down? F. G.

IN THE ALLEY.

Chicago, April 26.—Parking in garages will hardly help to lessen theft of cars. In fact, it will, no doubt, greatly increase not only the theft of cars, but the number of stickups as well. There is less chance of being seen relieving a motorist of his car [and wallet] in an alley than on a fairly well lighted city street. Rentals in public garages are too high—private garages in alleys too risky. It isn't always possible to have an escort in parking your car in a garage, and the possible dangers in doing so alone do not appeal to myself, and there's hardly a doubt that many others feel as I do. LADY MOTORIST.

GARAGE MAN'S STORY.

Centerville, Mich., April 25.—I was in a garage off 61st street last week and spoke of no cars being stored. The owner said, "The owners park in the street, but we have that fixed. First we got the insurance companies to refuse to pay for auto thefts unless cars are left over night in a garage, then the police are to arrest all cars found parked out over night. We will show the owners." This sure is a nice racket. F. A. K.

DILL FOR PRESIDENT.

Milwaukee, April 25.—For the next President of the United States I would like to see a man like U. S. Senator Clarence C. Dill. W. H. EDESON.

THE BONUS.

Hines, Ill., April 22.—The idea of the government printing money in order to pay world war veterans the balance of their bonus is preposterous and only an attempt to prejudice the people against the paying of the bonus. It is no more necessary now to print money, and lower the value of our present dollar, than it was when the first 50 per cent was paid. VETERAN.

HELL MARIA.

Chicago, April 22.—Gen. Charles G. Dawes is hereby nominated for the office of President as the only man in the Republican party who can win. Why not make it unanimous? We need him. F. S. P.

PIKE COUNTY OPINION.

Barry, Pike County, Ill., April 26.—I am a daily reader of your great paper and have been following the Massie case. It seems a pity that law is so lame that a man's life has to be placed in jeopardy on account of criminals being let run at large, when by rights and real justice he should have been awarded a medal for having helped to make this old world a sane and safe place for respectable and virtuous womanhood to exist. E. L. HART.

LA FOLLETTE'S FOLLY.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 22.—Your article covering the overhead on highway 38 between Milwaukee and Racine is a peach. I have been traveling the state lately, and this is only one of the things which the public is now terming "La Follette's folly." The public believes that it is an absolute waste of public funds. F. C.

LIBERTY AND EQUALITY.

Oak Park, Ill., April 24.—In your editorial on socialism on Sunday you say: "Few face the fact that we can have liberty, or we can have equality, but not both . . . The Americans who founded the United States chose freedom. Their posterity would do well to consider its benefits and its promise before they give them up."

Has it occurred to you that this country has already been socialized to a considerable extent since its founding? Or that socialism does not necessarily mean sacrificing liberty, and most certainly does not aim at complete equality? [Not even communism aims at complete economic equality.] Also, it would be well to note that a Socialist party [the Labor party] was in power in England for several years, and the freedom of the people existed notwithstanding. C. H. M.

AT THE STADIUM.

Chicago, April 23.—It is almost time for the people to arrive for the national conventions and surely every one in Chicago has enough civic pride to want to make a good impression on the thousands who will attend these conventions. If you will investigate you will find that there are piles of dirt and rubbish which should be removed from the west end of the stadium. Let's see what can be done about that rubbish. R. F. LANGE.

AN AVALANCHE.

Chicago, April 18.—If all the men and women who have suffered a reduction in wages could be organized, as suggested by one of your contributors, to write their congressmen and senators in favor of a reduction of government wages and salaries it would be such an avalanche that some effect would result, I believe. E. M. SHELTON.

IRISH DEBATE ON OATH WAXES HOT; DAIL IN UPROAR

Bill's Passage Assured by Pledge of Labor's Aid

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 28.—The Labor party's nine members will support President Eamon de Valera's bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the king, it was announced tonight by William Norton, Labor party leader.

The government is thus practically assured of ultimate victory in its fight to put the bill through, for with Labor's votes there should be at least 81 for the bill as compared with the opposition of 72 members of former President Cosgrave's party and the Independents.

Norton's declaration came at the end of a stormy session in the dail eireann. Passion blazed up in the debate on the oath when Batt O'Connor, Dublin deputy, replying to a speech by Seumas Dillon, Independent, yesterday, repeated the tale that Irish members in the Westminster parliament cheered when the executions of rebels in 1916 were announced.

"A Damned Lie!"

Dillon, son of John Dillon, famous Irish leader, jumped to his feet and angrily shouted, "That's a damned lie!" Deputy Coburn, a Cosgrave supporter, jumped over benches from the front, grabbed O'Connor by the coat, and threatened to strike him.

"O'Connor, if you were a younger man I would kill you where you stand," he cried. "No one will insult the Irish party while I am here. There is no fear in me."

By this time the deputy speaker was vainly ringing the gong, deputies were leaping to their feet and Deputy Coburn was dragged away shouting, "Death I will face, but no one shall insult the party."

Former President William T. Cosgrave and the speaker pleaded for decorum, and Dillon, who had recovered his poise, apologized. Earlier, Dan Breen, Tipperary deputy, formerly of New York, declared that he had gone out in 1919 to kill Lord French, then viceroy, and "remove the king's last representative from the country. I have no apology to make and I would do it again if I had the chance."

Up to Whole Commonwealth.

If the bill for removal of the oath passes in its present form it is probable that a special meeting of the imperial conference will be held to decide whether Ireland remains a member of the British commonwealth.

J. H. Thomas, British dominions secretary, has stated that the effect of passage of the bill will be to put Ireland out of the commonwealth. President De Valera today declared that Britain alone has neither the right nor the power to decide on the membership of the commonwealth. He said it would be up to the commonwealth as a whole to decide that question and that a special meeting probably would have to be called to consider it.

Says Irish Have 2 Kings.

The president emphasized Ireland's right as a free partner of the commonwealth to control all internal affairs. He included the oath in this category. No one, he pointed out, would question the Westminster parliament's right to change the form or even abolish totally the oath now taken by its members. The same condition, he said, applies to Canada, South Africa, Australia, and all the dominions. Why, therefore, he asked, should there be a different rule for Ireland?

De Valera also defined his position regarding the office of governor general, which he regards as anomalous. The effect of this, he said, is that there are two kings in Ireland, one the governor general for internal affairs and another for external affairs. In other words, it was explained, all royal functions in Ireland are performed by the governer general while all matters affecting foreign relations are carried out in the name of King George. De Valera was of opinion that this anomaly should ultimately be abolished.

Pleads for Treaty.

Mrs. Collins O'Driscoll, sister of the late Michael Collins, another Irish leader, made an eloquent appeal for honoring the treaty which her brother had signed. She declared it had given Ireland more freedom than would have been possible in any other way. She challenged President De Valera to say whether he spoke for the Irish Republican army, armed gunmen, communists, Saor Eire or other extreme organization in seeking removal of the Irish oath.

"We all know they will not be satisfied and there is not one of us who does not know of their threats of what they propose to do after the Eucharistic congress," she said.

It now seems possible that debate may not be finished tomorrow and it is even possible that an attempt may be made by opponents to talk it out. If debate is not finished tomorrow consideration of the bill must go over until May 11, as all next week is scheduled for the budget.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Accept a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

STEAMER SHOWS OTTAWA VALUE OF WATERWAY

Throngs Turn Out to See Second Big Ship.

Ottawa, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—A huge dredging tow of the R. C. Huffman Construction company, brought up the river by the Mississippi steamer Phillips, is a practical demonstration for this city and its neighbors of the possibilities of the Illinois waterway, which is to be opened Oct. 15.

The Phillips, a stern wheeler, was the second steamer ever to come as far as Ottawa. With a tow 500 feet long and 80 feet wide, including 11 pieces of dredging equipment, she was locked through at Starved Rock Wednesday. The lock had been in use two weeks, but the passage of the Phillips was an event. The steamer's resounding whistle, warning the bridge tenders at Utica, brought out the countryside, and after watching the operations at the ancient swinging bridge the crowd followed the two up the river to the lock.

Water Raised 14 Feet.

An hour and a half was required to lock the tow through, because the motors for the valves and gates have not been installed and they had to be operated by hand. A boat can be accommodated in 20 minutes when the motors are installed, according to John B. McKenzie, government overseer of the lock.

To permit the passage of a craft, the chamber of the lock must be lowered to the level of the pool below, which is 14 feet lower than the upper level. Then the lower gates are closed on the craft, and the water is raised 14 feet so the upper gates can be opened. The chamber is 110 feet wide and more than 600 feet long, and almost 1,000,000 cubic feet of water passes through the lock for a single operation.

The Huffman tow will be used in the dredging of the Marseilles pool, a 24 mile stretch above Marseilles. The company has two huge hydraulic dredges here, in addition to the 11 pieces of equipment brought by the Phillips, and other units on the way will make a total of 46 pieces. The Huffman company cannot begin work on the Marseilles job, however, until it cuts a passage 900 feet in length from the canal section of the river, dug by the state, to the stream proper at Marseilles. This work is going on.

Work Is Started.

When the passage is cut through, a job that will require from two to three weeks, the three mile canal will take six feet of water, enough to permit the passage of the dredging boats.

The Clark Dredging company, which has the contract for the Starved Rock pool, a three mile uncompleted stretch just below Marseilles, began work yesterday with a hydraulic and a dipper dredge. Another big dredge boat is to be brought from Louisville for this project. There is 210,000 feet of common and 166,000 feet of rock excavating to be done and it will all be finished by Oct. 15 or Nov. 1, according to G. B. Christie, an associate of the Clark officials.

The Huffman tow came up from Alton, Ill., and the progress was slow because of its width and great weight.

MRS. DAHLBERG DEFENDANT IN SUIT FOR $1,700

Mrs. Mary A. Dahlberg, former wife of Bror G. Dahlberg, head of the Celotex company, was made defendant yesterday in a suit to collect $1,700 allegedly owed to the American Historical society. The declaration was filed in the Circuit court by Attorney Baker Baldridge. It charged that Mrs. Dahlberg had failed to pay on four contracts entered into with the society.

The bill asserted that the contracts were for "work, labor, and material" furnished to Mrs. Dahlberg by the society. Attorney Baldridge refused to explain the nature of the contracts.

The lawyer said his investigators had learned that Mrs. Dahlberg was still in Chicago and he is seeking to serve her with an attachment. He said that he had learned that she was to remarry within a few days.

The presentation will take place in the Vasa temple at 2328 Foster avenue. Commander Joseph J. Schuster of the Legion post will accept the colors. There will be a parade to the temple from Lincoln and Sunnyside avenues, with the Evanston, North Town, and Wilmette drum corps marching.

How to Stop RHEUMATISM

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till every trace of these dangerous poisons is driven out of your system. That's why external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine, that acts directly on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatic misery.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA eases pain the first day and is one rheumatism remedy guaranteed to free muscles and joints from all painful stiffness, swelling and lameness, or nothing to pay.

Walgreen's have so much confidence in Ru-Ma that they want every rheumatic in town to try it and guarantee money-back if it does not stop all your rheumatic suffering.

Proposals Opened by State Officials.

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—State highway officials opened bids today for the construction of 86.68 miles of paving, 50.03 miles of grading and for 16 bridge sections on state highways. The low bids on the projects totaled $2,571,100.

Officials expressed hope of starting construction within a few weeks on these projects as well as those carried over from 1931 to relieve unemployment.

List of Bids.

Chicagoland highways involved, counties in which the projects are located, their extent and the apparent low bidders and bids on the more important jobs were as follows:

Route 47, McHenry county, 13.39 miles of paving from Woodstock to the Wisconsin line, Harrison Engineering and Construction corporation of Kansas City, Mo., $263,526.80.

Route 51, Cook county, 1.02 miles of paving at Spring Forest, George G. Anderson company of Harvey, $47,414.76.

Route 59, Lake county, 0.15 mile of paving gap north of Volo, E. A. Merrick of West McHenry, $6,909.90.

Route 60, McHenry-Lake counties, 6.94 miles of grading from point on route 61 south of Richmond to Fox Lake, S. J. Groves & Sons company of Libertyville, $126,650.19.

Route 60, McHenry county, bridge over Nippersink creek northwest of Fox Lake; a bridge over Nippersink creek, and another bridge, both west of Spring Grove, Thomas McQueen of Forest Park, $70,496.26.

Route 64, Du Page county, 0.45 mile of paving approaches to Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad; Chicago and North Western railroad, and Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad, near Ingalton, McCarthy Improvement company of Davenport, Ia., $34,489.32.

Big Task in Winnebago.

Route 70, Winnebago county, 16.11 miles of paving from a point south of Durand southeasterly to Rockford, Arcole Construction company of Niles Center, $249,800.

Route 82, McHenry county, 1.13 miles of grading west of Prophetstown, A. J. Bohiken of Arlington Heights, $6,932.23.

Before the bids are let the state highway department will investigate the responsibility of the low bidders and their plans for carrying out the work.

Stench Bomb Hurled in Evanston Cleaners' War

A stench bomb was hurled through the plate glass window of the Sterling Cleaners at 1713 Sherman avenue, Evanston, last night by two men who fled in an automobile. Police attributed the throwing to a price war among cleaners. Five months ago ten sticks of dynamite were found in the doorway of the establishment before they could be detonated.

DESERTED BUILDING COLLAPSES.

MOSCOW GREETS TURKISH PREMIER WITH GREAT POMP

MOSCOW, April 28.—Premier Ismet Pasha, Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey, and other Turkish officials received a welcome like the celebration of the return of a victorious Roman general when their train pulled into Moscow from Odessa this morning. The welcome was attended with more pomp than the arrival in 1928 of Amanullah, then king of Afghanistan.

The Turkish premier was greeted by Vyacheslaf Molotoff, soviet premier, and a military band thundered the Turkish anthem and the "Internationale" as the Turkish premier left his car. With Molotoff were Foreign Commissar Litvinoff, Assistant Foreign Commissar Karakhan, Gen. Budenny, and other high soviet officials. A crack Red army company lined the platform as the honor guard. In front of the station were more troops and cavalry with bands.

The Turkish delegation, which came here as a gesture of friendship, is occupying a palace formerly belonging to a rich textile merchant named Morozoff.

WAR DECLARED AGAINST REBELS BY NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 28.—(AP)—The Nicaraguan congress today declared a state of war in the department of Estell and in the areas about the more important towns of northern Leon and Chinandega departments. A state of siege was declared also in the eastern coast departments and the northern area departments.

The congressional decree was a result of renewed activities by insurgents in recent weeks.

NEW MOTOR CAR DOES 130 MILES SPEED PER HOUR

Speedway Is Too Slow for Road Tests.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—The fastest stock model automobile in the world was announced here today by Duesenberg, Inc. It will do 104 miles an hour in second gear and has done 130 miles an hour in high, without reaching top speed. Fred Duesenberg, the designer, believes the 320 horse power engine can push a fully equipped roadster 140 miles an hour.

"The public wants this speed," said H. T. Ames, president of the corporation. "It sounds pretty fast, but it was less than a decade ago that 40 miles an hour touring was some stepping.

"The new low price cars can now cruise at far better than a mile a minute, so for a luxury automobile we had to step up our engines. I suppose it will be only a few years when the flivvers will be bettering the century mark."

Trend Is Toward Speed.

At a speed of 140 miles an hour the Tribune Tower is within five minutes of Evanston, Oak Park, and the South Shore Country club. Of course, there isn't any facility for accommodating such urban driving rates today.

In trying out the new Duesenberg, the famous speedway race track here couldn't be used. The brick oval isn't fast enough. Its record for the annual Memorial day 500 mile race is 101 miles per hour, established by Pete De Paolo in 1925. So the new model had to be tested on an ordinary country pavement near here, where there is a two mile straightaway.

Has Eight Cylinder Motor.

The new Duesenberg has an eight cylinder engine equipped with a supercharger. A supercharger, such as here used, is a turbine fan that forces gas from the carburetor into the combustion chamber under pressure, aiding the usual suction from the down stroke of the piston head in fueling the cylinder.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

WOMEN VOTERS CHEER DEMAND FOR JOBLESS AID

Repeal of Hawley-Smoot Tariff Law Urged.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 28.—[Special.] Jolted suddenly out of its routine conservatism by a terse and vehement challenge from Miss Gertrude Ely of Bryn Mawr, Pa., the convention of the National League of Women Voters burst into a storm of applause today at the prospect of action on the present economic crisis.

MRS. MALCOLM McBRIDE. [Bachrach Photo.]

Dr. Mollie Ray Carroll of Chicago, internationally known as an authority on labor problems, succeeded this afternoon in completely upsetting the main precedent on which the league has always particularly prided itself. Dr. Carroll, as acting chairman of the committee on women in industry, presented for the support of the league an item phrased, "A system of federal, state, and local unemployment relief."

So radical did this appear to the leaders that Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland, national president, spoke against it as contrary to league procedure. Miss Ely warmly supported the measure and her approval was credited with its passing the convention body.

Demand Reduction of Tariff.

At the morning session a resolution was introduced by Mrs. Malcolm McBride of Cleveland, president of the Ohio league, that the convention vote its support of immediate repeal of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, and the prompt and general reduction of the tariff schedules of this country.

At the afternoon session Mrs. McBride created further excitement by announcing withdrawal of the resolution. She explained that she had not changed her attitude, but that the committee on living costs had had ample opportunity to submit the resolution and had not done so.

Both of these matters completely eclipsed for the moment the report of the nominating committee, placing Miss Sherwin, unopposed, as the candidate for reelection as president. The report is tantamount to election.

Cheer Plan to Battle Depression.

The ovation that greeted Miss Ely's motion demonstrated the popularity of the topic even before the vote was taken. It provided for the appointment of a committee to select from the league's program of study those measures relating to unemployment, cost of government, and disarmament, on which immediate emphasis may be placed by the state leagues.

Since the whole policy of the national league is first to study what should be done, and then promote legislation to effect it, this emergency program epitomizes the sentiment of the membership. Moreover, it is to have the right of way over other matters.

Generally the method of procedure is so intensively academic that years sometimes pass before an item is graduated from the schedule for study by the league, to that for active support.

Prospects are that the final day of the convention also will be its most crowded, for there are resolutions which, it is conceded, will not be passed without varying degrees of opposition.

Ignoring of Dry Law Defended.

At a conference this morning requested by the press, Miss Marguerite Wells of Minneapolis, a national director, defended the stand of the league in refusing to put prohibition on either its study or support program despite the number of members who are outspokenly antagonistic, personally, to the eighteenth amendment.

"We recognize," Miss Wells said, "that prohibition is a great and vital issue, but we do not acknowledge any inconsistency in not taking it up for study. It is impossible for this organization to finance adequate studies of all the big problems that confront the nation because the cost would be prohibitive."

Dismiss Two for Whom Schulman Sought Release

Charges of disorderly conduct against Herman and John Rocklin, who operate a cigar store at 104 South Halsted street, were dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy. Capt. John Stege of the Des Plaines street police arrested the brothers the day before the primary after they had allegedly refused to close a handbook which they were charged with operating in the shop. At the time of their arrest Municipal Judge Joseph Schulman made ineffective efforts to obtain their release.

RAIL WRECK THAT COST TWO LIVES LAID TO VANDALS

Crack Train Derailed Near South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—An inquiry was opened into the derailment early this morning of the Maple Leaf flyer of the Grand Trunk railroad on the theory that the train was deliberately wrecked.

The train, bound from Montreal to Chicago, plunged off an elevation a short distance east of here killing the engineer and fireman. A mother and three small children were injured when a mail car became uncoupled and crashed into a bungalow.

Investigators believe the train hit something and did not topple over of its own accord. Chief of Police John B. Kuespert was joined in the investigation by interstate commerce officials, Coronor B. J. Bolka and officials of the Grand Trunk and New York Central railroads, both of which use the elevation.

Reports that persons in the neighborhood of the elevation were disgruntled over extention of the elevation project, are to be investigated. Two weeks ago a piece of angle iron and a steel stake were found fastened to the track.

Bradburn was uninjured. His wife and their children, Marshall, 5 years old; Albert, 3 years old, and William, 6 weeks old, were taken to Epworth hospital. They were slightly injured.

WOMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY TRYING TO SERVE WRIT

Two deputy sheriffs, who went to the home of Mrs. Alma Miller, 38 years old, 1233 West 74th street, to serve a writ of replevin yesterday met armed resistance. Refused admittance by Mrs. Miller, they tried to open a window on the front porch. A shot was fired. One of the deputies, Frank Rollins, 32 years old, 1920 South Troy street, was wounded in the forefinger of his left hand. He went to St. Bernard's hospital for treatment.

The second deputy, Walter Blythe, called the Englewood police. Mrs. Miller was arrested and charged with assault with a revolver. She will be arraigned in the Felony court today. The writ the deputies tried to serve was obtained by a furniture company which claimed a debt of $750 for furniture purchased.

Michael Gaynor, 36 years old, 4869 Winthrop avenue, was arrested yesterday as a suspect in the murder of Thomas Constance, known as the banker of the Greek colony in Chicago. Constance, who lived at 1067 Argyle street, was shot and killed on Feb. 6, 1931. It was at first believed he was a victim of robbers, but the police are questioning Gaynor on the theory that rivalry of the two men for the affections of a widow may have furnished a motive for the killing.

How many of us are awake to the wonderful buying opportunities of 1932? : : : and more important : : : how many of us are profiting by these wonderful buying opportunities? History reveals that the foundations of some of America's greatest fortunes were laid in periods when prices were down. Today's savings represent tomorrow's profits!

Mr. American Citizen, his wife and his family, are face to face today with the most outstanding values in modern times. What are you going to do about it, Mr. and Mrs. American Citizen? These very low prices cannot continue indefinitely. Let's peer into the future! Some of us will regret . . . while others will cherish . . . these glorious opportunities to buy and to profit.

This is the first of a series of glimpses into the future . . : "LOOKING BACK TO 1932." BY MARY MEADE.

This is such a nice letter and such a good recipe that I shall pass both on to you this morning. Mrs. V. S. F. writes: "The enclosed recipe has been in our family for several generations. Of course, it wasn't an exact recipe when I received it from my grandmother, but I have worked it out fairly well. Try it sometime." [We have, and the cookies are scrumptious!]

"The young people who come to my house seem to prefer my cookies to other things that I do; but then, I've been baking them off and on through one whole generation."

MRS. V. S. F.'S COOKIES.

3 eggs
2 cups of brown sugar
1 teaspoon of cinnamon
2 ounces of chocolate [2 squares]
1 cup of almonds [¼ pound]
1 cup of citron [¼ pound]
4 cups of flour
4 teaspoons of baking powder.

Stir the eggs until the whites and yolks are blended. Add the brown sugar and stir until the mixture is thick and creamy. Add the cinnamon, chocolate [melted over hot water], blanched almonds, and citron [which have been put through the coarse blade of a food chopper]. Fold in the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder. Drop from the end of a teaspoon onto a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees Fahrenheit] about fifteen minutes. Spread the bottom or the smooth side of the cookies with an icing made of confectioner's sugar and hot water. Make two kinds of icing: One kind plain white with a few drops of vanilla added to the sugar and water; and then to part of this add a small quantity of melted chocolate. Spread some of the cookies with white icing and some with chocolate.

In addition to the above recipe we have two other new ones for your files. The first is the orange custard pie suggested as a dessert for tomorrow evening's dinner. The second is a novel treatment of sponge cake which should stand you in good stead in the bright light of May entertaining.

1¾ cups boiling water
3 eggs
¼ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cream
1 baked pastry shell.

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water. Separate the eggs, beat the yolks with sugar and salt until thick. Pour on the hot gelatin mixture slowly, beating continually. Add the cream. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken, then whip with an egg beater until frothy. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into cold baked pastry shell and chill until firm. Before serving garnish with orange sections.

PASTEL SURPRISE.

Cut a loaf sponge cake in half lengthwise, as for a sandwich. Spread the lower half thickly with pastel icing, then put on the upper half of cake and ice all over with the remainder of the icing. This will keep nicely for two days.

The icing is made of two egg whites and 1 cup of jelly. Put the jelly into a bowl and beat with a beater until the jelly is broken up but not liquid. Add the unbeaten whites and beat until the mixture holds its shape when beater is drawn through it. Spread on the cake. Various attractive color combinations can be worked out. Grape jelly gives a lovely orchid color, especially if a half teaspoonful of lemon juice is added. Currant jelly makes a dainty pink color. Jams cannot be substituted for the jelly. This icing may also be used on cup cakes or individual pastries.

Good Morning!

O, I can think of all sorts of reasons why you should see "This Is the Night"—musical comedy adaptation of the Avery Hopwood stage farce in which Irene Bordoni was featured!

Music it has! Laughter! [And we can use all of them we can get!] Romance. . . . Situations, smart, risque, amusing, pathetic. . . . Gorgeous settings. . . . Venice in the moonlight. . . . Roland Young AND Charles Ruggles! Are they funny? THEY ARE! . . . Two luscious looking leading women—Lily Damita and Thelma Todd, who give intriguing performances. . . . A dark, itful young man with a dimpled chin, who is the husband of Miss Todd—in the picture—and the Nemesis of an athlete whose specialty is throwing the lady's boy friend, Mr. Young, who fears him with reason, for Stepan is an athlete whose specialty is throwing javelins. . . .

"Tell me," asks Mr. Young, "when you throw, do you aim at accuracy or distance?"

"Both," responds this husband who has returned home to Paris just in time to keep from being wronged.

Want to read any more? Thought not. Signing off.

New Arrivals of Redingotes Are Stunning

Offer All the Latest in Style Effects.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ALL the newest redingotes are out . . . in the windows, in all showcases, and a lot of them are hurrying around the town on the fashion-wise shoppers who shrewdly realized smart economy at the first pre-view of these good-looking and very practical street ensembles. Their sort of quaint, old fashioned name rather belies their sophisticated color and 1932 charm . . . their distinctive design and clever color combinations make them an outstanding success for all smart early summer wardrobes.

The newest arrivals look more intricate than the first collections . . . a few weeks ago the initial attempts were marked with an almost stark simplicity . . . the skirts were plain . . . the jackets plainer, and collars were completely disregarded . . . now they have stolen the latest fashion shows of wearable, daytime clothes, with stunning ideas that are as subtly mixed as a springtime salad.

If you are wearing the blues, you will find all kinds of blue-toned redingotes . . . that is, the outer layer is blue . . . navy blue, deep gentian blue, and a particularly becoming dusky shade of blue that practically every one can wear. Starting with blue for a good background, you can go in for combinations that will either mark you as an artistic dabbler in color contrasts or as a brave but rather reckless combine racketeer.

Somebody used a mahogany red frock of silk printed material with small chalk white designs under a navy blue thin wool redingote . . . another light beige creation used a sheer wool redingote worn over a watery green silk crêpe dress . . . and you won't need to look very long before you will find the black and white striped diagonally fashioned frock of silk crêpe worn with the coat and skirt combination of sooty black with buttons of red and a belt of red patent leather. The most dramatic redingote is the one consisting of a black and white horizontally striped frock worn with a white wool coat or redingote . . . the wool of this ensemble being as thin and sheer, looking like a wide meshed material usually found among the cottons or voiles.

The grand and glorious thing about these redingotes is their turn-about tricks . . . with the redingote proper, or the outside layer, you can think up a few good changes that will make the envious observer decide that your wardrobe is unlimited . . . you can have five or six silk, cotton, or linen frocks to wear with one redingote coat effect . . . change your accessories with each frock and your fashion reputation is made.

The newest hats to wear with these early summer combinations are made of silk . . . taffeta, crêpe, and faille silk . . . these hats are a maze of stitching . . . rows and rows racing around the brim as well as the crown.

Nearly all of them have brims and rather wide, eye-shading extensions at that.

One clever model is copied from a gob cap with an upturned shallow brim that gives a rakish halo effect . . . this one, too, is stitched to flattering distraction, but the inch wide band that anchors it well to windward over the right ear is something to get excited about.

Other silk creations go down over the right eye, dip and curl fetchingly around the left front elevation, and fit snugly with a band held in place with a metal buckle or a casual bow or two. There may be colors later, but so far the new arrivals cling to smart black and navy blue.

Two Smart Costumes for Sports Wear

TEMPERAMENT? O, THAT'S CHIEF SAUCE FOR CHEFS

90% Temper and Other 10% Mental.

BY WILLIAM IRVIN.

Henri measured up to my idea of the composite chef, which was that of a temperamental Santa Claus, with a waxed mustache and a French accent. All chefs, of course, aren't temperamental, but any good chef will tell you that temperament has a lot to do with being a good chef. Or to put it more simply, a chef can be a good chef without being temperamental, but who would know it?

And any steward will tell you that the chef who goes serenely along his culinary way without ever indulging in temperamental outbursts lacks the true artistic spark, without which he is just another chef.

In fact, the wise steward will try to encourage temperament in the chef, going to great pains to show the chef just how he can get the most out of a fit of temperament. It is found that too often the chef blindly grabs for anything within reach and just as blindly throws it, without considering whether it is going to hit where it will make the most noise and do the most damage.

Crashes Appease Wrath.

Any steward knows that a good crashing sound, as of a thousand plates landing simultaneously on a cement surface, does more than anything else to relieve the chef's tormented soul of its full burden of anguish. If the chef doesn't rid himself completely of his pent up wrath at the first outburst he is likely to sulk the rest of the day.

The experienced steward realizes, therefore, how important it is to direct these outbursts of temperament so that they will do the most good, or damage, depending on your point of view. The chef, for instance, is shown that it is just as easy to throw five utensils as one or two, and that he can, by butting his head against the wall, say ten times instead of five, get a better concussion.

The screaming chef, I'm told, is more of a problem because his first impulse when anything goes wrong is to launch into a shrill falsetto that can be mistaken for a good many things. One steward, I understand, is working on a method of getting the chef to crescendo his screams, working gradually to the desired pitch, as does the coloratura soprano. This steward predicted that the time is coming when the chef who can't show a diploma for voice culture is going to be left out in the cold.

Nice Little Game.

Another ingenious steward has made a game of his chef's temperament. He has placed a target on the wall and the game is to see how many bull's-eyes the chef can score. Another little stunt is to have the chef butt his head against the wall five or ten times, depending on how mad he is, before flying into a rage. If he isn't pretty well subdued by this time he can tear the place apart.

Carrying this idea even further, a sign is placed where the chef can see it when about to go into a tantrum. The sign reads: "Have you butted se head? How's your aim today? Attaboy! Hot cha-a-a!"

You must hear about André, who became quite adept at butting his head, and was quite proud of his ability. André could butt his head anywhere from ten to fifteen times against the hardest kitchen wall and still be mad enough to call one of his assistants a "sprig of parsley." Naturally, André was admired and respected by the assistant chefs, who would stand around in an awed group while the butting was going on.

He Ought to Be Promoted.

"Ah, ze master, how mag-nee-fee cant he bumps ze head," they would whisper. One day, however, André took a fancied grudge against DuBois, one of the assistants, of whom no one had ever expected great things. Losing his temper André called DuBois a lot of silly names and then dropped a meat cleaver on DuBois' favorite corn. DuBois raced to the wall, butted his head 22 times without batting an eye, scored twelve bull's-eyes, sang "La Marseillaise" three times backward and kicked in the end of the stove. DuBois was immediately made head chef.

Fred, however, a steward of long experience, used another method in dealing with temperamental chefs. He called it his "squq-q-q!" method. He would stride into the kitchen with the largest butcher knife he could find and walk up and down. "Snap out of it, boys, or squq-q-y!" he would say, illustrating his point by pulling his finger across his throat. Sometimes he would point out the possibility of their getting their ears cut off, and this idea also caught on quickly.

But we've gotten away from Henri, who was somewhat in a class by himself, because he invariably burst into song when he felt a fit of temperament coming on. When you heard Henri warbling at the top of his voice you could be sure he was pretty mad about something. One day an impresario heard him.

Then the Fun Began.

"Who is that bluebird of happiness?" he asked. "I must sign him up." Now, it happened that Henri made swell onion soup, the very kind the impresario liked best. This fact should be kept in mind because it has a lot to do with the rest of the story:

Henri made his debut before a crowded house, and got along fine for a while. Then, while lingering on a particularly high note, Henri closed his eyes for a moment, or he might have dodged. The smack with which the aged tomato found refuge under the cornice of Henri's palate was audible in the sixteenth row.

The shock was too much for Henri's artistic temperament. He stamped off the stage, vowing never to return. The next day Henri was warbling in the kitchen and the impresario was eating onion soup. "It had to be done—about the tomato, I mean," he explained. "I like Henri's onion soup better than his singing."

HERE IS WHERE TO GO HUNTING FOR VITAMINS

Six of Them Available in Common Vegetables.

No scientist as yet has led the elusive vitamin into plain view. Yet food studies have convinced dietitians and nutrition experts that the vitamin does exist and that there are at least six which should be and usually are available in foods eaten by the average person.

These six are called A, B, C, D, E and G and each one is said to have a definite function. For instance, we might start with vitamin A which is credited with giving a person protection against common infections and with promoting growth and vigor.

Thin persons who often find their appetites lagging can perk them up with vitamin B, which is found in peas, celery, parsnips, asparagus, cauliflower, and turnips.

Scurvy has become a rare pestilence because fresh fruits and vegetables and many other foods now common to the table are more than a summer luxury. Food marts offer them winter spring and fall as well. Tooth decay, as well as scurvy, is more easily avoided by eating potatoes, onions, cabbage, lettuce, beets, tomatoes, spinach and cucumbers, which contain vitamin C.

Fruits and vegetables offer little in the way of a supply of vitamin D. This vitamin, which protects against rickets and is important in feeding children, can be absorbed in the summer from direct sunlight. In other than summer months protection is found in egg yolk, butter, whole milk and cod liver oil.

This One Found in Lettuce.

Another vitamin which adds to the vigor of middle aged persons, is vitamin E, which is supplied by lettuce. As for vitamin G, one may find it in beet greens, kale, potatoes, spinach and turnip greens, vegetables which help keep the blood stream in a healthy condition.

Apart from the vitamins, one of the most important points is to select foods which have generous supplies of iron. Iron absorbs oxygen and feeds the tissues as a blood mineral in the red corpuscles. In addition to the vegetables listed as good sources of vitamin G, which also are good iron sources, one may select dandelion greens, mustard greens, collards, watercress, chives or chard.

HOUSEHOLD HINT.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES ONE THIRD OF NATION'S ILLS

At least one third of those who visit their doctors are afflicted with constipation, states a leading life insurance company. Many of these are victims of even more serious disorders from long-continued use of cathartics and purgatives. Constipation can be compared to an octopus in its treacherous grip on the human system.

Dietitians have lately discovered that colds, sick headaches, indigestion, dyspepsia and mental dullness are directly caused by intestinal sluggishness. Eventually it can cause disorders of the gall bladder, the kidneys and other diseases of old age.

The cause and the relief of constipation are usually found in the foods we eat. The human system requires a certain amount of "roughage" in the diet for intestinal hygiene. Bran, the outer coating of wheat kernels supplies this roughage in a natural form.

You'll enjoy eating bran as it comes to you in Wheat Pops—the new whole grain breakfast food. In Wheat Pops you enjoy not only the benefits of natural bran, but the full food value and wonderful flavor of whole wheat. Wheat Pops is crispy, crunchy, crackly with the supreme deliciousness of sun-ripened grains! Ask your grocer for Wheat Pops. FOODTOWN KITCHENS, INC., Chicago.

SPRING BRINGS FRESH PRODUCE OF THE GARDEN

But Most of It Comes from South and Hothouses.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Strawberries by the pint, dry measure, are selling in Chicago at from 10 to 20 cents retail. Does that indicate to you that they have made much of a journey or that they have been sold anywhere from three to five times before you select them from your grocer's wares?

Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama at present are the principal sources of the carlots of strawberries being sold daily in and around Chicago. Some of the best this week were purchased by retailers at around $3 for 24 pint crates, while the average probably was around $2 wholesale and about 12 to 15 cents, retail.

Fresh Fruits Mostly from South.

Much of our fresh fruits and vegetables continue to arrive from the southlands, a survey of the markets indicate. One can buy radishes for 5 cents a bunch or sometimes three bunches for 10 cents, yet the source of them is largely Tennessee, Texas, Arkansas, and Missouri, although some are being sold as "homegrown" from Illinois and Indiana hothouses, where cucumbers and tomatoes also are being produced at comparatively fancy prices.

Green onions are worth about 5 cents a bunch in retail stores, although some not quite so large from Illinois and Indiana growers are able to compete on price with the bunches being shipped here in bushel baskets from Colorado.

Cucumbers cost retail from 12 to 15 cents each, because it really isn't their season as yet and except for those from the south, the hothouses located within a few hundred miles are supplying a large share of the demand.

As in the case of strawberries, one can buy the "out-of-season" asparagus at various prices, depending somewhat on the size of the tips and various other points of quality. For some bunches one may pay the grocer 12 to 15 cents a bunch, but for the extra fancy the price may be as much as 30 cents a bunch. The supply is in the fields in California, Georgia, Utah and South Carolina.

Rhubarb on Market.

Another harbinger of a popular spring and summer vegetable is found in the hothouse rhubarb, labeled in the olden days "pieplant." Rhubarb from the hothouse is largely from the state of Washington at present, while some of the field grown crop is being shipped here from California. It's worth 6 to 8 cents a pound, retail.

Green beans from Florida should cost a shopper from 12 to 16 cents a pound, but they should be of good quality for this price. A bunch of Texas grown broccoli should put 15 to 18 cents more on the shopping list. Peas in the pod from California and Arizona will cost 7 to 10 cents a pound at the store.

Potatoes grown in 1931 come under the fresh vegetable classification, but are worth half or less than half as much as the new potatoes from the south. The latter are worth up to 5 cents a pound, while the old potatoes, preferred by many housewives for baking and some cooking purposes, are worth 13 to 30 cents a peck, depending on size and quality.

DANDELION, SURE SIGN OF SPRING, GOOD AS GREENS

Dandelions may be pests to the man who prides himself on his fine lawn, but to eaters of early spring greens they're a sure sign that spring has arrived.

Wash thoroughly and discard any wilted or imperfect leaves. There is always enough water left on the leaves after washing the greens for cooking. They will need frequent turning to prevent burning. Do not put a lid on the cooking kettle. Cook the greens as short a time as possible, just until they are tender. When done in this way the leaves are not mushy but tender and firm.

Pour Boiling Water Over Oranges; They'll Peel Easily

Pour boiling water over oranges and let them stand for five minutes if you would make the peeling easier. Under this treatment the white lining will come away from the skin. Then slice them and put them in the refrigerator to cool. Never let oranges stand long after slicing as they become bitter. The boiling water is as serviceable in the case of grapefruit.

"They've Never Been Cheaper in Spring"

Pineapples are selling this spring, as usual, according to size and are about as cheap as they will be during the height of the season in May and June. Frank Kavanagh, buyer for the W. H. G. Kavanagh company, learns from Mary Sutton, sales clerk for Fox & Godding at 66-68 South Water market, that boxes of the Cuban fruit are worth wholesale $2.10 to $2.75, making retail prices from 15 to 30 cents each.

PEANUT BUTTER MAKING EASY; TRY IT YOURSELF

Sandwich Combinations Are Numerous.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

"Peanuts! Peanuts! Fresh roasted peanuts!" So goes the familiar call of the peanut vendor as he wends his way through circus crowds, among ball park fans, or along the streets with his "push" wagon. It's an old cry, but one with a flavor which always draws customers, both large and small, by the dozens.

Eat them roasted and shucked if you will, but don't pass up the peanut butter spread. These days when little more than a sandwich or two does for lunch, there can be all kinds of peanut butter sandwich combinations. Have it with slices of fried bacon, or combine it with creamed cheese, piccalilli, jam, or marmalade.

But first, of course, you'll have to have the peanut butter. If you want to try your own hand at the butter making you'll find it an easy job.

Take Tip from Commerce.

It would be well to follow the outline for the commercial product, using both the Virginia and the Spanish "nuts." The Virginia product is for flavor and the Spanish for the proper oiliness. Take the roasted peanuts, shell, and remove skins. Then put them through a food chopper and mix with creamed butter. Or, instead of using butter, you can season with salt and mix into a paste with cream.

Now for the piccalilli combination! Spread one slice of bread with peanut butter mixed with a little melted butter and salt, the other with well drained piccalilli, and press together. There's your sandwich, but it will have to be eaten almost at once because it's liable to get soggy. You can make three-decker sandwiches with the peanut butter on one deck and any kind of jam, marmalade, or a cream cheese on the second deck. The plain combination of peanut butter spread on raisin bread also makes a tasty bit.

For a Peanut Loaf.

For a meatless dinner or luncheon a peanut loaf served with French fried or shoe string potatoes and maybe a salad would be food fare. Here's the recipe for the loaf.

1 lump butter, walnut size
1 small onion
2 cups boiling water
20 rolled soda crackers
Pinch of sage

Dissolve the peanut butter in the boiling water and add sage, butter, and onion, which has been chopped fine. Then add crackers and mix well. Divide into two parts, each in a one pound baking powder can and cover. Boil two hours with weights on covers. Cool in tins to allow loaf to shrink away from the sides, then remove and slice when ready to serve.

HOUSEHOLD HINT.

CALLS FOR EATING HABITS BASED ON COMMON SENSE

Ames, Ia., April 28.—[Special.]—Food fads have been like an uneducated Moses leading the American people into eating habits that often are not founded on common sense, according to the deductions of Dr. V. E. Nelson, professor of food chemistry at Iowa state college.

"Eat what you like after you have eaten what you need," Dr. Nelson says. "The six vitamins, A, B, C, D, E, and G, necessary for health, are contained in dairy products, fresh fruits, and vegetables. There is little more to say concerning a healthful diet.

"Be sure that you get a quart of milk daily, plenty of butter, some fresh fruits and green vegetables, and plenty of sunlight or a little cod liver oil."

Dr. Nelson contends that the diet is not a complicated study, but is rather simple enough for the understanding of a layman.

FRUIT PRICES IN WHOLESALE MARKET LISTED

Average wholesale prices in the Chicago fruit auction this week for leading fresh fruits were as follows: California lemons, $3.28 box; California navel oranges, $3.03; Florida oranges, $3.81; Florida grapefruit, $3.81; Washington apples, from $1.15 per box for winesaps to $2.20 to $2.45 a box for extra fancy Delicious.

Pork and Veal Selling at Attractive Prices

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states:

"The Chicago housewife will find any cut of pork an unusually good buy in retail meat stores in Chicago over the coming week-end. Pork loin roast, fresh hams, and spare ribs are the outstanding values. Veal also is selling at attractive prices at the present time."

How much is a quarter cup of Butter?

BROKE AT 70, BUT THEIR ROMANCE AND GRIT LIVE ON

Pop and Mom Hallam Celebrate Golden Wedding.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Do you want a tonic for a run down romance? Then read about Pop and Mom Hallam and learn that success stories may be found in real life as well as between the covers of magazines.

Three months ago the Hallams checked their meager assets and found impoverished old age just around the corner. Did they go and live with their children? They did not! The Hallams are only seventy and they come from the highlands of Scotland; so the Hallams found a vacant store and went into the stationery business.

Tonight they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and three months of financial independence with a dish of haggis and a wee doch 'n' dorris.

"After the golden anniversary," mused Henry Hallam this afternoon as he came out from behind a counter and called for mamma, "there comes a diamond wedding."

She Has Young Ideas.

"Such talk!" tsh-tshed Mother Hallam. "The idea of a diamond wedding! I'm going to get young and start running around."

"But a diamond wedding, mother, that's better than gold," said the old Scotchman. "I'm going to keep you."

Forty-three years ago the Hallams came to New York from their native village of Goven, Scotland. In the passing years they reared four children, saw them started on the road of marital happiness, and then dark days came when the depression wiped out most of their savings.

Captains of industry, world bankers and others in high places have chosen the easier way out in recent weeks when their castles came tumbling down. They lacked the sterner stuff on which the Hallams drew to succeed in life and business—after seventy.

It's Like Another Wedding.

"Now, we couldn't be a burden to the children," explained Mother Hallam, "so I just told Henry we would go into business together.

Dad Hallam's blue Scot eyes lighted as he chimed in.

"And so we did," he said in a voice with a burr in it, "and here's the store. We've paid our bills and made a bit more. We've had a brae good time, too."

The golden wedding anniversary was celebrated at the home of their youngest son, Alfred Hallam, in the Bronx. Mother and Father Hallam closed shop even ahead of daylight saving time this afternoon, dressed as if for a wedding, and took a taxi across town for Alfred's apartment. All the other children and grandchildren were there from Staten Island, Asbury Park, N. J., and Long Island.

Store Will Be Open at 6 A. M.

The stationery shop, a place where you "can't put on your hat and go out when you want to," according to Mother Hallam, was forgotten as the family reunion got under way. It was the couple's first night out since they opened their shop and they were going to make a real Highland fling out of it.

"Sure, Henry will open the store at 6 o'clock in the morning," said Mother Hallam, "for I'll see that he does not get a wee drop too much."

Downtown in Manhattan there is a newly organized marriage clinic. They call it the Institute of Family Relations.

Pop and Mom Hallam could teach the professors a thing or two regarding matrimony and economics.

DEATH AT SEA OF POET CONFIRMED; WINNER OF GUGGENHEIM AWARD

New York, April 28.—(AP)—The death at sea, under unexplained circumstances, of Hart Crane, Cleveland poet, who was on his way here from Mexico City on the liner Orizaba, was confirmed today by officials of the Ward line.

A radiogram, dated yesterday and signed by the ship's captain, read:

"Hart Crane went overboard at noon today. Body not recovered."

Whether the death was an accident or suicide could not be learned.

Crane, 33 years old, had been for some months in Mexico City, where he went after receiving a $2,500 Guggenheim Foundation fellowship last year to enable him to carry on his work in creative poetry.

His friends there said he had threatened to kill himself and a friend had gone with him on the Orizaba to guard against a possible suicide attempt.

LETTER IN BANK CASE A FORGERY, ATTORNEY SAYS

The authenticity of a carbon copy of a letter found among papers of the Coöperative Society of America and the City State Bank of Chicago was an outstanding point in a hearing yesterday in Judge Walter Stanton's Criminal court, where Attorney Seymour Stedman and thirteen other officials of the defunct bank are seeking to have indictments against them quashed. The charges against them are the outgrowth of the bank failure in November, 1929.

Cornelius R. Miller, who was director of the state department of public works under former Gov. Len Small and who was president of the bank, was the supposed recipient of the letter, dated April 18, 1929, and purporting to be from Stedman. It contained a request that Miller use his efforts to prevent the bank being closed by the state auditor, after it had been found that the institution was in a serious condition.

The letter was produced in court on the demand of Attorney Stedman, who denied authorship of it, and who charged that it was a forgery "planted" by his enemies. Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers, who has charge of the bank investigations, said that he believed the letter was genuine. Anne Margolis, secretary to Stedman, whose initials appear on the copy of the letter as the stenographer, denied that she had written it. Judge Stanton will hold another session in the case on Monday.

The depositors of the City State Bank of Chicago have received 27 cents on the dollar up to date, according to Assistant State's Attorneys John Hampton and John O'Hora.

FALLS DEAD OF HEART DISEASE.

Columbus, O., April 28.—[Special.]—Guy Ellsworth, Newark, 70, local representative of the Wanner Printing and Binding company of Chicago, fell dead of heart disease here today. A sister, Mrs. Carrie Wilder of Allegan, Mich., and two grandchildren survive.

2 CO-EDS DEAD; HUNT SURGEON, QUIZ OSTEOPATH

6 Other Girls Victims of Operations.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 28.—[Special.] — Eight fatalities among young women from illegal operations were uncovered today here in an investigation into the deaths of two University of Oklahoma co-eds. Dr. Richard E. Thacker, physician and surgeon, accused in several of the cases, is being sought and Dr. J. W. Eisenminger, an osteopath, is held for questioning.

Assistant County Attorney Draper Grigsby said Dr. Eisenminger has made a statement in which he said he gave "treatments" to Virginia Wycoff, 21 years old., university student and daughter of a Norman, Okla., dressmaker. He denied having operated in the strict sense of the word.

Surgeon Is Accused.

Dr. Thacker, who is believed to have fled the city, was accused by Frank Lee, university athlete, as the surgeon who operated on his 17 year old secret bride, the former Nancy Jo Seay, also a student of the university. The doctor had already been charged with the murder by abortion of a young employé of a telegraph company.

The wife of Lee died Tuesday night and was buried at Bonham, Tex. Lee arrived with red eyes from Bonham to tell his story at the inquiry in Norman. He said he and his wife were married at Wichita Falls, Tex., on Feb. 2.

"We returned to school and did not live together because we were afraid our folks would have the marriage annulled if they learned about it," he said. "We visited Dr. Thayer on advice of student friends—his name is well known on the campus. We were both nervous and didn't know what to do. I paid him $30."

2 Die in Same Hospital.

Lee said he did not witness the operation. His bride was put under the care of a nurse, suggested by the physician, and returned to school, he said. She became violently ill and died in a hospital. The Wyckoff girl died in the same hospital this week.

Lee told his story to County Attorney Lewis R. Morris, operatives of the state bureau of criminal investigation and university authorities, headed by President W. B. Gizzell, in a university office. Dr. Bizzell declared himself determined to "get at the bottom of the matter."

County Attorney Morris said early investigation had disclosed that several homes here have been used as hospitals for girls. He said his office had been searching for members of a ring, possibly including several physicians, even before the deaths of the co-eds came to light yesterday as a result of incomplete death certificates.

Friend to Be Questioned.

In connection with the Wyckoff case the prosecutor said he will question Esca Milne, a friend of the girl's family, who conducts a cleaning shop adjoining the Wyckoff dressmaking shop near the campus. Miss Milne was in Centerville, Ia., where the girl's body was taken for burial.

Morris said he has a statement signed by F. S. Roach of Oklahoma City, who charges his wife died of an illegal operation performed by Dr. Thacker. Names of other victims have not been disclosed.

J. R. Pyne Dies in Sleep; Former Head of Dunning

James R. Pyne, former postmaster of Maywood, and one time superintendent of the Dunning State hospital for the insane, was found dead in bed last night by Mrs. Catherine Pyne, 1015 South Sixth avenue, Maywood, his sister-in-law, with whom he lived. It was believed he suffered a heart attack and died in his sleep. He was 77 years old.

He became postmaster of the suburb ten years ago, after resigning as superintendent of the state hospital. Four years later he retired as postmaster because of his advanced age and failing health.

URIBURU, FORMER PRESIDENT OF ARGENTINA, DIES

PARIS, April 29 [Friday]—(AP)—Former President Jose Francisco Uriburu of Argentina died early today at a hospital where he underwent an operation for stomach ulcers last Saturday. He was 64 years old. His wife, son and daughter were with him at the end.

Uriburu became president of Argentina in 1930 after revolution had upset the day old government of Enrico Martinez, then vice president, who took the reins upon the resignation of the Yrigoyen régime.

Uriburu ruled under martial law. He quickly set in motion reorganizing efforts, relations were renewed with all foreign countries and an ambassador was sent to the United States. Late in 1931 Gen. Uriburu announced that constitutional elections would be held on Nov. 8, and accordingly Augustin P. Justo was elected to succeed the provisional régime.

St. Denis, mother of Ruth St. Denis, the dancer. The 88 year old woman, who toured the country lecturing on the freedom of women's clothing as an aid to health, claimed to be the first woman medical graduate from the University of Michigan.

SCHOOL PUPILS WILL GET FREE MEDICAL TESTS

Chicago school children will be given free examinations by the 5,000 members of the Chicago Medical society during Youth week, May 8 to 14, it was announced yesterday by the council of the medical society. Blanks have been prepared which will be distributed to the children at school, directing them to physicians' offices for the examinations.

The free examinations were undertaken by the society as an emergency measure. They will be given because of the city's failure to appropriate funds to the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium for the physicians who formerly made examinations of children in schools.

"Evidence indicates that a vast majority of children, while well, have such remedial defects as enlarged tonsils, flat feet, decaying teeth, bad vision, or defective hearing," the medical society announcement states, "and that such defects are frequently overlooked and sometimes interfere seriously with children's progress in school."

He was said to be the oldest member of the present faculty in point of service.

Mr. Van Hovenberg was graduated from the Kent College of Law and admitted to the bar in 1901. He was one of the oldest members of the Federation of Men High School Teachers. Surviving him are his widow, Elizabeth D., and a sister, Margaret V. H. Morrill of Norwood, Mass. Funeral services will be held from the chapel at 2410 West North avenue at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be in Eau Claire.

ORDINANCE TO CURB TAXI DANCE HALLS IS ASKED

An ordinance requiring the licensing of dancing schools, aimed primarily at taxi dance halls, was drafted by the finance committee of the city council yesterday and recommended to the council for passage.

The ordinance provides for a license of $100 annually for all dancing schools except where there are not more than six instructors, or where the teaching is confined to children 16 years or younger.

Assistant Corporation Consuls William V. Daly and Otto F. Weiner told the committee that the ordinance would permit the proper control of taxi dance halls by the police and the virtual elimination of the immoral dancing which has been allowed up to the present.

SHOW $4,950,000 DROP IN ESTATE OF REALTY MAN

It was disclosed yesterday in the Probate court that the estate of Robert White, real estate operator who shot himself on Monday in his apartment at 40 East Oak street, once valued at five million dollars, had shrunk to approximately $50,000.

White left no will. His widow, Mrs. Emma Merigold White of the Webster hotel, from whom he had been estranged for some time before his death, was granted letters of administration by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

CEREAL RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought New Health

Every one who has suffered from constipation should read Mr. P. M. Fisher's letter:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."—Mr. P. M. Fisher, 352 Evergreen Place, Ridgewood, N. J.

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN supplies both—and also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

How much safer this is than risking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Beulah M. Dix Writes Book of Hateful People

"Pity of God" Is Novel of Bitterness.

"Pity of God," by Beulah Marie Dix. [Viking.] Published today.

WITH this theme, "Spake the sage Japhir: 'O Caliph, thy dream is no more than the story of every man. Death pursues him. Death awaits him. He hangs between eternities by a frail branch that is as his mortal span, and as the black mouse and the white gnaw at the branch, so do the nights and the days devour his life. Yet, for the sake of the fleeting pleasures of the senses, which are typified by the scarlet berries, vain man forgets that death is inescapable and life is ebbing fast.'" Beulah Marie Dix constructs a novel of bitterness and frustration.

BEULAH DIX.

Joe Vickery and his wife, Ethel, live with their three children and Ethel's father in a suburban home on the edge of a cañon near Hollywood. The son is about fifteen and dislikes his father, has a contempt for his adoring mother, tolerates his sisters and relatives and friends with an ugly spirit, is adolescent, spoiled, pimply, and thoroughly detestable. Rosamond, the twelve year old daughter, has crooked teeth, a sullen nature, an inferiority complex, and an abnormal and pathetic interest in the chauffeur, a vicious fellow, but the only person who she thinks likes her. Izzie is the smallest daughter, too young and plump to be anything but sweet and charming.

Old man Pryor, left with a blurred speech and a limp from a paralytic stroke, is dependent upon his son-in-law's bounty. He insists on keeping his ageless, decrepit, and careless hound in his room, but is essentially a gentle, dazed, pitiable old man who little deserves the polite but unmistakable and unashamed cruelty of his daughter. Ethel, one of the major characters in the drama, is a nagger and a social climber of the worst sort. She tries to rule the lives of each member of her household. She is a possessive woman with one of those metallic bitter and disastrous wills. The only person she seems to love sincerely, and in the last analysis this love is only a self-love, is her disagreeable son. Her husband, Joe, has long since given up any intimacy of any sort with her. He coldly despises her and gives his thwarted love to his gentle, sympathetic secretary.

At the opening of the story Joe is in a crucial situation. He faces bankruptcy among other disasters. There are several more characters introduced as the story progresses, each with a major or a minor problem to solve. In some strange way each life is intertwined with another, so that the problems are no longer separate but parts of one large intricate problem involving life and death and God, though none of these characters realizes how fatally near and urgent the problem is.

The action of "Pity of God" takes place in one day and half a night. The scene is laid for the most part in the home of Ethel and Joe. Nothing much happens.

Each character in Miss Dix's novel is introduced skillfully. His or her background is presented and also his or her thoughts at the time of the entrance in the story. The novel has an interesting, if not a new, structure. There are no chapters, but only a long series of scenes, incidents, character sketches, sometimes only a page or two in length and never more than three or four. The reader receives the impression of a panorama seen by a swiftly moving but penetrating eye, nervous and ubiquitous.

One of the most hateful women characters in recent fiction is Mrs. Ethel Vickery. The reader is infuriated as he watches the disaster she spreads around her. Young Rob, the disgusting adolescent, is likewise a detestable character. For a sharp and staccato presentation of characters Miss Dix is eminently successful. There is not a truly agreeable or happy person in the whole cast of "Pity of God." Nevertheless, each one, bitterly and acidly etched, is real enough to elicit genuine response from the reader. This is a brittle book, a drab one, and one full of hate.

Today is also the publication date of "Awakening Japan," an unusual and memorable volume. It is the diary of a German doctor, Erwin Baels, who lived many years in Japan, worked there, came to understand its people as few foreigners have understood them, and who had a rare faculty of communicating his understanding to paper. He died in 1913.

Critical Germany went lyric over the volume when it was published there. M. D.

ter months, is getting under way immediately in the north and western suburbs. The Barrington and Highland Park committees are both having open meetings today to make plans for raising the $6,000 which each town has pledged as its quota.

The Barrington group will meet at luncheon at the residence of Mrs. Malcomb E. Shroyer. The committee includes Mrs. Robert O. Clark, chairman; Mrs. Selden F. White, Mrs. Robert Hilton, Mrs. Egbert H. Spencer, Mrs. Lawrence G. Hallberg, and Mrs. Schuyler Thurber.

The Highland Park captains and team members will be guests of Mrs. George A. Mason, chairman of the Arden Shore board of directors, at a tea at her residence. Mrs. R. H. O'Hara is town chairman for Highland Park. Miss Anna Belle Ferrier, superintendent of Arden Shore, will show motion pictures of the camp and discuss its activities.

Guest Star for "Breadline Frolics."

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, who has worked tirelessly as co-chairman with Mrs. Waller Borden of the committee sponsoring the "Breadline Frolics," is leaving today for a week's stay in the east. She plans to attend the meeting of the Colonial Dames in Washington, D. C., and the rest of her stay will be at her residence in Boston.

The latest news of the "Frolics" is that Arthur Meeker has obtained Julius Tannen, popular stage comedian, to be the guest star of Sunday night's performance at the Majestic theater. Tannen was Mr. Meeker's "kid" secretary thirty years ago before he went on the stage, and he also worked for the late J. Ogden Armour.

Tickets will be on sale for the general public for this performance and also for those next week except on Monday night. Marshall Field & Co. has bought out the house for tonight, tomorrow and Monday nights. A Chicago reporter suggested a good slogan for the show yesterday; it is "The longer the run, the shorter the bread line," so be sure and help by going to this entertaining minstrel show that unemployed men are giving for their own benefit!

The Originalists are to have another of their interesting and unusual meetings next Wednesday night and this time an original ballet as well as a whole dance program has been created and is to be given for their amusement! Each of the forty members [one from each field of science, art, medicine, and letters] arranges a program and for next week Mark Turbyfill has planned a program of dancing that promises to be very lovely.

There will be solo dances by Diana Huebert and a ballet, created for the evening, with music especially composed by David Van Vactor, to be danced by Mr. Turbyfill, Miss Huebert and group. The performance will be given in the Goodman Studio theater. Last month's meeting was held at the John Roots' residence, after which the members went to the Passavant hospital and saw a moving picture of an operation performed by one of the members, Dr. Irvin S. Koll.

Puppet Show to Be Repeated.

"Barnacle Bill and the Mermaid," the puppet comedy which a small group of Winnetka women gave for charity last Friday and Saturday at the Winnetka Community house, is to be repeated in Lake Forest next Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7, at the Country Day school there. Friday's performance will start at 8 p. m. and on Saturday there will be a morning one at 11 and an afternoon one at 3. Mrs. Henry F. Tenney wrote the story of the exciting underseas comedy and Mrs. Norman W. Harris composed the accompanying music.

The puppets are the work of the nine clever women in the group, which includes Mrs. Tenney, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, Mrs. Perry D. Smith, Mrs. Frederic O. Mason, Mrs. Nathaniel H. Blatchford, Mrs. J. Francis Dammann, Mrs. Samuel A. Greeley, and Mrs. Dudley Cates.

As far as we were able to find out only one Chicago girl is attending the annual sixth form house party this week-end at the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa. She is Jean Wilhelm, daughter of the Frank E. Wilhelms, who goes to the Spence school in New York.

Mrs. Theodore Proxmire of Lake Forest, who has two sons, "Ted" and "Bill," at the school, has gone east for the party, which is "the" social event of the year at the school.

Mrs. Marshall Blair of New York, formerly of Chicago, also is there with her son, Chauncey J. Blair. The entertainment starts with a baseball game with Princeton freshmen this afternoon and continues with a buffet supper tonight at the residence of Head Master and Mrs. James I. Wendell, followed by a formal dance in the dining hall.

Tomorrow there will be an interform track meet, golf and tennis matches with the Princeton freshmen, and a tea-dance, followed by a presentation by the Dramatic club and a dance. Sunday evening the sixth form will hold a sing out on the campus and the guests will depart Monday morning.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "Do you believe adopted children should be told of their adoption, and how young?"

Answer: Decidedly yes. The experience of foster parents and the advice of those in charge of adoption agencies both reinforce this opinion. Tell them as early as possible so that they can grow up with the idea. And tell it as if it were something for both you and the child to be very happy about.

Here is another case of underlying causes:

Question: "I have a son, 7 years old, well built physically, and until last October he attended public school and was perfectly normal. Then came a change and he has acted peculiar and been very troublesome in school. Gradually he has stopped speaking, and only answers words and not sentences. It seems it is a great effort for him to speak, although physically nothing is wrong.

"I notice in one of your articles you mention some speech clinics. Can you give me any information or advice as to what to do for him?"

Answer: I do not think it advisable to go to a speech clinic at this point—rather investigate school conditions. The first thing I would do is to go to see your little son's teacher.

He may be unhappy in school and his unhappiness may be taking this form of not speaking. If his teacher has no suggestions, and if you do not seem to make any headway there, I would go to the principal. See what he says. You might ask him if he thinks it would be a good thing to take the boy to a child guidance clinic. The cause is probably an emotional one. The trouble with your boy may be nothing more than some adjustment in school, or the need of a different teacher.

"Are there any home conditions that might account for this change?" is a question that I feel sure you have already asked yourself. Is there a new baby or another child in the family or, perhaps, some marital difficulty?

THE STAGE

"What Have You?" a musical show with an all-Negro company will be staged at the Majestic theater on or about June 1. It will contain the Georgia Jubilee singers, who specialize in spirituals.

Other prospects for the Chicago stage during the period of the Republican and Democratic national conventions are Lew Leslie's "International Revue," whose colored entertainers hope to repeat the local success of the same producer's "Rhapsody in Black," "The Cat and the Fiddle," "The Laugh Parade," and "Maytime." The latter is an operetta that may be offered by the company now at the Grand Opera house in "The Blue Mask." The plans for these engagements, however, have not been definitely arranged.

Florenz Ziegfeld has leased the two million dollar theater that Earl Carroll opened in New York under his own name last August. He will rename it the Casino and hopes to keep it in profitable operation with a series of musical comedy productions to be offered at a popular scale of prices. Mr. Ziegfeld's first attraction at his Casino will be a revival of "Show Boat," which is now in rehearsal with Helen Morgan, Charles Winninger, and Paul Robeson in the leading rôles. Its première will take place May 16.

"Another Language," by Rose Franken, a play that took the New York dramatic critics by surprise last Monday night and threw them into their usual hysterics over a palpable hit, is being mentioned as a possibility for this year's Pulitzer prize. Until its arrival "Mourning Becomes Electra" has been the leading candidate for the award that Joseph Pulitzer willed to the "most wholesome" drama of the season. In recent years the judges have decided that the "wholesome" qualification would have to be abandoned.

Katherine Cornell has extended her engagement at the Harris theater in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" for a fourth week. This means that her Chicago performances will end on Saturday night, May 14. The actress manager will then visit St. Louis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, and will close her tour July 1. C. C.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' JACKET

The importance of the jacket dress cannot be overestimated, and this one is a darling. The short bolero may be made with long or short sleeves, and the dress, made with drop shoulders, gives the effect of short sleeves. The skirt has inverted plaits at the sides. Printed silk crêpe, combined with plain, is smart.

The pattern, 2769, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material with 1 yard of 39 inch contrasting.

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"The 'Whisperer' Crimes" have held London terrorized for months. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the "Whisperer" speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if directions are not carried out.

Joyce Merrow, engaged to Roland Blatch, secretary to Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist, is taken captive. In Roland's keeping are valuable jewels, donated to Sir Henry to be sold for charity. Roland is forced to steal them for the bandit to insure the safe return of his beloved. When Joyce is again safely home, Roland decides to accept an offer from the bandit to join his band and try to recover the jewels. He is sent to an address where a woman named Connie gives him a facial treatment which alters his appearance. Roland reports every day to Connie, where the Whisperer talks to him through a telephone loud speaker, but remains hidden from view. He is assigned the task of collecting ransom from Lord Whiddon, whose wife is held captive, and is involved in the killing of Lady Whiddon when her husband fails to meet the Whisperer's demands. Roland follows Connie and finds the Whisperer's hideout. He sees Sir Henry leaving and is faced with the staggering truth that the Whisperer is none other than Henry himself. Prowling through the house, Roland becomes locked in the room used to imprison the captives. The Whisperer has selected the young daughter of Renbold Harner, minister of development in Australia, who is in London with special credit from his government to place orders for British made farm machinery.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

AN UNSUSPECTED CAPTIVE.

"If he has been arrested it will not affect my plans. You shall have Number Four for your chauffeur instead."

"But, Chief—— "

"Nor need you be afraid. The man is not a fool or I would not have chosen him. If he has been arrested he will keep absolutely silent for his own sake. They may know that he was in the brickyard waiting for that fool, Whiddon. That is about all they do know. And it will be almost impossible to prove it. They can prove nothing else as long as he keeps his mouth shut. And if he tries to open his mouth he knows that he will be hanged. So long as he keeps silent I shall protect him—where he is."

"What must I do, Chief?" asked Connie.

"Nothing. Carry on with the plan in every detail. At ten o'clock tomorrow Number Four will be waiting in the Savoy courtyard with a green car. Good night."

In those first few minutes in which he realized that he was a prisoner, Roland Blatch experienced something akin to panic. Then his head cleared and he began to weigh his chances.

"I mustn't fall on that sofa—I must get down behind it."

Sooner or later the Whisperer would open that door. He would not know that there was any one in the room. He would come in unsuspectingly—perhaps ushering in a victim, most probably a woman.

Roland took out his revolver and looked at it. There must be no squeamishness about using it. The Whisperer—even now he could not bring himself to thinking of him as old Glassy—would know that with a stranger in that room, whoever that stranger might be, his life would be menaced. The Whisperer would not hesitate. He would shoot to kill—and if he succeeded he would be free to carry on his murders.

"It isn't only a matter of killing him in self-defense. I've simply got to kill him for the sake of others."

So Roland reasoned. And quite an hour had passed before he remembered the factor of time.

Before now—three weeks had elapsed between the Whisperer's outrages.

Three weeks!

"A man can starve to death in less than three weeks!" he said aloud. Then he remembered the supply of food in the Whisperer's room—and his eye at once fell on a Jacobean cabinet.

He rushed to open it—then gasped with relief. There was food—but not enough for three weeks—and on a little shelf, at the top by itself, a bottle of aspirin tablets.

There were three tins of preserved meat. A pound box of biscuits. A plate and knife and fork. A box of chocolates. And three syphons of soda and a tumbler.

With hardly three days' sustenance in the cupboard it would be no use thinking on a basis of three weeks. Something must be made to happen. There was the possibility of firing through the wire netting and shattering the window. But the angle at which it was set in the wall puzzled him—he was not at all sure that it faced on the street—a very quiet side street at that.

He began to put together all that he knew of the Whisperer's habits. He seemed to speak to Connie at Maviste's at almost any time. But from the stray remarks she had let fall he gathered that the Whisperer always spoke at six o'clock in the evening. If the Whisperer invariably came to this house to issue his instructions it might be possible to evolve some plan for attracting his attention to the room, while still taking him unawares.

While his restlessness lasted he paced the room. Then, taking a novel from the bookshelf, he flopped on to the sofa and composed himself to read.

The first hour dragged and the second, but after that it became easier.

At half-past five he placed his ear to the door and began to listen. He was still listening at six o'clock and had heard nothing. Evidently the Whisperer had another depot—perhaps numbers of depots. Expense was clearly no object. Nor need it have been. For in every successful coup the Whisperer would net tens of thousands of pounds.

The long day dragged itself out into dusk. He was about to switch on the light but checked himself in time. If the Whisperer were to come the light would warn him in advance.

Hard on the heels of this reflection came another very simple, yet very paralyzing thought.

"I mustn't go to sleep."

Sleep meant the terrible risk of being taken unawares and most certainly murdered. Until that moment nothing had been further from his thoughts than the idea of sleep.

But now nature played a prank on him, making him suddenly drowsy. He sprang up from the sofa and walked himself into full wakefulness.

Throughout the hours of darkness he paced the room.

With dawn the fear of falling asleep passed away. He was fatigued now, and weak from hunger, for he had eaten nothing since breakfast.

He practiced self-discipline until seven o'clock. Then he opened one of the tins of preserved meat.

The food, though necessary, was unappetizing, and after his exhausting night gave him a headache, which soon became violent.

He had endured the headache for about half an hour when he remembered the aspirins. He went to the cupboard and took out the bottle. It bore the label of a well known firm and underneath the stereotyped direction: "One or two to be taken as ordered by the physician."

There was something almost humorous about it and he laughed.

"It's murder or—every reasonable comfort!" he muttered. "A comfortable sofa, a decent room, plenty of novels—and some aspirins in case the lady should get a headache."

He shook out a couple of tablets, dissolved them in soda water, then drank the mixture at a gulp.

"That wasn't aspirin!"

He was familiar with the salty, bitter taste of aspirin, and this had seemed quite different.

"Perhaps I'm pulling my own leg—probably I can't taste anything after a hunk of tinned meat at this time of the morning."

He dismissed it from his thoughts and picked up another book. The headache cleared—with suspicious rapidity.

"That wasn't aspirin—that was dope of some kind." He staggered to his feet to ward off the sudden sleepiness. But he knew it was not natural sleepiness, which at least has the illusion of beginning in the feet. This growing numbness was in his head.

He staggered over to the basin, but this time the cold water had no effect.

Would he sleep off the drug before the Whisperer came? He was still clear headed enough to know that that was the vital question—already he had difficulty in standing erect. There was one precaution that could be taken—and one only. If he could reach the other side of that sofa!

He staggered like a drunken man, caught the head of the sofa and stood swaying.

"I mustn't fall on to that sofa—I must—get down behind it."

His feet now were very nearly useless but his hands were still strong. He levered himself by the back of the sofa.

"Another couple of feet will do it."

With a supreme effort of the will he succeeded—then flopped down between the sofa and the wall—safe at least from a casual glance from the doorway.

At three minutes to ten Connie was being admitted to the Harners' suite at the Savoy hotel. The suite was arranged like a private flat with doors opening on to its own corridor.

Miss Harner, a strapping young woman of no great beauty, but the picture of open air healthfulness and general enjoyment of life, was waiting in the corridor.

"You'll come into my room, won't you?" she asked, and took Connie into her bedroom.

Connie opened out a businesslike case and took out a packet of photographs.

"Before I begin I would like you to make quite sure which coiffure you would like best," she said encouragingly, displaying the photographs.

Separation May Cause Broken Engagement

Fiance Lives 500 Miles from His Future Wife.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The long engagement has its difficulties when the couple involved lives within close range. When there is a separation of hundreds of miles, as in "Questioning's" case, the problem of how to see the thing through to a successful marriage outcome becomes more apparent.

Questioning's fiancé is in business 500 miles from her home town. He likes a good time; must have a good time. Must, for business reasons, also engage in a good deal of social contact. He is considerate of the girl. He writes and tells her about his social doings. Sometimes he writes and asks her if such and such a date would meet with her approval.

The girl believes the man is true to her—but the distance, poetically misconstrued as lending enchantment, fills the girl with fear. She is not sufficient of an egoist to believe there are not many other charming girls and that these same girls are not without the sense to know an attractive, ambitious, fine young man and to play for him, as she admits having done herself.

"I don't want him to think I am indifferent about what he does nor jealous. Neither do I want to throw him into some other girl's arms. . . . What of my own behavior meantime? Should I have occasional dates myself? Is it better that he should not feel too sure of me? I wouldn't have him think that no other man desired my company, yet I don't want to start any of the 'get even business' nor cause him any worry.

"There is the chance that if I start to go out with other men it will cause him to go out more, too, and perhaps eventually cause a complete rift between us."

The surest way to reach the desired state of matrimony under the circumstances is to throw the conservative waiting to the winds and date the minister pronto. Take a gamble on marriage without the financial nest egg. Better insecurity of finances, any time, than insecurity in love.

You cannot overlook the advantage of propinquity, no matter how assured one is of her fiancé's fidelity. The girl on the scene is a dangerous rival unless the love between the engaged ones is of the type that makes history. The problem in the above case is how to accomplish marriage without any further postponing.

Home Owners Are Urged to Place Quality First in Buying Grass Seed

BY PAUL POTTER.

Special attention to the grass seed, on which so much depends in the development of a good lawn, will avoid much disappointment in the summer season and again in succeeding seasons. For only upon obtaining a good blue grass or bent grass sod is the home owner assured freedom from constant reseeding and a spotted yard.

In the attempt to meet price competition some grass seed dealers have been found supplying a mixture in which timothy and other objectionable grass seed is present. No grass seed should be purchased unless it is established what proportion of seed is contained in the mixture, and what kinds of seed are included.

At least one-third of the ordinary lawn mixture should be pure blue grass seed. The use of rye or red top or a few other grass crops is strictly to furnish a quick growing "cover crop" that will keep down weeds and shelter the blue grass while it is developing a good root system. Two seasons are needed to really develop such permanent turf.

In the heavily shaded areas of a lawn two special purpose grasses offer most possibilities. In the wet shaded places a grass called poa trivialis does better than others, while in dry soil under trees or shaded by buildings the best seed is chewings fescue. With Kentucky bluegrass, this fescue also is the best variety for terraces where moss creeps in and erosion is encountered.

While it is more difficult to reclean weed seed from the basic grasses like bluegrass than from the fescues or cover crops, a mixture, nevertheless, should be 92 to 95 per cent pure and should have a 1932 germination test of 85 per cent or more. So in buying grass seed, look not so much at the price tag as at the content of the mixture, its purity, and its germination test. The state seed law compels such information to be visible to the buyer.

Some Filmland Practices Are Almost Rackets

How Some Producers Get Cash from Actors.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 28.—Although these be parsimonious times in the movies in many respects, with stars like Dick Barthelmes agreeing to make three pictures a year at $58,333 apiece instead of only two as formerly at $87,500 apiece; with the Roach studio closing temporarily to lessen the overhead and employés at Paramount on their third successive salary cut, there has been no let up in the schemes by which some studio chiefs get at the purses of their actors, directors, and writers.

One scheme is practiced by a coterie of wealthy producers and executives who have become enthusiastic over polo. Each week in order to drum up interest in their Sunday afternoon polo game with another team these producers put the bee on some actor, director, or writer employed at one of their respective studios for $100 to pay for a silver trophy as prize to the team winning the game. Thus the producers have an elegant prize to play for at no expense to themselves. Few stars have rebelled at the polo "gift."

A somewhat similar scheme which helps cut down the polo expenses of the producers is to notify an actor, actress, director, or writer that he or she is on some magnate's list as purchaser of a season ticket to the polo games. A season ticket costs $100.

It's a pretty racket, but it has been current in Hollywood for ten or twelve years and no actor, actress, director, or writer who hopes to get a desirable new assignment or a contract renewal has ever been known to protest openly.

Douglas Fairbanks, Maria Alba, Bill Farnum, Eddie Sutherland, and Scenarist Tom Geraghty cabled news they departed from Papeete, Tahiti, yesterday on the steamer Monowai, due in San Francisco May 6.

They bring with them nearly completed film negatives of Doug's picture, "Robinson Crusoe in the South Seas," and also bring back Ga-Ga, Doug's little monkey and mascot, which he took with him to Tahiti, and which escaped one day from the former governor's palace, where the Fairbanks cast made their living headquarters.

Mary Pickford is leaving New York this week so that she will be sure to be at the San Francisco dock when Doug arrives.

Colleen Moore is to follow Clara Bow in a movie comeback and probably will make her first motion picture in several years for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company as a result of negotiations now being carried on. At present Miss Moore is in the midst of a stage run in "The Church Mouse" here.

Student of Indians Wins Newberry Literary Awards

New Orleans, La., April 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Laura Adams Armer of San Farncisco, an authority on Navajo Indian legends, was awarded the Newberry medal by the American Library association here today for the most distinguished contribution to children's literature in 1931. The award was given for "Waterless Mountain," her book dealing with the life of a Navajo Indian boy.

Paulist Choir Gives Concert; Highly Praised

Group Becomes Standard for Others.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Paulist choristers of Chicago had two objects in their concert at Orchestra hall last night. One, a continuing one, was to demonstrate the beautiful singing of an expertly trained group of boys and men. The other was to raise money for their summer camp in Michigan. They were successful far beyond the common ih both their aims.

The Rev. Eugene O'Malley, their conductor, is an outstanding figure in choral music. He grew up with the choir. He was once a boy soprano in its ranks, and now as its director he has a complete knowledge of all phases, its enormous literature and its technic. He has raised it to the point where it is now the standard for other choirs, and a movement is now on foot to endow and perpetuate a resident choir school. Here the boys will live as an educational community of their own, and here, too, there will be a department for the training of choirmasters and choral conductors.

The first part of last night's program was sacred music of a peculiarly intricate nature, old motets by Palestrina, Byrd, Vittoria, and Lotti, modern motets from the Russian church, and two fugues by Rheinberger and Bach, all handled with lovely tone and extreme dexterity by the singers. In this section, too, Master William Jordan, of extraordinary purity of voice, made part of his final appearance as soprano soloist of the choir.

The second half was secular, with special emphasis upon two excellently written songs by Dr. Daniel Protheroe, and with other solos by John Goodman, another soprano soloist, and by such elder choristers as George Lane, Walter Curran, and Frank M. Dunford. Orchestra hall was crowded and the applause deservedly enthusiastic.

The Canori club, a male chorus of about thirty members, appeared last night at Kimball hall under the direction of Richard F. Stiller. Apparently their object is to meet and work for the sake of music and for their own enjoyment therefrom, and on that basis they put together a commendable program consisting of brief songs of many styles and moods. Their guest artist was Walter J. Stevenson, a basso with a vigorous clear voice of good quality and a first rate knowledge of how to project the English language.

Newest Accessories Take to Prints to Please Superchic Parisienne

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The surest and least troublesome way to be a living picture of the last word in Paris chic this spring and summer is to wear a simple dark blue ensemble, combined with sparkling printed details and accessories.

From tip to toe the ensemble breaks into prints. Printed silk toques, and even brimmed hats, are approved by the French designers. Printed slippers, matching printed frocks, or, better yet, printed accessories, are way up high in fashion's favor. Slippers and a bag, made of polka dotted crêpe, and worn with a dark blue, brown, beige or black suit, make an accessory ensemble that the smart Parisienne wears. The Rose White bag, at the top of the sketch, with its crystal bar closing, and the Lucile Paray slippers, both of navy blue crêpe with white dots, illustrate this vogue. Dots are preferred printed designs.

The separate jacket, made of either striped wool or silk, is a Paris style that such great designers as Jeanne Lanvin and Schiaparelli indorse. This kind of jacket may be worn over white frocks, or dark silk frocks for town. You may, if you like, tie a striped sash around your waist and wear a striped toque as illustrated. The sash and the toque may be worn with a plain suit or ensemble also, and may be made of flowered or dotted silk. However, the printed jacket is almost invariably striped.

Episcopal Bishops Close Three Day Conference

Garden City, N. Y., April 28.—(AP)—The three day conference of the house of bishops and national council of the Protestant Episcopal church ended today. The bishops approved intercommunion between the Anglican church and the old Catholic church and voted to present the proposition to the next general convention.

Don't Skid Over Throat During Daily Facial

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's curious the way wrinkles show up in young necks. The other day I saw a girl not more than 17, surely, with three deeply indented rings running parallel around her throat. Of course, small children exhibit this "ring" formation and up to a certain point it is natural. But I mean when I speak of the neck rings that startle, the oldish looking ones and the really aged looking ones.

The young girl seen was emaciated looking, undernourished and ill looking, so her neck condition could be explained as tissue withdrawal from lack of nourishment. But other women are often seen with the peculiarity of a youthful face above a thin, scrawny and wrinkled neck.

In the new school of skin care, the facial begins at the base of the throat and young women who follow this latter day instruction will grow old in younger neck fashion than did their predecessors. We have seen what care of the facial skin has done for women in the last ten, fifteen years. We have seen how wrinkling has been indefinitely postponed with merely ordinary daily care of the face.

It's all a matter of getting the habit of beginning the night creaming and cleansing work with a slap of cream to the base of the throat, and extending the good office around to the back of the neck, as well. It's understood, of course, that the hair has been "banded" back properly. This beginning at the throat base will get you in the habit of working the hands in massage movement on the upgrade always, which in turn, will be good for the face. Don't ever work down on the muscles of either face or neck.

And don't do as so many women do: forget to give the neck the tonicizing benefit of the cold water splashing, too. This to stimulate the circulation here for the same reason as it is applied to the face. If the neck is already lined and scrawny, you should use a good skin food and let it remain on overnight and, if possible, it would be well to take a semi-weekly neck massage treatment, if the lines are deeply etched.

CUBS ROUT 3 PITCHERS; BEAT CARDINALS, 12-7

MICKEY PICKED TO WIN UNLESS KING CONNECTS

Tonight's Card

King Levinsky vs. Mickey Walker, 10 rounds.
Baxter Calmes vs. Joe Doktor, 8 rounds.
Ruby Goldstein vs. Dick Sisk, 6 rounds.
Tony Herrera vs. Ray Collins, 6 rounds.
Sammy Slaughter vs. Jack Moran, 6 rounds.
Costas Vassis vs. Al Enzel, 4 rounds.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Have you heard the latest story about the Irishman and the Jew? The very latest tale will be told tonight at the Stadium where Mickey Walker meets King Levinsky in their ten round bout.

Tonight's story, you know how it begins: "Once there was an Irishman and he met a Jew." But after this introduction there'll be two story tellers, each fighting to write the conclusion to the tale.

Seventeen thousand are expected to see Mickey and the King. The net receipts, if $60,000, will furnish each of the heavyweights with $18,000 spending money. But the immediate rewards fade in prospect of the future. Tonight's victor, undoubtedly, will rank as a leading contender for the heavyweight championship. When and if that opportunity comes, it will be worth more than $18,000.

Walker to Weigh 171.

Levinsky and Walker concluded five weeks of training yesterday. Both have been pronounced fit. The King unlimbered for a few rounds at the Arcade gym. Mickey did not put in an appearance at Trafton's, confining himself to a morning workout on the road. They will weigh in this afternoon at the offices of the Illinois athletic commission. Walker weighed 174 pounds Wednesday after his final boxing, so it seems he will come in at about 171. Levinsky is expected to weigh between 195 and 197 pounds.

Speculation concerning the winner continues the chief sports topic, but except for one wager of $1,400 to $1,000 on Walker to win a decision, apparently there has been no betting in the loop. Out west, Levinsky's supporters were reported to have taken several small bets on the short end of 2 to 1 that Walker would win. None appeared convinced Walker would win by a knockout, at least not sufficiently to back up opinion with cash.

Faster, More Experienced.

Levinsky, undoubtedly, is responsible for the light wagering—that is. Levinsky and the depression. Walker must be considered the favorite. Faster, a dangerous fighter in close, more experienced, Mickey should accomplish at least enough damage to win a decision. Others, Griffith, Loughran, Carnera, have done as much.

But Levinsky has many factors on his side of the argument. He possesses youth, an equal share of fighting heart, and a right hand which if it lands squarely may upset Walker. Ask Tommy Loughran, who one time outpointed Levinsky, only to test his fortune again and find he forgot to duck at the proper moment.

It's just that kind of a fight. Walker will win unless the King connects.

Almost Even in Reach.

You may be surprised to know that although the King will have at least 25 pounds weight advantage and is 4½ inches taller, he only has an inch and a half more reach. And that Walker's forearm and biceps outmeasure the King's," whatever that means in applied power.

After a day of hastily called conferences Nate Lewis selected Joe Doktor of Buffalo as an opponent for Baxter Calmes in the eight round semi-windup. Doktor will arrive this morning. He replaces Vincent Parille, the young man from Argentina, who after three rounds of work on Monday developed a sore hand. His injury was verified Wednesday night on examination by a commission physician.

The remainder of the card is the same as approved by the commission.

The Stadium announced yesterday that $1 standing room tickets will be available at gates 1, 3, 4, and 6. Higher priced tickets will be sold at gates 2 and 5.

FULL OF FIGHT

A CARDINAL SHOWS HIS SPEED AND BEATS A BALK

George Watkins, Cardinal outfielder, had to move with celerity to get back to first base when Pitcher Bob Smith of the Cubs threw to Charley Grimm in the first inning, but he made it by a split hair decision. Umpire Quigley is calling him safe while Grimm is digging the ball out of the dirt. Smith was charged with a balk on the throw and Watkins moved on to second. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

INDIANS SCORE 6 RUNS ON 2 HITS; DEFEAT SOX, 11-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 28.—The laudable efforts of Mr. Comiskey and company to assemble a baseball team will bear fruit eventually, but it can not be said today's harvest put any preserves in the pantry, as witness the 11 to 2 licking accorded our rotating White Sox aspirants in their opener against the Cleveland Indians.

The whole matter was very depressing, except for a little spurt after two were out in the fourth inning when the Sox made four of their seven hits and produced two runs which gave them the lead for a gasp.

Some idea of what kind of game it was can be gathered from the fact that the Indians made their last [illegible] runs on two hits.

There Was Improvement.

But there was some improvement defensively as compared with some recent efforts. The Sox had only three errors today as compared to six yesterday and Johnny Hodapp, the new second baseman, made only two errors today as compared to three yesterday.

The Cleveland deal, which put Hodapp and Seeds in the Chicago lineup, was too recent to judge its success. It may be said, however, that in two days the former Indians have played, their total contribution has been five errors, all by Hodapp, and two singles, both by Hodapp.

Bed Kress did not arrive in time to participate in today's encounter, but he is expected to be in the lineup tomorrow. Whether this means the benching of Appling or his transfer to second to relieve Hodapp thus far has not been revealed. The Sox cut down their infield reserves today, releasing Gregory Mulleavy, shortstop, to the Oakland team of the Pacific Coast league.

Ah, They Have Strategy.

The slamming today increased the Indians' winning streak to five games and their season record against the Sox is four straight. In their five straight victories, the Indians have averaged better than 10 runs, which caused them to take a chance with Harder, who hadn't won till today.

The Sox used three pitchers and all of them showed some good stuff and some bad stuff. Gregory, who finished, was the victim of the fourth home run hit by Averill since last Sunday.

Some well executed strategy held the Indians to one run in the first inning despite two singles, a double and a walk. Burnett started the Cleveland offensive by scratching a hit off Selph's glove, and Porter fol-

Holm, Madison Defend Girls' Swim Titles

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—Two of the nation's leading Olympic hopes, Miss Helene Madison of Seattle and Miss Eleanor Holm of New York, successfully defended National A. A. U. indoor women's swimming titles today in the opening events of the four-day races.

Miss Holm, representing the New York Women's Swimming association, won the 300 yard medley test with ease, finishing ten yards ahead of her closets rival in 4:27 2-10.

Miss Madison, applicant for 16 world's records, had a close call in the 100 yard free style race, defeating Miss Josephine McKim of the Los Angeles Athletic club by less than a foot in 1:02 4-10. Miss Edna McKibben of the Washington A. C. finished third.

At the end of the first two events team honors were in a three-way tie. The New York Women's Swimming association, defending its title; Washington Athletic club, and the Los Angeles Athletic club each had six points.

Small Boys, Full of Pop, Will Be Penn Heroes Today

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, April 28.—According to an old Philadelphia custom, about 3,000 young people, most of them boys, but some girls, will run around in circles and jump over things and throw things in a spirit of youthful fun tomorrow and Saturday in the athletic rodeo called the Penn relay carnival.

The Penn relay carnival has been going on for almost 40 years now, and it is the original from which the other relay carnivals in other parts of the country, some of them conducted in a spirit of commercial competition, were copied. Probably some of the athletes who competed in the first Penn relays are grandfathers or grandmothers now, but I do not claim credit for any scoop on that, because any one could figure it out.

Still, I think it would be interesting to hear a grandmother tell how she won the ladies' division of the hammer throw or the 56 pound weight forty years ago, and if I happen to hear such a story I will tell you about it.

They're Mostly Cousins.

Nowadays the Penn relay carnival is run off in a great horseshoe arena made of red brick, which was put through slowly and laboriously to completion, a section at a time, as the money became available, during the long boom. The crowd at a relay carnival is largely composed of parents and sisters and cousins and aunts of the athletes, particularly of the little, skinny ones from the grade schools of the Philadelphia region. Still, the attendance never fills the stadium for the relays, and every one present has a choice of three or more seats, except at the finish lines, where, naturally, there is always some congestion.

The annual billing of the carnival, announcing 3,000 entrants, is reminiscent of the story of the gambler who arrived in town with 53 pieces of baggage, consisting of a suitcase and deck of cards. Possibly that is not the way the story went, but I just want to convey the general idea. There will be about, say, 450 or 500 college and prep school athletes in the carnival and about 2,500 lads of from 8 to 13 years staggering heroically around the cinder border of the football field in all sorts of filler events.

And Do They Suffer!

Some of them will fill up on hot dogs and red pop just before they are called onto the track and will come close on to dying with green apple pangs when they go into action and the hot dogs start to bite. Others will dive into the grit, expiring nobly for the honor and glory of Miss Smith's class in public school No. 66.

The management, with a fine, sympathetic understanding of child psychology, divides the competitions for the young into so many classifications that there seem to be championships for one and all. They are classified as to sect, sex, neighborhood, grade in school, as to whether they have freckles or not, and as to whether they eat up all their spinach.

Then Business Picks Up.

On the second day, which follows the first night, the display settles down to more serious business, if it can be admitted that there is anything more serious in all the world than these little relays are to these kids. The second day is when the college athletes run off their big races and fling heavy objects in the field events. They make a gorgeous picture of recent years, for the salesmen of the sporting goods houses took advantage of the era of prosperity and large gate receipts to sell the colleges beautiful uniforms for the track athletes.

Formerly the track man got a sash to wear across the bosom of his 39 cent white undershirt and maybe some silk piping for his little panties, but while he was on the field awaiting his event he just pulled on some old sweater and an old pair of trousers to keep the wind off his muscles.

Now he gets a gaudy uniform, with a jacket something like that of a Russian soldier, with contrasting epaulets, lettering, collor and cuffs, and gilt zippers at the ankles and throat. He is got up in a most attractive way and the girls coo and gurgle about track men these days in a way that the old classes knew nothing about.

Sullivan, Ind., April 28.—(AP)—Six members of the Indiana university track team and Head Coach E. C. Hayes, en route to the Drake relays at Des Moines, Ia., were severely shaken up and cut and bruised when the automobile in which they were riding overturned a mile north of here tonight.

Charles Hornbostel, western conference indoor half mile champion; Abe Streicher, a quarter miler; Ivan Fuqua, dash man; Donald Harpold and Coach Hayes received treatment at a Sullivan hospital and returned to Bloomington. These four track men composed the mile relay team that was to have competed at Des Moines.

Clarence Crouch and Peter Martich, members of relay teams, were riding in the automobile, but were able to proceed to Des Moines. Crouch also will compete in the hop, skip, and jump event in the Drake relays.

VINES, ALLISON WIN AS DAVIS CUP PLAY OPENS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The United States took the lead in the North American zone Davis cup competition this afternoon, when Ellsworth Vines, national singles champion, and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., won their opening matches from Canadian opponents.

Allison defeated Marcel Rainville in the first match in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. Vines was forced to five sets before beating Dr. Jack Wright, Canada's outstanding player, 8-6, 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

Vines, a youthful Californian, who captured the United States title last year, was making his first appearance in Davis cup play. A crowd of 1,500, including Washington officials, who gathered at the Chevy Chase Country club, cheered his performance.

Vines Begins to Falter.

Vines' hard drives and volleys brought applause from the gallery numerous times. On one occasion Vines hit the ball with a mighty smash and broke a string in his racket.

The champion, who played steadily in the first two sets, began to falter as they reached the fourth set. His shots, one after another, went wrong. Dr. Wright seemed to grow steadier and when he squared the match by winning the fourth set, 6-3, it appeared as if the Canadians were going to divide the first day's honors.

Regains His Form.

But Vines, in the fifth and final set, found little difficulty in defeating the Canadian. The set match went to Vines, 6-2, and the young Californian's Davis cup debut was successful.

With two victories already stowed away, the United States needs to win only one of the three remaining matches to be played tomorrow and Saturday to clinch this opening battle in the American zone eliminations.

"Hi, Unk!" Says Gabby Street; "$5!" Says Ump

With his world champions St. Louis Cardinals down near the tail of the ladder, Manager Gabby Street has his troubles. But that's nothing compared to the $5 fine he was forced to pay for violating the rule prohibiting conversation with spectators. While at Cincinnati Gabby spoke to an 87 year old uncle he hadn't seen since boyhood. Umpire-Detective Beans Reardon reported the offense to headquarters.

Manager Hornsby wasn't kidding recently when he said that he might try playing the outfield if a pressing need for his batting strength should develop. He gave a half hour yesterday to the practice of catching fly balls in right field.

The news on the Cub cripples is as follows: Ki Cuyler, who has a broken bone in his left foot, has gone to his home at Harrisville, Mich.; Johnny Moore, out with a cold the day previous, was back in uniform yesterday; Burleigh Grimes thinks he'll be able to pitch in another week; it may be ten days before Woody English's recently fractured finger will be strong enough to let him play.

Guy Bush, who thinks the Cardinals are not especially tough, will try his luck against them this afternoon. He held them to five hits recently. The world champs will depend on Flint Rhem.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It's now six in a row for the courageous Cubs. They reached the half dozen mark in their winning streak yesterday by using the world champion Cardinals as a stepping stone. The title holders displayed some objection to the treatment by driving Bob Smith out of the game, but the Cubs replied with a stormy six run seventh inning assault which settled everything. The score was 12 to 7.

The bulky run total of the victors is a fair indication that their bats were speaking a loud language. In case there is any doubt about this, reference can be made to the box score, which shows thirteen hits for a grand total of eighteen bases. Five of these smashes, the last a homer by Riggs Stephenson, were exploded in succession in the fourth against the famed Dizzy Dean, who until then had done pretty well. Then, after the Cardinals had tied the score by peppering Smith, the Cubs let go the winning riot which swept both Ben Frey and Jesse Haines out of the picture.

Richbourg Drives In Four.

In connection with the shocking treatment administered three of the visiting pitchers, something must be said about Lance Richbourg, who is helping out pending the recovery of some of the cripples. In his first and last appearance the ex-Brave did nothing, but in between these two outs he delivered a pair of singles and a double. His pair of singles drove in two teammates and let him score once himself. His two bagger was the means of getting home the first two of the half dozen runs collected in the seventh. He also scored later.

The foldup of Smith was unexpected in view of his impressive start. For five innings he gave up only four hits and one run. But when the Cards began showering him with singles, doubles and triples in the sixth it was deemed advisable to get him out of there before the lead was entirely gone. Charley Root was summoned to restore order, but Billy Herman's error on a play which should have retired the side let the tying run get across. After that Root didn't have much to worry him except his lack of control.

Adams Scores After Walk.

When Hack opened the fourth with a single to right he coined his own and his team's second hit off Dean. Herman bunted and beat the throw for a hit. Frisch, who covered first on the play, was so agitated over Umpire Donnelly's decision that he tossed the ball into the air. By the time the ball descended Hack's fleet legs had carried him to third, so Frisch was charged with an error. Richbourg singled past Bottomley to score Hack and Dan Taylor's hit to left moved Herman across the plate. Then Stephenson completed the affair with his homer over the left field bricks for three more runs.

Trout Season's Approach Brings Tips from Bob.

BY BOB BECKER.

This is the time of the year to give the leather hiking boots a good oil dressing to make them pliable, soft and waterproof. As a rule we go over our footgear a few days before the opening of the trout season, because May brings increased use of the high tops which are a vital part of nearly every outdoorsman's outfit.

If you don't want to mix your own waterproofing preparation, you can buy some excellent thick dubbings in any sporting goods store. We have tried at least three that are on the market and found them satisfactory.

In waterproofing leather it is advisable to remember that mineral oil won't do. It burns leather. On the other hand, paraffin and vaseline are harmless and can be put into mixtures.

Thick Solution Best.

Another point to consider is this: A thick, heavy dope, as a rule, is better than just a thin oil, because it stays put and is not worked off by water so easily.

Here is recipe No. 1 for making a waterproofing mixture: Take beeswax, neatsfoot oil and mutton tallow in equal parts and melt in a pan over a low flame. When it comes time to apply this to your boots, be sure that they are warm and dry. Better use a small brush to apply the solution to the leather and get it in between the sole and the upper. It's a good idea to go over the boots at least twice.

One of the oldest recipes for a waterproofing dope is a mixture of cod liver oil and pine tar. [It smells to heaven, so you'd better boil 'er down outdoors.] Take two parts of pine tar and three parts of cod liver oil and heat in a pan. Then soak the leather while the mixture still is hot.

It's Wader Time, Too.

Although the spring season brings increased use of our leather boots, it's also the season for long rubber waders. We have been looking over the waders on the market and find that American manufacturers are putting up a stiff argument against the imported expensive waders by manufacturing light weight, sturdy "rubber pants" at greatly reduced prices.

Cubs Score 6 in 7th; Whip Cards, 12-7

at low rates in the fifth. Adams walked and went to third on Watkin's single past first base. Frisch flied to center, but Adams deemed it advisable to remain at third. He went home a moment later on Bottomley's forceout of Watkins at second. Just to keep their five run lead intact for a few minutes the Cubs came through with one in their half.

Hack opened with a walk and Herman sacrificed. Richbourg singled through short and the fleet Hack slid home safely ahead of Watkins throw.

Final services for Smith began when Wilson singled with one out in the sixth. He was sent to third by Gelbert's double off the wall in left. Hendrick came forth to bat for Dean, and popped to Jurges. Then the real barrage opened. Adams singled to score Wilson and Gelbert. Watkins beat out an infield hit and followed Adams over the plate when Frisch's drive hopped past Richbourg for a triple. Root came in and Bottomley bounced to Herman, but the young man fumbled, so Frisch scored the tying run. Root then walked two men, but no harm came of his liberality.

That Stormy Seventh.

There was enough argument in the seventh to fill a congressional record, but the Cubs didn't let this take their minds off the work at hand. With one out Hack walked and Herman aimed one of Frey's foolers down the left field line. Hack scored and Herman halted at third, but the Cards promptly let loose a yowl about the ball having gone into the Cubs' bull pen. The umpires didn't want to listen to the complaint, but the visitors persisted and finally convinced the arbiters that there had been a mistake. Herman was ordered to second and Hack had to return to third.

The fun had only started. Richbourg doubled down the left foul line, Hack and Herman scoring. D. Taylor spanked a hit to right to score Richbourg. Collins made a crazy return throw that let Taylor go to second. Manager Street sounded taps for Frey and Haines appeared. He walked Stephenson, and D. Taylor caused some annoyance by stealing third. Stephenson dashed to second when Wilson committed a passed ball on Hartnett's third strike. Grimm's single sent the two men home and Grimm followed them on singles by Jurges and Root. Carleton then rushed in and nailed Hack for the third out.

OFF TO LOUISVILLE.

By the time this effusion reaches Wake readers, if any, the conductor of this column will be well on the way to Louisville. There will begin our annual task of seeking out the most prominent contenders in the 58th Kentucky Derby to be run May 7. As in the past, we expect them to be intimate in their interviews with us and to furnish for our followers "feed box" dope on their various chances.

Now, The Wake does not undertake to guarantee the Derby winner. Our purpose is merely to report what the leading candidates think of their own form. It may strike some as strange that we can converse with horses and be understood. It is, in part, because we always have been more or less addicted to horse play, and so often in our golf experience have been given the horse laugh, so to speak, to say nothing of the "neigh, neigh" from Friend Arch in the matter of expense accounts.

The Wake welcomes this annual pilgrimage. There is a thrill or a "kick," if you will, about the Kentucky fixture that we get from no other race. There are as great or greater races in Chicago now. As spectacles, or gauged from the viewpoint of equine class, our local events are wonderful. Yet there's something about the Derby which still grips us.

Trying to analyze this feeling, perhaps it's the environment. One is in Louisville for just one purpose, with practically no other distractions. Most other visitors are there for the same purpose. Therefore, conversation is about horses and horses only. We forget how the Sox have tossed off a game, how the Cubs possibly need a cleanup hitter, even forget the stock market, or what there is left of it. That's why, we suppose, that Louisville and its Derby are distinctive and different.

And watch others go whirling by;
To envy, to knock or to cry.
It's easy to tell of "What might have been,"
Of the chances that you threw away,
But it's hard, darn hard, to conquer and gain

Charity Races Today Open Derby Meet

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—[Special.]—The spring racing season, which each year brings the running of the Kentucky Derby, opens at the Churchill Downs track here tomorrow afternoon.

All receipts and the profits from the betting on the opening day will go to charity. Then on Saturday will come the regular start of the season with the traditional Clark handicap as the feature in which some of the western Derby candidates may go into action.

There is every prospect that the season will open with an enormous crowd on hand. Tickets for the charity program have been sold throughout Kentucky and if all those who purchased them show up Churchill Downs may be packed as much as it is on Derby day.

Old Rosebud Is Feature.

The Old Rosebud charity purse, a dash at 6 furlongs for horses that are 3 years old or older, features the opening program. It attracted six of the fleetest sprinters in Kentucky into the battle, among them being Don Leon, Chimney Sweep, Monk's First and Prince Athe1ing. The latter rules as the favorite.

There are six other races on the program, including a 2 year old allowance affair that has attracted some of the best young racers quartered here.

On the eve of the opening of the season there was much activity among the Derby candidates. Delivered, owned by W. E. Knebelkamp, was officially declared out of the Derby when he pulled up lame today, suffering from a quarter crack in the left foreleg.

Prince Hotspur Shows Speed.

The most brilliant exhibition of speed of any Derby candidate training here was turned in today by Prince Hotspur, nominated by the late Joseph Leiter of Chicago. Prince Hotspur ran a mile and one-eighth in 1:53 4-5, and finished well in hand. His time for the mile was 1:39 3-5. He was not extended at any stage of the journey.

Prince Hotspur worked in company with Prince Farthing, who started five lengths ahead but was overtaken by Hotspur at the mile. Hotspur's fractional marks were the quarter in :23, half in :47 2-5, three-quarters in 1:12 2-5, and mile in 1:39 3-5.

Gallant Sir, the California giant, went a mile in 1:46 3-5 in his first local trial today. He would not extend himself, and sulked most of the distance.

MAROONS MEET JAPAN BASEBALL CHAMPS TODAY

Japan's baseball champions, Rikkio university of Tokio, will face the University of Chicago baseball team this afternon at 3:30 o'clock on Greenwood field, 60th street and Greenwood avenue. Admission is free.

Today's game is one of a long series between Chicago and Japanese teams that began when H. O. Page led the Maroons to the orient in 1910, to make a clean sweep of ten games. Chicago last went to Japan two seasons ago, and is to return again in 1935.

Rikkio, or St. Paul's university, was a surprise winner of the Japanese "world series" last autumn, defeating Waseda for the title.

CHICAGO BACKS TICK ON TO WIN DERBY AT 8 TO 1

Chicago race plungers were betting on Tick On to win the Kentucky Derby yesterday, despite his defeat by Springsteel at Havre De Grace on Wednesday.

They demanded 8 to 1 on him and most of them were able to get action at those odds. Maybe the Chicagoans know something and probably they respect Col. E. R. Bradley's offer to wager $20,000 against $10,000 that Top Flight, the favorite, will not be one, two or three in the Derby.

Tick On had a lot of bad luck in the race at Havre De Grace, there is no doubt about that. He was away slowly, he was shuffled back time and again, but he was racing gamely when the battle ended with Springsteel two lengths ahead of him.

Fred Hopkins, who is in the employ of C. V. Whitney, the owner of Top Flight, watched Tick On travel a mile in 1:38 3-5 at Havre De Grace the other morning and he says no horse in recent years has turned in such a nice drill for the Derby.

Eighteen horses have been nominated for Aurora's Inaugural handicap on Monday and the field is to be the best that has ever raced at the Aurora course. It includes Tannery, Dr. Freeland, Uncommon Gold, Burning Up, Portcodine, Hyman, Supreme Sweet, Black Mammy, Fortunate Youth, Cheers, and Backstretch. Weights will be assigned by the Aurora handicappers on Saturday.

Know Your Derby Horses

[This is the third of a series of articles on horses that are going to start in the Kentucky Derby at Louisville on May 7.]

BY FRENCH LANE.

J. W. Parrish, Midway, Ky., banker, might have been trying to squeeze some humor into the situation when he named his two best 3 year olds of this year Cold Check and Depression.

Maybe he was of the opinion there would never be another Derby when he handed out the names. But there will be another Derby and Cold Check has worked so brilliantly for the race that Banker Parrish's Kentucky pride has probably popped out by this time and he no doubt makes a forlorn wish every now and then that he had named the colt King of Kentucky or Mighty Kentucky, or something like that.

Cold Check is one of the best looking 3 year olds in training at the scene of the Derby. He isn't a giant, neither is he a midget. He's a well put up horse with powerful shoulders, a long barrel, straight hind legs, and a head and neck that seem to serve a silent warning, "Well come on boys and try to catch me."

Only on his looks and his razor edge condition can one enthuse about Cold Check. He's a son of High Time and only Sarazen among all of High Time's sons was a fast and true route runner. And there's some doubt as to whether Sarazen was a son of High Time. La Planche de Briante, the mother of Cold Check, is a daughter of Negofol. There are noted route runners on this side of the family.

Cold Check has never been asked to run more than three-quarters of a mile. The last time he galloped the distance he was the winner at Latonia in October over his stable mate, Depression, Cathop, Scream, and a few others. Cold Check was losing ground so rapidly in the final strides no one would ever have picked him out as a colt that could run far under a heavy impost.

As for Depression, one can hardly imagine Banker Parrish digging down into the till for $500 which would be the starting fee, for Cold Check gave Depression 17 pounds on that October day at Latonia and trimmed him.

RIGHT AND WRONG IRON SHOTS

Elmer Dubb's sister Ella shows how not to get set for an iron shot. Her left arm is too straight, all of her weight rests on her left foot, and her hands are pressed forward and in front of the ball.

How I Got My Start in Baseball

BY HAZEN (KIKI) CUYLER.
[As told to Irving Vaughan.]

When any one talks depression to me I remind them that it was just such a thing that chased me into a baseball career. When business began to sag in 1920 my job as a builder of auto tops in the Buick plant at Flint, Mich., dwindled down to one of those part time affairs, and not much time at that. I had played the outfield and pitched for my high school team and was doing the same for the Buick team. So the thoughts of going into a regular league didn't worry me much.

KIKI CUYLER.

Bay City signed me in the summer of 1920 and used me as a pitcher until I was badly spiked making a slide into second base. Then I got my chance as an outfielder and things began to go pretty well. The next season the club owners figured they owned a big league prospect and scouts from the big show were requested to be on hand on a certain afternoon when a double header was scheduled.

I had one of those merriwell at Yale days. I hit a ball over the left field fence, the only time I ever did it. I drove in practically all the runs in each game. The Detroit club scout thought I couldn't hit a curve ball, and as a matter of fact he was right. I had been told to stand up in the front of the batter's box, and it was a couple of seasons later in the Southern association before I figured what was wrong. What a St. Louis scout, who was there, reported, I never did know. But the representative of the Pirates recommended my purchase.

I reported to the Pirates in the fall of 1921 and played in one game. I haven't forgotten the one hit I made that day off Willie Sherdel of the Cardinals. A job in the South Atlantic league and a recall by the Pirates was next. I was in one National league game in 1922. I ran for Gooch at Brooklyn one day. The season of '23 was spent at Nashville and in recognition of my work there I was awarded an automobile in the valuable player contest. After that I remained a Pirate until I was sold to the Cubs.

BY ELMER DUBB.

Those 8,947 new muscles that I found Wednesday really took a beating during yesterday's lesson at Glen Oak, all because we went onto the No. 1 and 2 irons. For the first time during the course I was allowed to take a fairly healthy cut at the ball, and my arms and shoulders received such a workout that I was pretty well tuckered out when the lesson was over. And to make it worse, my sister Ella was out yesterday to try to tell me what was wrong with me, but before she got through she learned a thing or two herself.

Ella has been pestering me to take her out to Glen Oak since this series started, so that I finally broke down yesterday and told her to come along. I thought that maybe I'd be on my "game," and could show her that I'm not such a duffer. Ella has been playing golf for about a year now, although she's never taken any lessons, and she thinks she's pretty good.

Ella Gives Some Advice That She Needs Herself.

Harry sent us out to the practice tee, handing me No. 1 and 2 irons. Ella had her own clubs along, and immediately proceeded to tell me how to stand, how to grip the club, and how to swing. I got to gnashing my teeth so much at this uncalled for advice that I forgot to keep my eye on the ball on my first attempt, and it didn't go as far as a two year old might have pushed it.

As if this weren't enough, Ella did pretty well for herself on the few wallops she took at the ball, still trying to tell me what was wrong with my swing in between times. It was lucky for Ella that Harry happened along about this time, because I was on the verge of wrapping an iron around a certain sister's head.

Right away Ella tried to show off by hitting the ball just as Harry came up to the practice tee, and right away Harry caught her in one of the biggest errors a golfer can make. He told her to take the same swing again and then pointed out the result. The ball developed a wicked slice before it had gone halfway down the fairway.

Ella Finds Out What's Wrong with Her Swing.

"That happened, Ella, because your hands were advanced too far forward towards your left foot at the start of the swing, there wasn't that little break in the left wrist, you're left arm was too straight, all your weight was on your left foot, and the hands were not down far enough. That's all that was wrong with that swing, Ella."

That sort of squelched Ella for a while, and she settled down to follow Cooper's advice on correcting the fault. She shifted her weight so that it was evenly balanced, there was a slight break in the left wrist, her arm was closer to her body than on the previous movement, and she held her hands toward the center so that they pointed straight down at the ball. And what's more she got results with it, the slice in her original swing disappearing completely.

Incidentally this helped me considerably, for after watching Ella, I did quite well. The No. 1 and 2 irons, I found, give you more distance than the 3 and 4. The backswing lengthens considerably and the follow through is much more pronounced. The ball is hit more cleanly than with the No. 3 and 4 irons also, connecting with it solidly rather than with the downward impact found in the shorter irons.

The National Boxing association will hold its annual convention and election of officers at Baltimore, Md., Sept. 19. Last year's meeting was held at Detroit, Mich., where it was agreed to make Chicago the permanent N. B. A. headquarters. Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., yesterday reported that the organization is in better financial condition than at any time since it was organized in 1921. Two years ago, the N. B. A. was in debt. At present the organization has $3,500 in the treasury. In two years twelve championship belts have been awarded at a cost of $200 each.

Mique Malloy, White City promoter, yesterday postponed for one week his show scheduled for next Monday night. Les Marriner and Pete Wistort were matched for the ten round windup. Malloy may replace Wistort on the card.

Pete Pantaleo, cousin of Paul Pantaleo, south side heavyweight, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Philadelphia with his manager, Jimmy Wilson. They have made their headquarters at Trafton's gymnasium. Pantaleo, a junior lightweight, has not been defeated in 21 professional starts.

Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, has started training at the Arcade gymnasium for his ten round match against Tom Heeney at Boston May 13. . . . Eddie Shea boxed eight rounds yesterday for his bout with Johnny Datto at Minneapolis Monday. He worked three rounds each with Bobby Allen and Tony Shea, and two rounds with Glen Camp of Kewanee, Ill. . . . Larry Johnson, south side heavyweight, has begun workouts for pending bouts.

Johnny Salvatore, St. Paul promoter, couldn't obtain a suitable opponent for Frankie Battaglia May 10, so he canceled the show. . . . Tuffy Griffith weighed 190 pounds after his workout yesterday.

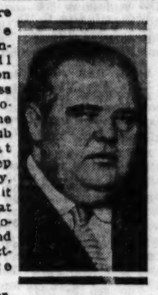
Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

For the first time in years there are growing indications that the White Sox really are trying to give Chicago a winning baseball team. Acquisition of Ralph Kress and Johnny Hodapp gives the south side club an infield that ought to step along with any, at least when it it is their turn at bat. Blue, Hodapp, Kress, and Selph are expected to average more than .300.



LOUIS COMISKEY.

Harry Grabiner, vice president and secretary of the Sox, said before the start of the season that President Lou Comiskey stood ready to make any deals suggested by Manager Lew Fonseca, if they were within reason and could be completed. The wholesale turnover in material since he took charge of the team substantiates Mr. Grabiner's remarks.

Whether Mr. Comiskey, Mr. Grabiner, or Mr. Fonseca is responsible for the new order of things is not important. The fact is that since Fonseca was appointed manager an eighth place Chicago team has been thoroughly rescrambled. With the exception of the battery there are only two players—Blue and Watwood—functioning in the same positions they occupied at the start of the city series last fall. Fonseca's idea seems to be that if one combination does not get results perhaps another will.

This is the same spirit of intelligence that motivates crap shooters in shifting from a short roll to a long one and it is a matter of record that more than one game has been broken up by such Napoleonic tactics.

This may be your night with somebody else, but it is King Levinsky's night with Mickey Walker. They will clash, as they say in Dubuque, in a battle that might be labeled for the class B heavyweight championship. Out of their duel may come a rival for the class A titleholder who will be decided June 20 when der champeen, Max Schmeling, fights Jack Sharkey in Madison Square Garden's new outdoor arena on Long Island.

Walker earned his rating as a somebody in heavyweight ranks by holding Sharkey to a 15 round draw. Levinsky is the man who whipped the one and only Jack Dempsey.

I regret that I can't take my usual definite stand and name the winner in advance, but on their records you can not forecast what either is likely to do. In Walker's last appearance in Chicago—against Christner at the Coliseum—it was difficult to determine whether he actually was as good as he seemed or Christner as terrible as he looked when he leaped out of the ring in the first round. On the basis that nobody could be as terrible as Christner looked, the fans have accepted Walker as a pretty fair heavyweight.

Levinsky has had more strange battles than former Senator Heflin. Nevertheless, he has come along faster than any fighter of his day and probably has a larger following than Champion Schmeling.

The fans hope for the best, but are prepared for the worst, and about 18,000 have steeled themselves for the ordeal with Spartan fortitude.

Interest in Golden Gloves has spread to the other side of the world. France was the first country to become acquainted with THE TRIBUNE'S great boxing promotion. Germany is next. Champions of the Fatherland will meet Chicago's amateur champions at Soldiers' field July 26.

Now India is bidding for an international bout. A team of amateur boxers in Bombay annually holds inter-city matches with Poona. It has been proposed that the winners fight Chicago's Golden Gloves champions at Bombay next year.

Football, Hockey, Track— Kabat Sure's a Busy Fellow

[This is the tenth of a series of sketches of university track and field stars in the central states. The next will be published Monday.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Gregory Kabat of Wisconsin who hopes, this year or next, to step into the place of another Badger athlete, Arlie Mucks, as holder of the conference discus throw record, will face his first serious test in this event at the Drake relays today and tomorrow. His performance will indicate whether an arm injury received last winter will halt the steady progress that has marked his competition in the discus throw.

Meets Purma Again.

Back in 1916 Arlie Mucks threw the discus 155 feet 2 inches. Last spring in the Big Ten outdoor meet Kabat sailed the weight 150 feet 10¼ inches to win the title. With two years of competition [1932 and 1933] ahead many believe he will break the conference record. His present injury, however, has prevented him from practicing the shot put at all and his best effort for the discus this spring is around 140 feet.

Kabat's Big Ten championship last May evened the score with Frank Purma of Illinois. Purma defeated Kabat in the Drake relays last year with a mark of 143.88 feet, compared to Kabat's second place throw of 143.55 feet. In the Big Ten meet Purma was second with 145 feet 6¼ inches.

Kabat and Purma will meet today in the preliminaries and again tomorrow in the finals, providing both qualify. Thornhill of Kansas university, winner over Purma in the Kansas relays last week by a matter of inches, will be another ranking contestant.

Football Captain.

Kabat is Wisconsin's football captain-elect. For the last two seasons he has starred at guard. He is 21 years of age and a junior in the college of letters and science. He was born in Ellis, Wis., but at the age of five his parents moved to Milwaukee where Greg starred in football and track at Bay View High school.

For two years Kabat has played defense on Wisconsin's hockey team. He is a member of Lamba Chi Alpha fraternity.

lowed with a single to center, Burnett stopping at second. Averill popped to Hodapp, but Watwood misjudged Morgan's fly and it sailed over his head for a double. Fortunately the runners held up until the ball got away from Watwood, so only Burnett scored.

Double Plays Are Relief.

Vosmik was given an intentional pass to fill the bases, and Kamm came through with the expected grounder for a double play, Appling to Hodapp to Blue.

Jolley opened the Sox second with a single to right, but never progressed for Averill made a diving catch of Hodapp's liner, Blue flied to Porter and Appling bounced out to Kamm.

A duplicate of the first inning double play got the Sox out of trouble again in the third. Burnett walked and went to second on Porter's sacrifice. Averill rolled a grounder at Hodapp, which Johnny booted, Burnett reaching third and Averill first. Morgan then hit into a double play, Appling to Hodapp to Blue.

The Strategy Goes Blah.

The strategy which worked in the first inning went awry in the Cleveland fourth. Vosmik led off with a single to left, and Kamm was hit by a pitched ball. The runners moved up on Pytlak's sacrifice after which Montague was given an intentional pass to fill the bases. Caraway threw three balls to Harder, then two strikes, but he couldn't come in with the other strike. The pitcher walked and forced in Vosmik with the tying run.

Burnett cracked a single to center, scoring Kamm and Montague, Harder stopping at second. Porter popped to Hodapp, but Averill walked, again filling the bases. This was the signal for McKain to replace Caraway. McKain got two strikes past Morgan, but Morgan used the other one to scratch a single off Selph's glove, scoring Harder and keeping the bases full. The inning ended when Vosmik struck out.

There wasn't anything cheerful for Chicago in the Indians' sixth, although it started and ended with strikeouts. After Burnett had fanned, Porter walked and stopped at second on Averill's single over short. Morgan walked, filling the bases, and Vosmik walked, forcing in Porter. Kamm forced Vosmik at second and then Kamm and Morgan staged a double steal, Morgan scoring. Pytlak fanned.

Paul Gregory took over the pitching chore at the start of the seventh. He walked Montague on four pitches and then fanned Harder. Burnett tapped a grounder to Gregory, who picked up the ball and threw it into the right field bullpen, Montague scoring and Burnett pulling up at second. Porter fouled to Selph, but Averill hit his homer over the right field screen, scoring Burnett ahead of him.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—John Dunwoody of the Pastime A. C., New York, accomplished the biggest upset in the National A. A. BONDHOLDER IS AN AID IN THIS REORGANIZATION

Max Karel Made Trustee in 'Bishop' Refinancing.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Completion of a reorganization without the expense of foreclosure or receivership and where a bond owner actually figures in the proceedings, was announced yesterday by Martin T. O'Brien, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for Reliance Bank and Trust company issues. This is the Bishop apartments, at the northeast corner of Garfield boulevard and Bishop street, an eighteen flat building, which was financed through a $55,000 first mortgage bond issue, since paid down to $43,900. Interest defaulted in October, 1931. Robert C. Fenner is chairman of the committee, the other members of which are: D. Avery Kimbark, Arthur C. Leedick, L. T. Kelly, and John T. Pain.

D. AVERY KIMBARK. (Walinger Photo.)

The bonds were called for and every one was deposited. With this foundation for a successful reorganization placed, titled to the property was acquired for the bondholders by the committee. A liquidation trust was then formed and the property placed in trust, with the Reliance Bank and Trust company as trustee.

Bondholder Is a Trustee.

The three trustees are: Max Karel, an owner of bonds in the Bishop apartments; John T. Pain, cashier of the Reliance State Bank and Trust company and also a member of the bondholders' protective committee, and Martin T. O'Brien, secretary of the committee. Mr. O'Brien stated yesterday that eventually the trust hopes to sell the property for the benefit of the bondholders.

A plan for the reorganization of the Walnut apartment hotel property, in Kansas City, Mo., has been adopted by the Straus Brothers Investment company bondholders' protective committee, of which Barnet L. Rosset is chairman, according to an announcement made yesterday. The issue originally was $325,000, much of which was purchased by Chicagoans. This has been reduced to $287,341. The committee states that no bonds will be accepted after May 16.

Corporation to Be Formed.

Operation of the property, consisting of a six story fireproof hotel and store building, containing ninety suites and twelve stores, shows gross income of $28,362 for nine months ending March 31, 1932. Total expenses during that period were $11,705. Net profits were $16,656, before taxes, receiver's and legal fees, etc. Before receiver's and legal fees the net income is $8,846. What the receiver and lawyers get of this $8,846 is not stated.

The reorganization calls for the formation of a new corporation. If the committee is successful in buying the property at foreclosure sale, it will assign the deed to the corporation for the benefit of the depositing bondholders, who will be the sole owners of the capital stock. The stock will be placed in a voting trust. Abraham Greenspahn, representing the largest individual bondholder, will be one of the trustees. Under the reorganization plan each bondholder will get income bonds and stock.

DIAMOND MATCH HEAD ASSAILS "FOREIGN WILES"

Foreign matches of inferior quality continue to flood the American market to the detriment of the domestic industry, W. A. Fairburn, president of the Diamond Match company, says in the company's pamphlet report mailed to stockholders yesterday.

The foreign matches are sold at ridiculously low and unwarranted prices in violation of the spirit of the American anti-dumping and tariff laws, Mr. Fairburn says. As the consumer generally pays 1 cent a box or 10 cents for a dozen boxes for such matches he does not benefit from the cheap importation, he adds.

"An important American industry and its loyal distributors," Mr. Fairburn declares, "suffer greatly from the market demoralization caused by the wiles and unprincipled procedure of certain foreigners, who violate our national anti-dumping law, repudiate in practical operation the spirit of our tariff law, and craftily ignore [and this, unfortunately, with a substantial measure of American encouragement] legislation, enacted by our congress in good faith, for the protection of free American labor, for the defense and encouragement of American industry and for the promotion of our national economic well being."

Walgreen Co. Reports Its Net Profits as $787,546

The Walgreen company yesterday reported net profits of $787,546 for the first half of its fiscal year, which ended March 31. The profit is equivalent to 78 cents a share on the 801,980 shares of common stock after provision for dividends on the preferred stocks of the company and its subsidiaries. The earnings compare with $885,984, or 80 cents a share, on common in the first half of last year. Net sales were $25,072,279 for the six months' period, against $26,061,014.

FRESH CREDITS BEING PUMPED IN MONEY MART

Reserve Banks Buy More U. S. Paper.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The federal reserve banks pumped credit into the money market at an accelerated rate in the last week. In pursuance of the easy money policy inaugurated several weeks ago, the reserve banks bought an additional $113,102,000 of government obligations in the open market and thereby released that much money to the money market.

This purchasing of government securities was the largest in the last three weeks that the policy has really been operative. It raised the average to about 100 million dollars a week, which was the amount roughly determined on for weekly purchases by the reserve authorities. The latest buying brought the reserve system's holdings of government securities up to $1,191,232,000. While turning to government obligations, the reserve banks in the last week disposed of $2,673,000 of bankers' acceptances, bringing such holdings down to $45,874,000.

Bond Buying Campaign.

The bond buying campaign of the reserve banks also has been designed to enable the member banks to sell bonds, reduce or pay off their loans at the reserve banks, and turn their funds to commercial loans. Part of this purpose is being accomplished, as the weekly statement of the reserve system shows that the member banks further reduced their borrowings by $32,699,000, bringing this item down to $531,824,000.

However, the individual statement of the big New York and Chicago banks shows that they are still reducing their commercial loans, the New York banks by $25,000,000 and the Chicago banks by $1,000,000. Both groups also reduced their loans on securities, the New York banks by $25,000,000 and the Chicago banks by $4,000,000. The New York banks increased their investment in government obligations by $9,000,000, but reduced that in other securities by $2,000,000. The Chicago banks increased their investment in government securities by $3,000,000, but reduced that in other securities by $3,000,000. The New York banks now are out of debt to the reserve bank, while the Chicago banks owe only $1,000,000.

Hoarding Declining.

Further success in the anti-hoarding campaign was indicated by the fact that federal reserve currency declined $18,192,000. Federal reserve note circulation now totals $2,526,572,000. Gold reserves of the federal reserve system declined $9,195,000 during the week, but still stand at $3,014,534,000. Total reserves receded $3,662,000 and the ratio of reserve to liabilities eased to 67.9 per cent, compared with 69.2 per cent last week. Deposits expanded $102,829,000.

There had been renewed expectations that the New York reserve bank would reduce its rediscount rate this week in furtherance of the easy money policy and following the action of the Bank of England last week. But the New York institution made no change in its 3 per cent rate, al-

Price of Corn at 30c Lowest Since Year '98

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on from start to finish in the grain markets yesterday with May corn dropping 1⅞c to a low of 30c per bu, the lowest figure at which any future has sold since September, 1898, when it was down to 29c. All deliveries of corn and rye, as well as September and December oats, sold at a new low for the season yesterday as the wave of selling by scattered longs engulfed those who believed in higher prices.

Wheat dropped as much as 3c from Wednesday's finish to 54c for May and 56¾c for July with local and eastern longs selling out persistently as the market receded and the close was at the bottom. Net losses were 2¾@3c with May 54@54⅛c; July, 56¾@56⅞c; September, 59⅛@59⅜c, and December, 62½c.

News Not a Factor.

Little attention was paid to news developments during the day, although it was generally in favor of a lower range of prices. Liquidation developed in wheat in Liverpool and futures in the English market closed 1¼c per bu lower with May at 55c or ¾c over Chicago at the time. Winnipeg was off 1⅞@2⅛c in the face of export sales estimated at around 1,000,000 bu in all positions. May at Winnipeg closed at 59¾c in Canadian funds.

Reports of marked improvement in the outlook for the winter wheat crops were received from parts of the southwest due to the recent rains and there was further precipitation over night. Jule G. Smith, a leading Fort Worth, Tex., cash handler who was in Chicago, expressed the belief that the winter wheat crop would turn out 100,000,000 bu or more in excess of the government's April estimate of 458,000,000 bu, compared with 787,000,000 bu harvested in 1931.

Thursday's decline carried the July wheat delivery to within ¼c of the inside figure of April 8, the day the government issued its sensational crop estimate after the market had closed.

Local sentiment, which was rather favorable to the buying side at the close on Thursday, was decidedly bearish yesterday when the action of the market disclosed that there was a lack of a large short interest and of aggressive support. Weather reports from the American and Canadian northwest were generally favorable with rapid progress made in seeding. The Searle Grain company of Winnipeg estimated about 10 per cent of the seeding had been completed in the three Canadian provinces by April 25.

Country Liquidates Cash Corn.

Liquidation in corn was not confined to speculative holders of futures, but also embraced farmers who apparently have started to dump their surplus grain on the market for what it will bring. Purchases of 310,000 bu were reported made to arrive yesterday at a price that netted the producer around 20c per bu at interior loading points. According to the gossip of the trade there is a large amount of cash corn still back in the country that will have to come out. Mention was made regarding the millions of bushels said to have been locked up in cribs on farms as security for loans earlier in the season. The holding back of the grain from market by this method is said to have proved very costly.

In the last three days Chicago handlers are estimated to have bought around 700,000 bu of cash corn to arrive, which was somewhat in excess of the amount sold to the east, although the demand from the latter section has been the largest in many weeks. Export demand was slow, as the Buenos Aires Argentine market

HOW NEW YORK OUSTED LONDON AS WORLD BANK

New York, April 28.—(AP)—New York retains its position as the world's principal banker, although London has made tremendous strides in the last several months. Such is the opinion of leading international bankers in Wall street.

While there is little rivalry between the two capitals for this distinction—which likewise calls for a correspondingly great degree of responsibility—the recent flow of international capital toward London has brought the question to the forefront.

London's Long Leadership.

For more than a century, London has held undisputed claim to world banking leadership. With changed conditions growing out of the war, New York rapidly moved to the front. New York's position still was further strengthened when England was forced off the gold standard, but Britain's later recovery has greatly changed the picture.

Contrary to widespread opinion, figures prepared by the department of commerce show the United States played an important rôle in international finance before the world war. In 1899, the commerce department's figures show American foreign investments totaled $460,000,000. Between 1900 and 1914, the American market absorbed additional offerings of $1,087,000,000 of foreign securities, mostly government bonds.

Over 140 Billions Absorbed.

These figures, however, were greatly surpassed in the period since 1914. It was during and after the world war that America came into leadership in the international banking field. Over $15,000,000,000 of foreign securities and investments were underwritten in America during the period 1914-1930, inclusive, the department of commerce calculates.

By groups, Europe leads in the total of American capital borrowed with $4,929,277,000; Canada is second with $3,841,693,000, and South America is third with $3,041,926,000.

A survey of the subject by the New York Trust company, states that of the individual countries, Canada is the largest borrower and is followed by Germany with $1,420,957,000, Cuba $1,066,551,000, and Argentina $807,777,000. The other countries comprising the ten largest borrowers are in the order of their size, Mexico, Chile, Great Britain, France, and Japan.

NATION'S GOLD STOCK DECREASES $200,200; POUND STERLING OFF

New York, April 28.—(AP)—A loss of $200,200 in the country's monetary stock of gold resulted from today's transactions in the metal. There was an export of $500,400 to Holland, which was partially offset by $300,200 decrease in earmark account.

Foreign exchanges were narrowly irregular today. Sterling lost ¼c net, cables closing at $3.65⅞, while French francs eased nominally. Scandinavians were mixed. Swiss francs sagged, but German marks improved 5 points. Canadian dollars were moderately firm.

HUGE NITRATE COMBINE SAID TO FACE CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 28.—A semi-official announcement that Cosach, the Chilean nitrate combine, has either bankruptcy or a 50 day moratorium to face, spread this afternoon when Alfred Houston, a director of Cosach, was known to have been discussing its affairs with the finance minister. Urgent interviews with members of Cosach in Valparaiso and cable consultations with New York appear to confirm the idea that American members demand a quick decision on the fate of Cosach.

Air Reduction First Quarter Profit $652,214

Air Reduction company reported for the quarter ended March 31 net income of $652,214, equal to 77 cents a share, compared with $1,019,040, or $1.21 a share, in the first quarter of 1931.

BETHLEHEM STEEL TO PAY ON PREFERRED

Grace Raps Foreign Competition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—In announcing that the Bethlehem Steel corporation had had a record operating loss of $3,685,769, Eugene G. Grace, its president, declared today European steel manufacturers were dumping their output into the American market below the cost of production. Thus, he said, they are "taking work right out of the hands of American wage earners."

Owing to the failure of officials at Washington to enforce the anti-dumping laws, Mr. Grace said, many departments of steel plants had shut down entirely. Foreign dumping was being carried on not only in steel but also in other products, he declared. The directors, however, declared the regular $1.75 dividend on the preferred stock. The dividend on the common was passed some time ago.

Surprised at Labor's Stand.

"I cannot understand the inactivity of our labor friends," Mr. Grace said, "who have not only failed to demand news laws protecting American manufacturers but have not insisted upon the enforcement of existing laws."

Despite foreign competition in the domestic market, which is now worse than it has been in many years, Mr. Grace said, the downward trend in the steel industry apparently has been checked and prices are holding well.

"I don't like the phrase 'hitting the bottom,' but it appears at the moment that business is no longer falling," he added. "This is the first time I have been able to make this statement in many months."

The foreign competition, Mr. Grace said, was a very serious matter, owing to the depressed condition of the trade and the low rate of steel operations in this country.

Belgian Steel Big Factor.

"The leading countries sending steel products here, in the order of their volume, are Belgium, Germany, France, Sweden, and Great Britain," Mr. Grace said. "While the low foreign exchange rates have assisted some of these countries in selling in our market, prices of some steel products are so low that it is clear that the sellers are dumping their output at lower-than-cost levels.

"After paying existing tariffs, the European sellers are able to land their products on the seaboard at such low prices that the goods are now working back into the the interior. Department of commerce figures show that 40,000 tons of steel and pig iron have been imported in March.

"The prices quoted here by Belgian sellers of steel bars would require a production cost of from $10 to $11 a ton, or about half a cent a pound. It is perfectly ridiculous to believe that they can make steel at such a price. The quotation of American producers

Insull Utility Unit Rescinds Its Dividends

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The legal question of whether a corporation can rescind a dividend declaration duly passed on by the directors arose yesterday when the Central and Southwest Utilities company notified the Chicago Stock exchange that the quarterly dividends recently authorized on the prior lien and preferred stocks have been canceled.

The company's action brought a ruling from the securities committee of the exchange that the order rescinding the dividends was improper unless the company can show that the original dividend declaration was illegal. The company will be given an opportunity to present its side, but in lieu of evidence proving that the declaration was improper the exchange will consider the payment legally authorized and payable. On this assumption the stocks will sell ex dividend on the exchange today, it was stated.

Question Purely Legal.

The question is purely a legal one and it was felt in financial circles that the dividend distribution will probably not be made.

Central and Southwest is one of the principal holding companies of the Middle West Utilities company, which went into receivership two weeks ago. Directors had taken the dividend action prior to the receivership action against the parent firm. The payments authorized were the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the $6 no par prior lien stock, $1.75 on the $7 prior lien, and $1.75 on the 7 per cent preferred. The distribution was to have been made May 16 to stockholders of record April 30.

The announcement of the company notifying the exchange of the rescinding order said that while earnings for the first quarter were less than anticipated, affairs of the company are in good shape. Conservation of cash, however, is believed in the best interest of stockholders under prevailing business conditions, the statement added.

Reacts on Market.

The company's announcement yesterday had an immediate reaction in the market where the prior lien stock tumbled 3½ points to a new low quotation of 16, while the preferred fell over 6 points to 8¼. The ruling of the exchange was not made until after the close of the market.

Directors of the National Public Service company, another holding company of the Middle West system, met yesterday but failed to consider quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks which are ordinarily declared at this time. The meeting was adjourned subject to the call of the chairman within the next ten days. National Public Service is a holding company for properties on the Atlantic seaboard and is controlled by Middle West through the National Electric Power corporation.

The Central and Southwest action contributed to the general unsettled conditions of the Chicago market yesterday. Prices generally were lower. Commonwealth Edison was hit by selling and gave up over 3 points to close below 70. Swift International shares were under pressure apparently on the strength of the prospect that Great Britain may place prohibitive tariffs on meat imports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 29.—The speculative market developed a charley horse today following its unusual exertions on the upside yesterday. Values subsided throughout the list, more than erasing the improvement recorded in the previous session.

Alibi specialists found a sufficient reason for the reversal in overnight news from Washington, chiefly the new attack in the house on the economy program. Some of the more doleful among the trading fraternity were resigned to the worst on the outlook for a sound expenditure and taxation program at the hands of congress—and on pretty much everything else as far as that is concerned.

Sell for Special Reasons.

In addition to the general feeling on fresh despondency, a number of outstanding issues were sold for special reasons and this weighed on the list as a whole. Auburn Automobile, long a speculative favorite, was under pressure of what appeared to be necessitous selling most of the day and dropped nearly 8 points to a new bear market low of 32¼. Misgivings as to the company's dividend when the board meets again is understood to be largely due to the liquidation of this issue. The first quarter earnings report of the corporation showed a net of only 4 cents a share as against $1.06 a share the year before.

Alaska Juneau ran into dirty weather and the street guessed that the pool lately so active in its behalf was backing from under. The stock has found the going increasingly difficult ever since the senate committee appointed to look into share market conditions sent out a sheaf of subpoenas a few weeks ago. One of the "big bears" called in the inquiry has been popularly regarded as the directing genius of the Juneau pool. At its close today Juneau was selling for 8¾, as compared with its 1932 high of 16⅝ and a level of 13 or so when the market inquiry started.

U. S. Steel Declines.

United States Steel gave up another point as expectation became more general that the stock, because of its recent dividend action, would be more heavily sold by investment trusts. Coco Cola dropped nearly 3 points and Eastman Kodak 4.

BETHLEHEM STEEL TO PAY ON PREFERRED

Reports Loss in the First Quarter of 1932.

Appeal to Washington.

"The American Iron and Steel institute and several manufacturers have appealed to Washington for relief, under the present anti-dumping laws, but thus far nothing has been done. I understand that a bill has been introduced into congress to adjust tariffs to depreciated foreign currency, but thus far it has received no attention.

"Foreign importations have been a steadily growing menace in recent months. At this time some of our best export markets, such as Canada, have been lost, owing to the currency situation."

The low level of steel business in the first quarter, with output for the entire industry approximating 25 per cent of capacity and the record deficit announced last Tuesday by United States Steel, had prepared the financial community for the unsatisfactory showing of Bethlehem.

Declaration of the usual distribution on the senior issue was generally expected, in view of the recent remarks of Charles M. Schwab, chairman, that he would recommend this payment at today's meeting. At that time he also indicated that the company was not earning its preferred dividend.

Unfilled orders on hand on March 31 last totaled $35,372,318, against $41,514,877 on Dec. 31 and $65,803,609 at the close of the first quarter last year. Current operations are at 22 per cent of capacity, while the average for the first quarter was 23.4 per cent, against 30 per cent in the December quarter and 50.8 per cent in the initial three months of 1931.

OTHER DIVIDEND ACTIONS

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, announced after the board meeting today, was in line with Wall street predictions. Earnings for last year held up exceptionally well, the company having earned its $4 annual dividend rate by a margin of 94 cents. That reason the usual quarterly rate on the common was regarded as secure, at least for the time being. Net of $4.94 for 1931 compared with $5.06 a share in 1930. The company reports operations on an annual basis for the calendar year, as a result earnings for the initial quarter of 1931 are not available.

The usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents were announced today on the stock of the American Chicle company.

National Steel Earns Dividend.

The National Steel corporation covered its dividend requirement by a small margin in the first quarter of this year. Net income was $592,799, equal to 27 cents a share. The stock is now on a $1 annual basis. A year ago net income was $1,926,000, or 89 cents a share. E. T. Weir, chairman, said buying of steel had increased slightly since the quarter ended and that operations were currently at a somewhat higher rate than prevailed last month.

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company lost $21,360 in 1931, contrasted with net profit of $4,886,150 in 1930.

Lehn & Fink Reduces.

A quarterly dividend of 50 cents was ordered on the stock of Lehn & Fink, indicative of a reduction of 25 cents from previous quarterly payments. Edward Plaut, president, said the company's business was holding up satisfactorily considering general conditions. It has cash on hand in excess of all liabilities, including tax reserves, with no bank loans.

United Stores corporation declared a quarterly of 81 1-3 cents on the preferred. Previously $1 quarterly was distributed.

Omission of the quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred was announced today by Follansbee Brothers.

Vulcan Detinning company has passed the quarterly dividend on the common stock due at this time. Three months ago a dividend of 50 cents was paid, prior to which the company had been paying $1 quarterly. Regular quarterly was declared on the preferred.

Directors of the International Safety Razor company took no action on the class B dividend, due at this time. Regular quarterly of 60 cents was declared on the class A stock. On March 1 a dividend of 25 cents was paid on the B.

May at 30 Cents a Bushel Recalls That Year.

Corn futures closed within a fraction of the bottom with general liquidation in evidence. Net losses were 1⅝@1¾c with May at 30½c; July, 33½@33⅝c; September, 35⅞c, and December, 36⅛@36¾c. Job lots of May corn were around ¼c under round lots.

Rye Exports Small.

While all deliveries of rye dropped to a new low for the season they failed to establish new records. May touched 37⅝c on the break and closed there. In April last year the low was 30⅝c. Net losses for the day were 2⅝@2¾c with July at 40⅝c, and September, 42⅛@42⅝c. Reports of export sales of rye of late have not been reflected in actual clearances. Official reports show no exports during the month of March while the total from July 1, 1931, to March 31, 1932, were only 56,000 bu, against 151,000 bu during the corresponding period the previous year.

Oats were affected mainly by the action of other grains and closed ⅝@⅞c lower, with May, 21⅝c; July, 22⅛c, and September, 22⅝c. Crop reports were generally favorable.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,500; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 12,000.

The largest hog receipts for Thursday since February piled into the yards yesterday and destroyed the last show of strength in the market.

Prices crashed unexpectedly to new lows, the general average going down 15c to $3.55, the lowest average in almost 33 years. The peak price at $3.90 was paid early in the day and later was considered about 10c out of line.

Offerings at all leading markets exceeded expectations, the total at the 11 points showing an increase of 22 per cent compared with a year ago and a gain of 19 per cent compared with two years ago.

Trading turned rather panicky and brought on a selling wave in midday when indications were that another liberal carryover was probable for today in face of moderately large receipts in sight for the rest of the week. This sudden reaction proved a disappointment to the bullish side of the trade and not much optimistic talk was heard yesterday. Declines for the day ranged from 10c to 25c, a big share of all classes going down 15@25c on closing rounds. Pigs and underweights were exceptionally hard to sell at the full cut. Only scattered lots of closely sorted strong weight light hogs passed $3.75, the practical top to smaller local packers, while most hogs weighing 225@300 lbs sold at $3.35@3.65. Butchers averaging 358 lbs sold at $3.30. Smooth 350@400 lb packing sows brought $2.85@2.95.

Cattle Trade Steadier.

Although lacking activity yesterday, the cattle market developed into a good steady trade with spots slightly stronger toward the close. The fact that yesterday was the last of a group of Jewish holidays which last week served to dampen enthusiasm in the weighty kosher stock, gave the market for 1,200@1,500 lb averages a better tone. No outstanding lots of heavy cattle were on hand, but several loads of choice 1,358@1,491 lb steers sold on eastern account at $7.75, the day's peak.

Only a very small share of offerings were good enough to sell above $7.00, the bulk of the crop of beef steers going at $5.25@7.00, with several lots of poorer grades downwards to $4.75. With demand for kosher cattle expanding eastern buyers are becoming more aggressive. During the first four days of the week outsiders bought 30 per cent of Chicago receipts against only 22 per cent last week.

Butcher stock dragged slowly at Wednesday's quotations, most sows selling at $3.00@4.00, with choice to prime offerings filling special orders at $4.25@4.75. The latter kinds are selling 25@50c lower than a week ago. Yearling heifers have been abundant all week and are closing mostly 50c lower than a week ago. Most steers show 25c loss for the week. Only outstanding weighty beeves are quoted steady.

California Lambs $7.25.

California sheep men are moving out their new crop spring lambs in volume, but according to reports the marketing season will be of shorter duration than in 1931 because of the condition of pastures. Quality of offerings on the markets, however, is fully up to a year ago. Approximately 3,000 sold here yesterday at $7.25. So far this season 104,145 spring lambs have come out of the coast state, more than 70,000 of them having been shipped out during last week. Native spring lambs bought for the Greek Easter brought $8.00, with a few outstanding lots at $8.50@9.00. The market for aged wool lambs turned sticky soon after the start and finished slightly lower, with the peak at $6.75. Aged sheep continued dull. Best light ewes sold at $2.00@2.25 and heavy stock at $1.00.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 2.63c for spots, with no sales reported. Early steadiness in futures which carried active positions 1 to 3 points net higher were lost later, with the market closing net unchanged on all positions except September, which was 1 point lower. Trading was of exceptionally small proportions and prices were subject to small orders either way, with the day's transactions aggregating only 3,050 tons. Prices follow:

UHLMANN RAPS FARM BOARD IN TALK TO DEALERS

Richard F. Uhlmann, grain exporter, just returned from a tour of European countries, said yesterday to the Chicago Association of Grain Commission Merchants that England's abandonment of the gold basis had reduced business on the Liverpool grain exchange.

Trading on the Liverpool exchange was only active for a period of ten minutes or so after the Chicago Board of Trade daily opening, Uhlmann said, and Liverpool had become more of a hedging market for Argentine wheat than for American, "due to farm board policies and the fact that our market was not on a shipping parity."

"The sooner the farm board surpluses are reduced and restrictions in the United States removed," said Uhlmann, "the sooner will a more normal business take place to restore economic equilibrium such as we had in the past. This can be had again only when the governments of the world turn back to private ownership and management the handling of grain."

OCTOBER EGGS FIRMER

October eggs moved back ¼c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, going to within ½c of the year's high. Other egg deliveries were unchanged to ¼c higher. Butter was quiet, unchanged to ¼c higher. Heavy buying came into October eggs shortly after the opening and the market held firm on covering and new buying throughout the day, despite increased pressure on the rise. The continued increase in the shortage of holdings compared with last year and lighter receipts brought in the buying. Butter news was slightly improved, but new buyers were lacking in the distant deliveries, covering carrying April fresh forward. Sales: Butter, 24 cars; eggs, 119 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 2 cars.
